Playhouse To Give 3rd Play July 17-20

The Garrett County Playhouse will present "Let Sleeping Wives Lie," for its third week's production at the summer theatre on Beckman's peninsula Wednesday, July 17, through Saturday, July 20.

This is a modern comedy of errors by Harold Brooke and Kay Bannerman. Set in the hotel Bedford where the electric sign is the only thing not working overtime, the play is termed a "delightful mess" fom start to finish. Innocent situations seem to take on the darkest of hues.

For the balance of this week the playhouse will present "Spiders' Web," by Agatha Christie.

All productions this year are playing four nights each week, Wednesday through Saturday. Performances begin at 8:30, at the Blue Barn.

SAVE THIS PAPER! IT'S YOUR PREMIUM LIST FOR 1974 GARRETT COUNTY FAIR

Welcome To The 1974 Garrett County Agricultural Fair

The Officers and Directors of the Garrett County Fair take great pleasure in extending to you a most cordial invitation to exhibit, participate in, and attend the 1974 Fair.

We would like to have you and your friends be with us this year; whether or not you have been with us in the past. It is through your interest and loyal support that the Garrett County Fair has grown, and again we thank you for your continued patronage at the Fair, and your cooperation in making it a grand success.

The Fair is a never ending educational project for young people as well as adults. It is a learning process that goes on and on.

The Fair is an excellent method of realizing social benefits and good times during our five days of activity.

We are very happy with the progress the Garrett County Fair has made during the past sixteen years. It has progressed far beyond our expectations, when we were planning to organize a Fair. This has been due to the cooperation and work of the people in Garrett County as a whole.

We would like at this time to thank the advertisers whose advertising appears in the Premium List, and the Commercial exhibitors. Without their cooperation this fine book and the Fair would not be possible, and we acknowledge their assistance by taking the opportunity to urge you to patronize them whenever possible.

We express our sincere appreciation to the 4-H Clubs, FFA Clubs, Farm Groups, Retail Merchants, and the County Commissioners for their support.

Certainly last but not least we owe so very much to the Maryland State Fair Board for its continued financial support to our Fair.

Robert L. Glotfelty, President

A good jelly made of fruit juice is clear, sparkling, free from crystals or sediment, has tender texture and natural color and flavor of fresh fruit. When turned from glass, it is firm enough to hold its shape, but quivers, and is tender enough to cut or break easily, leaving clean, clear, sharp cleavage.

I. Jams, Butters, Marmalades, Conserve — $2.50 $2.00 $1.50

Jams are usually made of one fruit, crushed or jammed together into a mass of an even, soft consistency thick enough to spread easily or be divided into portions. Juices are not separated from fruits and are of a jelly like consistency.

Conserves are a jam-like product made of two or more fruits. They often contain nuts or raisins. They are made of very small whole or pieces of fruit cooked or jammed into a mixture of an even, soft consistency, the liquid jelly-like in character. Name and flavor of the conserve is that of the dominant fruit.

Fruit butters are smooth, even, fine grained mixtures of medium soft consistency, without seeds or small pieces of fruit and with no evidence of juice as a separate liquid. Butters are less sweet than jams, preserves, marmalades, or conserve—usually about ½ to ¾ lb. sugar to 1 lb. of fruit.

1. Apple Butter
2. Pear Butter
3. Peach Jam
4. Grape Conserve and/or marmalade
5. Blackberry Conserve

Preserves are made usually of one fruit, but more than one may be used. The fruit, whole or in large pieces, is cooked in a syrup until clear and transparent, tender, firm, crisp, and well plumped. The shape of fruit is retained. Juice is of a thick syrupy consistency completely surrounding the fruit. In general, ¾ lb. sugar to 1 lb. of fruit is used.

J. Preserves — $2.50 $2.00 $1.50

1. Apple
2. Strawberry
3. Cherry
4. Apple — Peach

FFA FFA

The FFA Creed

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds — achievements won by the present and past generations of agriculturists; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm, or to be engaged in other agricultural pursuit, is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of agricultural life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of progressive agriculturists to serve our own and the public interest in producing and marketing the product of our toil.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so — for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; In being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions of our national life and I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

Who Has Troubles?...

Many people believe that America has troubles. Well, it does but what is a nightmare to us would be Utopia to many parts of the world. At least that is what a Warner and Swasey company advertisement in the U. S. News and World Report said a few months ago.

They gave out these figures. In Japan the best beef costs $5 a pound. Pollution in Tokyo is so bad that traffic policemen take an "oxygen break" every hour—three minutes of breathing bottled oxygen; their factories produce ten times the industrial waste per square mile of those in U. S. Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Denmark, and Finland have worse inflation rates than we do and controls have failed. Gasoline in one country costs $1.00 or more a gallon.

In Brazil less than half the cities have high schools. In Cuba per capita income is down to $357 per year. In the Congo prices have risen 90 percent and wages 40 percent. In mainland China workers live in huge apartments where 6 to 12 families share one kitchen. We could go on and on.

This country has only 6 percent of the world's population but we produce and consume 50 percent of the world's goods and services. We are better fed, better housed, better educated with better medical care than virtually any other people on earth.

That doesn't mean we should be complacent. We'd better get back to being the productive people we once were, when we were safe and genuinely prosperous and reasonably happy. Morality in all areas of government would be a good start.

Annual Fair Set Aug. 5 - 10

Numerous Features Planned For 18th Annual Event At McHenry

Livestock judging, arts and crafts exhibits, 4-H and FFA projects, food and clothing displays, commercial booths, parades, baby beef sale, and selection of a farm queen are some of the attractions for the eighteenth annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair, to be held at the fairgrounds at McHenry August 5 to 10.

An interdenominational vesper service again will officially open the festivities on Sunday evening, August 4, at 8 o'clock.

A farm queen will be selected on Tuesday evening, August 6, during Farm Bureau Day. Other features include a pet show on Wednesday, August 7. Most of the judging will take place on Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday, with the annual Farmers' parade on Thursday evening at 6:30.

The 4-H and FFA baby beef judging will take place also on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock with the sale of the baby beefs taking place Saturday evening. A tractor pulling contest will take place Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

A 4-H dress revue is scheduled for Friday evening at 7 o'clock, with a horse pulling contest at 6:30 that same day.

Special entertainment is being provided. Wednesday Bobby Gallion and Patty Paige show from the West Virginia Jamboree will present a program, while on Friday evening there will be the Mt. Top Promenaders and a barber shop quartet, the Messengers. The Valley Four and Linda, a gospel group, will perform on Saturday.

Frankie's Amusements, from Washington, Pa., will be present the entire week, for its sixteenth consecutive year. There will be a special Children's Day on Wednesday and Friday when children may ride from 2 to 4 p.m., for $2.

Several county organizations will again have food distribution centers on the grounds including Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, Oakland Rotary Club, Kitzmiller Lions, Youth for Christ, Crellin Community, Junior Woman's Civic Club, and possibly others.

Admission to the grounds will be 75 cents for adults with children under twelve being admitted free. Three $25 Savings bonds will be given away each evening at 10 o'clock.

The annual premium list was published last week as a supplement to The Republican.

Seeks Seat In House of Delegates

Melvin S. Sloan, 57, Lonaconing, who served in the House of Delegates from Allegany county for the past six years, filed as a candidate tor that office on the Republican ticket, subject to the September 10 primary election.

He served 14 years as a member of the Allegany county Republican State Central committee. He is a member of the

Beef Show, Sale A Fair Highlight

The 4-H and FFA Baby Beef Show and Sales will be a highlight of the 1974 Garrett County Fair, it is predicted.

The Show will take place Thursday, August 8, at 8:00 p.m. with Ken Shifflet Extension Agent Agricultural Science, Frederick County, as the official judge.

Some 55-60 Baby Beefs will be offered for sale Saturday night, August 10, at 8:00 p.m. This Sale is under the supervision of the Garrett County Livestock Association, according to James A. McHenry. Mr. McHeory reports that the animals will be of high quality and hopes that the buyers of '73 will continue to support the program.

In 1973 the grand champion exhibited by Nancy Teets was purchased by the Garrett National Bank at $2.00 per pound. The reserve champion exhibited by Debbie Friend was purchased by the First National Bank at $1.85 per pound. Last year was an exceptionally high year with the average of 89.6 cents per pound for the 4-H and FFA Baby Beef, Mr. McHenry said.

Anyone interested in purchasing a Baby Beef should plan to attend the Sale or contact Mr. McHenry, Extension Agent-Agriculture at the Extension Office. Baby Beefs will be on exhibit throughout the Fair for the buyers' inspection.

Bob has been awarded a total of $189.50 for his 10 award winning ideas. He is the first Oakland employee to have 10 accepted. The Oakland Suggestion System from September 15, 1973, to date has awarded over $2,500. to employees.

Bank Resources In County Over $98 Million

The two banks of Garrett county, with their various branch offices have shown resources of more than $98 million in statements of condition appearing in last week's issue of The Republican from the First National Bank of Oakland, and the Garrett National Bank in Oakland.

The First National bank statement shows resources of $58,208,-616.60, a gain of eight million over the statement of July a year ago. It showed deposits of $51,159,561.97, a surplus of $3,064.50, and undivided profits of $519,650.57.

The Garrett National statement showed resources of $40,-603,836.19, a gain of four million over the statement of a year ago. There were deposits of $36,182-734.58, a surplus of $1,505,575, and undivided profits of $489,-098.30.

The First National bank has offices in McHenry, Friendsville, Grantsville, Westernport and Barton. The Garrett National has branch offices in Accident, Bloomington, Kitzmiller, LaVale, and Midland.

The Liberty Trust, Cumberland, also has a branch office in Grantsville, but resources are not broken down to show the figures for that branch.

Local Bus System Available To All

The Garrett Bus system which will go into effect in the county probably in mid-October, will be a public transporation system it was revealed by Gary Mullich, director.

He said the most frequent comment received had been that the bus system would be only for senior citizens. Although the bus system is being sponsored by the Garrett County Commission on Aging, it will be for the public, he pointed out.

Anyone desiring to ride the buses may do so. The Garrett bus system has opened an office at 202 E. Alder street in Oakland, with phone number 331-3986, and any questions or comment concerning the development of the system may be sent to this address.

Mr. Mullich said that the buses were to be leased from the State Department of Transporation.

School Personnel Changes Are Noted

School personnel changes were noted at the regular July 11 meeting of the County Board of Education.

The board accepted the resignation of Melvin A. Metzger as instructional supervisor; and William Frost, driver education teacher and football coach at Southern High school. Mr. Frost accepted a position in an Ohio school.

In other personnel action the request for a leave of absence by Mrs. Sandra Miers, Center street school, was rescinded.

Three principals were appointed: John A. Rickman, half-time teaching principal at Bloomington Elementary. Gary Galloway, full time teaching principal, Kitzmiller elementary; and Asa M. McCain, Jr., full time teaching principal at Crellin Elementary. Dr. Buser, county superintendent of schools, also announced the transfer of Foster A. Riggs from Dennett Road, to the teaching principalship at Loch Lynn elementary.

Teacher appointments made by the board include: Inez P. Rizer, Elmer Redinger, Jr., Accident; Paula A. Arbogast, Mrs. Carol C. McLaughlin, Mrs. Rosalee A. Freeman, Center Street; Mrs. Esther L. Yoder, Mary L. Carder, Friendsville; Mrs. Edna Wonderly, Swan Meadow; Helen M. Chaney, Mrs. Linda W. Garris, Southern High.

In other action the board adopted an administrative handbook for non-certificated personnel, the first of its kind to be developed by the county school system. Lewis Domenick, instructional supervisor, indicated that a number of other teachers had been offered contracts to fill most of the remaining vacancies and that the vacancies were being filled as quickly as possible.

Dr. Buser reviewed procedural steps taken by the staff prior to his recommending to them teachers for their approval in the county schools.

Garrett Will Host Soil Conservation Meeting July 24-26

The Garrett County Soil Conservation District will host the Annual Meeting of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors July 21-26 at the Village Inn, Deep Creek Lake.

Approximately 200 District Supervisors and their families will be attending from the 23 districts in Maryland. Highlighting the activities will be a Chicken Barbecue served by the Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions Club and a tour of conservation measures in Garrett County.

The Supervisors will honduct their business sessions, and hold special committee meetings on the various aspects of conservation of the natural resources. An Awards Banquet will be held Thursday at the Village Inn.

The Garrett District is under the chairmanship of Robert O. Glotfelty with Harry Hummel as Vice Chairman; Claude Wagner, Treasurer; and James McHenry, Secretary. Walter Margroff, George Bishoff, and Marvin Kolb are the other Supervisors.

The wives of the supervisors will serve as official hostesses for the session. Special "do it yourself" tours will be outlined. The Garrett District will provide each family with a sample of Garrett County maple syrup as a favor.

Early enrollment indicates this to be the largest State meeting held in many years, according to Mr. McHenry.

Permit Sought For Dam Across Muddy Creek

The Piney Mountain corporation, known as Youghiogheny Mountain club, has applied to the Water Resources administration for a permit to construct a dam across Muddy Creek, two miles upstream from Muddy Creek Falls in the Swallow Falls State forest, and a public hearing on this application will be held Saturday, July 20, in the Garrett Community college auditorium in McHenry beginning at 10 p.m.,

An advertisement concerning the application and notice of hearing appeared in last week's issue of The Republican, and will appear again this week on one of the legal pages.

Purpose of the dam is to create a 50-acre lake for recreational purposes as a central feature of the private resort community.

Written statements for or against the granting of this permit may be sent, prior to the hearing, to the Water Resources administration in Annapolis and written or oral statements may also be presented at the hearing.

Whether or not Muddy Creek Falls and the Youhiogheny river would be in jeopardy, will be discussed at the hearing to which interested citizens are being urged to attend.

Arrangements For Fiddlers' Contest Are Now Complete

All arrangements for the tenth annual Old Time Fiddlers' Contest to be held at the town park in Friendsville on Saturday evening, July 20th, have been completed, it was reported by the Friendsville Rotory club which is sponsoring the event. A rain date will be Saturday, July 27.

Contestants participating are to report at the stage by 7:30 for positive registration. The contest will begin at 8 o'clock.

Admission will be $1 for adults and high school students, and 50 cents for elementary students. For persons wishing to spend the afternoon in the park chicken barbecue dinners will be available through the Friendsville fire company.

As in previous years the Friendsville string band and square dancers will entertain during intermission. Refreshments will be available through the Firemen's Ladies' Auxiliary

WFIIB radio station, Frostburg, will furnish the sound system and master of ceremonies. Net proceeds will go toward the betterment of the community, according to Ward Livengood, chairman,

Direct Dialing To Be Available By June Of 1976

The C & P. Telephone Company has anoounced that more modern long distance service, Direct Distance Dialing, will be made available to customers in Garrett County in mid 1976. Customers will then be able to dial most long distance calls themselves. The direct dialed calls are to be switched through equipment located at Cumberland.

At that time, the operator forces now at Oakland will be consolidated with those at Cumberland. This consolidation will permit greater efficiency and economy in providing telephone service to customers in Garrett County, officials point out.

"The project is part of a Company-wide effort to take advantage of the latest technology," explained Frank H. Eberly, Jr., C&P manager. "Because we will have the ability to centralize our equipment and forces, we'll be able to hold down the cost of our operations—and thus hold down the basic cost of telephone service."

"As always when we have a change in operations," he said, "we will do everything we possibly can to see that each affected employee has a job at C & P. This is of special concern to us as we plan in advance for these new procedures."

The location of the present operator office in Oakland will be used for more call-handling equipment, making another costly building addition unnecessary.

A County History Is Among Items Discussed At Meet

The writing of a Garrett County History and adoption of a memorial of the Bicentennial for public sale were among the subjects discussed at a meeting held Sunday of the Garrett County Bicentennial Committee at Garrett Community College.

The meeting was held under the leadership of B. O. Aiken, Chairman.

Bids Opened For Three Schools

Three construction companies sent bids to the Garrett County Board of Education for construction of the Southern Middle and Broadford Elementary Schools on Broadford Road.

When the bids were opened at 3 p.m. Tuesday, July 16, Baltimore Contractors, of Baltimore, was seen to have the low base of $6,493,000.

The Board, after reviewing the bids, is recommending to the Interagency Committee for Public School Construction that that bid be accepted.

Total bid amounted to $6,505,-000, including the $12,000 for an alternate plan, desired by the Board, which includes surface paving of an access road to the parking lot.

Other contractors submitting bids were George Construction and Carl Belt Construction, both of Cumberland.

Formal approval of the bid is contingent upon approval of the Inter-Agency Committee which could come by August 5.

The bid is for general construction of the buildings, and does not include monies for movable equipment.

Friendsville School

Bids were opened at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Board office for construction of Friendsville School in Frost Park in that town.

Low base bid was submitted by Jackard Company, Inc, of Bedford, Pa., whose bid was $1,662,000. Their bid will be submitted to the Inter-Agency Committee on School Construction for approval.

Bids for alternates to the actual school construction, such as site and utility work outside the property line; a covered outdoor instruction platform; kindergarten play area and playground apparatus, were also offered by the various companies which submitted estimates.

County Tax Bills Show An Increase Over Last Year

County real estate tax bills were mailed out last week in the number of 14,917, an increase of 679 over last year, according to Mrs. Arzella Parsons, County Treasurer.

The county real estate assessment is $74,279,548. The total tax collected for the county should be $2,027,837.25, with the state receiving $119,461.17. These figures may vary slightly due to discounts and old age credits.

If no tax bill has been received, the property owner should contact the County Treasurer's office or the Assessment office.

Mrs. Parsons wishes to call attention to those claiming old age or disability credits, as to the method of arriving at the amount of tax due. These credits are to be deducted from the total tax amount. The discounts are then calculated on this balance, not the total tax amount.

Personal property, railroads and public utilities tax bills have not as yet been mailed.

Other Business Conducted By County Commissioners

Appointment of James E. George to serve as Solid Waste Management Bureau supervisor was just one of several items of business conducted at the regular weekly meeting of the County Commissioners on Monday.

Mr. George was selected from a list of five candidates presented to the commissioners by the Merit System board. Mr. George will be responsible for implementing the solid waste management plan made possible through the Appalachian Regional commission grant which was awarded to the county last week. The bureau will be located on a temporary basis in the McLaughlin building at 202 E. Alder street, Oakland.

In other activity the commissioners announced that the Shade Hollow road would be closed to through traffic for a four month period starting July 19, due to construction on the National Freeway. The commissioners approved the closing on a temporary basis at their regular weekly meeting.

Jobs to be Funded

The commissioners developed a list of jobs which will be funded under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act from the U.S. Department of Labor. This county is one of four western Maryland counties which have joined in a sonsortium to establish temporary jobs which will be able to tram personnel for full time employment. Washington county is serving as the prime sponsor county since it has a population of more than 100,000. To be eligible for these funds Garrett county had to join with Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties. Commissioners said it was anticipated that this county would receive at least $79,000 for the Public Employees Program section of the Comprehensive Manpower Training Act. Other programs include Operation Mainstream NYC (Neighborhood Youth Corps) in school and out of school. Funding for these programs should be available to the county in August.

Tax Credits Available

Tax credit applications for the elderly available in the court house at the County Commissioners' office or county treasurer's office and at banks throughout the county. To be eligible the applicant must be 65 or older and or permanently disabled and have a total gross income of all persons residing in the dwelling of less than $5,000

Application must be made before a tax credit can be issued. The sooner tax credits are received the less delay will be caused for the recipient.

Paving Still Ahead

Earl E. Opel, chairman of the county roads department, announced that the overlay paving schedule was still ahead of schedule, having 15 miles of road finished. A paving program usually consists of finishing 30 miles of road a summer. It is expected that 32 to 40 miles of road will be completed this summer depending on the weather, he declared.

Vacation Cut Short

A Mt. Lake Park family of four was taken to the Hancock county Memorial hospital, Greenfield, Ind., Sunday morning for treatment after their car in which they were riding with camper, rolled down an embankment on I-70, just west of the Knightstown exit.

They were identifed as Mr and Mrs. Eugene R. Friend, and two daughters, Carolyn and Linda, of 113 E. Second avenue

They were on the second day of a two weeks vacation to western states, at 9:30 a.m., when a tractor trailer passed them at a high rate of speed causing their camper to go out of control. Car and camper rolled over several times down an embankment.

They were taken to a hospital and treated. There were no broken bones but all four suffered multiple cuts and bruises. They were released to a motel in Greenfield to recuperate and wait for transportation home. Their little dog, Trixie, was the only one to be unhurt.

The auto and camper were considered a total loss.

The Presidency

Little attention has been given by one of the basic concerns of Americans who are opposed to impeachment of the President. They are very concerned about the possibility of the United States following in the path of the Latin countries whose presidents are ousted on the basis of a political whim.

In the 19th century Lord Macauley warned that the U.S. Constitution was all sail and no anchor. Unquestionably this nation suffers from many political and social instabilities. To impeach a president elected by the people, in the judgment of many citizens, would introduce a new and extremely dangerous degree of instability. If impeachment were accomplished in the case of Richard Nixon, future presidents of the United States would be vulnerable to ouster by a combination of a dominant, opposing political party and media elements which regard themselves as a fourth branch of government. The will of the people, as expressed in a presidential election could be thwarted by an unholy alliance of ideologies and image-makers.

There is a very real danger that impeachment may proceed on spurious grounds. A President's use of rough language in private talks with his assistants certainly does not constitute a high crime of misdemeanor. The late President Harry Truman was notorious for his salty language, but no one suggested that he be removed from office because of his use of profanity.

Be that as it may, no American president has been removed by the impeachment process. The Congress and the people have been well aware of the peril in setting a precedent. Americans have tolerated presidential excesses rather than tamper with the stability of the institution of the Presidency.

While many citizens sincerely believe that the impeachment process should be pursued other citizens are increasingly aware of the lynch mob hysteria involved in the impeachment movement. Indeed the public, which is exposed to endless accusations against the President, receives a grossly inadequate account of the frenzied campaign against Mr. Nixon.

The networks, for example, manage to convey the idea that the good guys, the guys in the white hats, form the spearhead of the campaign against the President. The television commentators who are so emotionally involved in the campaign against Mr. Nixon, don't report the hardcore radical factor in the drive for impeachment.

One wonders how many Americans know that on April 27, thousands of radicals, shouting "Jail To The Chief" and "Throw The Bum Out" marched down Pennsylvania Avenue in the nation's capitol. A contingent of several hundred broke from the impeachment rally and hurled rocks and bottles through the windows of the Justice Department.

This turbulent rally was sponsored by the National Committee To Impeach Nixon. Other groups on hand included the Youth International Party (YIP) Youth Against War and Fascism, the United Farmworkers the Attica Brigade and the Patty Hearst Street Brigade—all far left radical groups.

Among the speakers at the impeachment rally was David Dellinger, who has been a leader in revolutionary causes for years. "Impeachment is biding fair to become the issue that unites the movement again," said revolutionary spokesman Dellinger.

For once, Mr. Dillinger was right. Impeachment is uniting all the radical-revolutionary groups. Indeed these groups, as in the case of the anti-Vietnam War protests of the 1960s, trigger protests throughout the radio-tib world and establish propaganda themes that are picked up by many innocent individuals who would not knowingly associate with far left elements.

The active interest of the Communist Party in the establishment of the impeachment precedent is not well known. Yet Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party, USA, has written "The impeachment of Nixon as an individual is, of course, very important. But in many ways it is a secondary matter. What matters most is the organization of a broad people's movement . . . It is the key link in the process of achieving a new political alignment of forces."

Unfortunately, this component of the impeachment campaign isn't being reported in depth. The network commentators are too busy taking turns reading excerpts from the presidential transcripts to do the reportorial job they should be doing. It is tragic, of course, that media forces in the Northeast deny vital information to the American people on a key aspect of the drive to impeach the President.

Before allowing themselves to be caught up in the lynch mob spirit, Americans need to ask themselves some basic questions about the impeachment demand. They need to ask, for example, who stands to benefit from a weakening of the Presidency and the introduction of more instability into our political system? Not the American people, certainly. The only beneficiaries of a weakening and destabilization of the U.S. are those movements and regimes that want the United States to become a crippled giant.

Listen, Americans!

America is in the midst of a running tide of Christianity and Patriotism. It is genuine. It is not a new Reformation. The three TV networks centered in New York and affecting the thinking and action of the American people appear to be systematically involved in pushing the rising tide along. They have stirred the inherent faith in God and country residing at the grass roots of America and it's not likely this time to be turned off.

The movement toward God and Christ, toward patriotism and away from a Godless world government under socialism cannot be killed. The networks, as I see it, have contrived to call attention to themselves with an all-out "Madison Avenue" shaped crusade for God and country. Their true objective would seem to be clear: to give the TV networks news departments a "good smell" while they keep up their biased condemnation of America's friends and support Communists in their "work of liberation" inside the U.S.A. As an example, the network news departments continue to support the aims and activities of the Communists in Vietnam and other areas where "wars of liberation" are active or planned.

Meantime these things are happening and being reported objectively by the other programs on TV:

John Wayne, once the villain of all liberals and the victim of biased news handling, now is in the limelight with the blessing of various TV programs. His appearance riding in the back of an automobile to the cheers of the otherwise snobbish Princeton undergradnates and his staunch speech for God and country to the Princetonians in their home lair was a sight that cannot be forgotten and it attracted millions of fence-sitters throughout the nation.

One of the Merv Griffin show episodes, in the middle of the afternoon, on which was featured Virginia Graham, who has had a women's TV chat show for years. Dale Evans, wife of Roy Rogers, who is spending a good deal of her life in efforts to build up faith among Americans for God and to reawaken patriotism, and a well-known actress, in blue-jeans and mannish attire who spoke for the non-believers. Dale Evans was in the middle of her story giving her reasons why she herself had had a rebirth of faith, when Merv Griffin broke in and said, "I've got to go along with the other side." Virginia Graham gave Griffin the back of her hand—and good. "I'm glad I have the chance here before this big TV audience to tell the people just what your're doing. You, Mr. Griffin, are running a propaganda show for non-believers." She then told of her bout with cancer in which faith in God brought her through. She said that Dale Evans had had the same experience. She turned to the non-believer, the celebrity dressed in blue jeans. "If you'd take off the pants and put on a skirt and be what you really want to be—a woman—and quit running with the 'down with Christ' crowd in women's lib, I'd be the first to embrace you. But now you are a frustrated woman trying to halt the rising tide of faith."

Five or six of the "gold records" presented by the record album companies (the major ones are owned by the TV networks) to singers whose songs on faith have sold more than a million copies, have gone to such celebrities as Jim Nabors (Gomer Pyle of the TV series) for his dramatic "The Lord's Prayer;" to Tennessee Ernie Ford; to a former "Rock" music star for his widely acclaimed "I Believe," and to others for similar calls to faith. All have saturated the network shows.

Project To Trap Gypsy Moth Begun

A project to trap the leaf-eating gypsy moth has been launched throughout Maryland. Traps will be set out in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The USDA will set out cup type traps in a three mile grid system in the three counties. The Maryland Department of Agriculture's traps, of larger types will be set in the already identified infested counties of Harford, Cecil and Kent as well as Baltimore, Queen Anne's and Anne Arundel.

Male moths are to be attracted by the traps which are treated with a synthetic sex attractant. Reason for trapping the male moth is that they can fly and the female can't . . Traps will remain through August . .

People finding any of the traps hanging from trees are asked not to disturb them. In cases of the pesticide leaded traps, a warning label is applied.

The American Legion Speaks Out

The perennial Issue of the U.S. defense budget is heating up in Washington. One voice that we think should be heard from on the issue is that of the American Legion, a group that has represented American servicemen from World War I through the War in Vietnam.

In an interview with Philip C. Clarke of the American Security Council, broadcast recently on the Mutual Radio Network, the Legion's director of National Security and Foreign Relations, James Wilson, came down strongly on the side of a stronger U.S. defense effort.

"We saw what the price of unpreparedness was," said Wilson, "It was paid for by the blood, sweat, and tears in World War I and later. We saw this same lesson repeated after World War I, after World War II, after Korea, and now we're seeing it happen again after Vietnam. Now, why the people that advocate unilateral disarmament gain such an upper hand, I have no way of knowing."

Wilson continued: "We must maintain a viable negotiating position, militarily, from which we can seek the grounds for a continuing and lasting peace with the Soviet Union, which is the principal protaganist in the international community. We know, and we hope the general public knows, that the Soviet Union, despite SALT I, has continued to develop new weapons systems in practically every area, both strategic and the conventional systems.

"The United States must at least keep within reasonable distance. We, as an organization, would urge military superiority."

We find the American Legion's position persuasive. History teaches sorry lessons about the awful price of being militarily unprepared. The United States will indeed be treading on dangerous soil if we don't, in Wilson's words, keep within "reasonable distance" of the Soviet Union.—U.S. Press Association.

Lakes Historic Sites To Be Recorded

In view of the upcoming 50th anniversary of Deep Creek Lake, and the U.S. Bicentennial, the Deep Creek Lake Business association recently formed an historic attractions committee, headed by Jim Michaels and Ivan Rowe. The committee will research and record little known historic sites having potential as visitor and tourist attractions in the Deep Creek Lake area. The survey findings will be submitted to the County Commissioners, according to Donald Carstens, association president, with recommendations for promotional development.

Child Development Program Aids Young

Garrett County Community Action has a program, "Child Development," that is geared to help pre-school children grow mentally and emotionally to their highest potential. It is funded through federal monies and has three components, home visits, mobile van and a center at Bradley Manor.

The program is run partially by the Child Development Policy council, a decision making body of nine patents, two community members and three from public agencies. The public agency group consists of social services, a doctor from the Health Department, and a man from the Board of Education.

The Policy Council decides on issues, hiring, expenditures, and helps solve programs about the program. The council meets the second Tuesday of each month at the Community college conference room at 7:30. Meetings are open to the public.

Sun Or Shade

Irving Stone's biography of Michelangelo portrays the interweaving of the artist's life and that of Cossima de Medici. His living had a bejeweled, profound effect upon hers, much as the sun or shade above a plant determines its rate and direction of greatest growth. Although their acquaintance began early with complementary personalities, their lives were separated, but each continually recalled the other, and as her life was ending, Cossima told him simply, "I have always, felt your presence in the world."

What does your presence mean to others? When they glance out tu see you coming in, do they rejoice or inwardly sigh that you will occupy their time? Do they see your smile, even when it is invisible, as on the phone, or do they predict a talk that is pessimistic? I recall one day when telling a person how I had learned from the day's activities, that I was told in reply the cliche about "the pleasure was all mine," but at that time, and even now, I know what my presence did as the capillary action of a common interest had overjoyed the individual.

Accepting yourself, with no pretense, is surely the best way ot make someone else experience pleasure in your company. The insurance investigator was very formal until I mentioned Grantsville and he remembered his first Garrett County blizzard; then we delved into our home backgrounds and agreed that "Maryland has it all." Our barriers had then evaporated and we parted congenially, the investigated as friendly as the investigator!

The foster father of Christ is a preeminent example of hiding oneself, yet remaining in the picture of our minds as one inseparable part of that special family. Debating upon the merits of Mary at their betrothal, finding the cave in the hillside, sheltering daily the life which was his own example, these aspects of St. Juseph's life move away from us, but we know that the reality of the story is there because of his unrecorded goodness behind the scenes.

Goethe, so full of German philosophy, says that "A man's foibles are what makes him lovable." Who do you know who is always late, has a jackass laugh, exaggerates his stories, or gets going on his favorite subject before he can sit? Yet when you cunjure up your vision of him at mention of his name, he is there with his faults as well as virtues, isn't he? Seldom do we allow ourselves to point out foibles after a man has just passed on, but his entire personality remains with us as an entirety, nevertheless. Adlai Stevenson's eulogist, Dean Rusk, said of him at the time of the United Nations memorial service in his honor, "His universality did not rest upon his being a prince among men, but upon his being a plain man among princes." And even so it is with ordinary people who make no marks upon destiny. They have made sun or shade for the lives they have touched.

Englander Gives Play Review At Garrett College

This past Tuesday evening Theater V presented the stage production "House of Blue Leaves" at Garrett Community College McHenry. A review is presented here by C. W. Englander local pharmacist.

Combining singing talent with seasoned acting ability, Gordon Gray performed well as the aging tin pan alley composer seeking fame.

Mrs. Roberta Callahan portrayed the role of Bananas, the confused, mentally deteriorating wife of the composer. Mrs. Deborah Littleton-Smith, who is now residing in Oakland, played Bunny. Scott Walldee was particularly effective in the eerie role of Ronnie.

The play was one of several which have been presented by two groups of Theater V actors and actresses at GCC, Briar Hill Playhouse north of Uniontown, Pa. and Allegany Community College, Cumberland, sponsored by the Regional and Educational Development Association. Bill Robinson is directing the efforts to bring theater and musical entertainment to Garrett County.

A new play is presented each Tuesday evening at McHenry. Next will be "Bell, Book and Candle."

RECEDA is also offering Saturday evening musical entertainment, presenting the Westminster Festival Choir the Muhlenberger Jazz Trio, and Lin Biviano Jazz and Orchestra.

Installed were Gerald Friend, president; Earl George, vice-president; Sharon Loar, corresponding secretary; Carol Friend, recording secretary; Betty Wilson, treasurer; Doris Howell, assistant treasurer; Brenda Friend, historian; Louise and Delores Friend, chaplains.

Gets Scholarship

Miss Pamela K. Sharps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharps of Oakland, has accepted an honor scholarship from Bridgewater College in Bridgewater, Va., and will be a member of the freshman class in September. To be eligible for this scholarship a student must rank in the top ten percent of his or her high school class and have commensurate college board scores. She is a graduate of Southern High School, Oakland.

No Increase Seen In School Lunches At Present Time

The County Board of Education announced at the July 11 meeting that it felt an increase in lunch costs beginning in September may not be necessary. Mr. William Watson, Supervisor of Cafeterias, had indicated that the reimbursement rate of some lunches would be higher next year and that during the past school year nearly all of the cafeterias in the county had operated in the black. The Board decided that should it become necessary to raise the price of lunches this announcement would be made during the 1974-75 school year. The school lunch price continuing in September will be 35 cents to students and 45 cents to adults.

Dr. Jerry Ryscavage, Director of Administrative Services, presented a report to the Board on steps the Senate Department of Education is taking to implement programmed budgeting in all school systems of the state. He pointed out problems this would create in the County schools and for other school systems of the state. Board members asked the superintendent to express these concerns to the State Department of Education and to keep them informed of future activity in this area.

Albert Ringer presented a progress report on the Career Educaion program in the County schools. The report indicated the number of students involved in the program and the kinds of audio visual education devices being developed for use in the county. Specific goals for the 1974-75 school year were also discussed.

Dr. William Bucer, County Superintendent of Schools, reported on a policies-procedures priority study conducted by the staff and indicated to the Board that policies and procedures would be developed in the areas of pupil progress, student personnel, and program policies in the year ahead.

With the signing of a contract between the Western Maryland Manpower Consortium and the U.S. Labor Department, more assurance was given the Board members that reimbursement for the former NYC program would be forthcoming. After some discussion the Board agreed to advance money from its cash reserves to operate this program for the remaining period. George Brady, Supervisor of Maintenance, serves as Director of the project.

Two Injured In 3-Vehicle Mishap Last Saturday

A three-vehicle chain accident apparently caused only slight injury to two persons on U.S. Route 40 just west of U.S. Route 219, north, last Saturday, July 6.

Kathleen Dianne Fauber, 18, Friendsville, driver of a pick-up and Rebecca R. Ferendo, 19, Frederick, a passenger in a car driven by Richard Steven Ferendo, also of Frederick, were the two injured.

Kathleen Fauber, Ferendo and a car driven by Laurence L. Yohe, Finleyville, were traveling west on Route 40 when an unknown vehicle suddenly stopped. The Fauber and Ferendo vehicles were able to stop but Yohe was unable to do so and hit the Ferendo car causing it to hit the Fauber truck.

Trooper David Miller made no charges.

Three other less serious accidents in the southern part of the county were noted, one being a 'hit and run.'

Allen Stanley Paugh, RD 4, Deer Park, was attempting to turn left onto Spring Glade road from southbound U.S. Route 219 late evening of June 29. An unknown car, apparently from McKees Rocks, Pa., also southbound, was in the process of passing and collided with the Paugh car and continued on without stopping. There were apparently four occupants in the unknown car. Trooper C. H. Hinnant investigated the accident.

Roger Kemp Craver, RD 1, Swanton, was traveling east on Md. Route 135 near the Leon White road and started to make a U-turn last Friday evening. The Craver car was struck in the left front by a car driven by John Leslie Sharpless, Rt. 560, Mt. Lake Park, who had started to pass him. Sharpless then crossed the roadway and ran into a ditch.

Phillip Lyle Weese, RD 4, Deer Park, was traveling south on Route 219. Wilda Elva Dillsworth, RD 2, Oakland, was in the process of making a right turn from Mansfield road onto Route 219. Weese applied his brakes, went into a skid and hit the Dillsworth pick-up in the rear as it pulled onto the roadway. The view from Mansfield road was obstructed by an embankment. Trooper J. E. Foley investigated the mishap.

Children Have A Better Chance When They Begin

Reading To Survive

By Carol Canan

The Maryland School system, in efforts to remedy detected reading weaknesses in public school pupils, has instituted an innovative functional reading program in pilot schools in the state.

In Garrett County, Accident Elementary School was chosen as a pilot school. The program began there in May, with Mrs. Hilda Lee as reading resource teacher.

The youngsters in the program [illegible] through six, are reading not the usual bland diet of "See Spot run" but menus and bus timetables, food labels, yellow pages in function, manual, medicine labels, newspaper—all things important to them in the society in which they are expected to function.

The program is geared to individual children so that they may proceed at their own pace and is self-checking.

As a pilot school, Accident added in developing curriculum and evaluative material for use in other schools in the state next fall, when the program will be expanded to include all elementary schools.

The program is intended to be a part of, not to replace, the reading programs already in effect in each school. It has five basic goals: to teach children to follow directions; to teach them to locate references, to aid them in gaining information, help them understand forms; and to attain personal development.

Following directions includes reading road signs, building signs, and directions from textbooks, written directions for completing assignments; directions for games and do-it-yourself kits; first aid directions, and telephone use directions.

Also included are food label directions, dosage directions on medicines and prescriptions; directions to residences in the local community, and reading all types of maps.

Some projects to aid in locating references may help the child to read and understand tables of contents, index, glossaries, footnotes, bibliographies, read catalogs, almanacs, job manuals, textbooks and travel guides.

Also included in this category are learning to use library card catalogs and to read materials in reference sections of libraries.

To gain information, children are expected to learn to read materials for school, such as assignments; for a vocation, such as work schedules, policies and procedures; and society, such as information from newspapers, public announcements and emergency announcements.

To aid them in understanding forms, they are exposed to forms which ask name, address, phone, and other pertinent information. They are also shown and taught to read sales slips and cash register slips.

To help them attain personal development they are shown how to choose books, gain knowledge from reading, read for personal enjoyment, how to read to themselves and others, read for hobbies and as a projected goal.

Introduction of some of these functional reading goals will begin as early as kindergarten this fall, when children will begin learning to read basic general directions; road signs, buildings signs. Telephone usage, basic cooking directions, picture dictionary, and table of contents will be introduced in first grade, according to a suggested schedule given out by the state organizers of the program.

Surprisingly, children as young as the sixth grade will begin learning first aid and that bugaboo of many citizens, the tax form.

At Accident, pupils were allowed to go to any of the learning stations of the new reading program between 12:30 and 1 p.m. daily. Learning stations, set up around the rooms, included materials made up by parents, teachers, aides, and sixth grade students.

Such centers may contain labels, maps, signs, newspapers or other materials suitable for a particular learning experience, protected by clear plastic. Also in most centers are a set of questions and sheets with answers.

Others instrumental in getting the program moving in this county, in addition to Mrs. Lee and the teachers and parents, are Albert Ringer, state reading liason and director of curriculum and instruction for the county, Lewis Domenick, supervisor of elementary education, and Robert Rodeheaver, secondary education supervisor.

Robert Wilson, principal at Accident, gave Mrs. Lee, a veteran of 29 years of teaching, a free hand at that school, so that she could begin whatever programs she felt would be most effective. A state pamphlet, "Revolution in Reading," by Dr. Robert Wilson, dir. of the reading center, U. of Md., and Marcia Barnes, reading teacher in Montgomery County, also was of help in setting up learning centers and selecting goals for the local program.

Mrs. Lee began her teaching career in a one-room school near Rowlesburg. She taught fifth grade near Frederick for seven years; fifth grade at Dennett Road for three years, three years as a reading teacher at Dennett Road; and two years as a reading resource teacher for the county. She presently resides in Kingwood.

Funding from the state Department of Education was given to pilot schools to establish centers, buy needed materials, etc.

Mrs. Lee's enthusiasm, the children's willingness to work unsupervised at the learning centers because they see the need, and the cooperation of parents who also can see the need, make this an ongoing program of value for every school. Already the kindergarten at Accident began voluntarily setting up learning centers, and Friendsville school followed suit.

The program should get in full swing next fall, and in a very few years we should see the results of the "reading to survive" program — children more confident and competent to deal with their world on its own terms and forms, and in its own language.

Mrs. Janice Ross looks on, ready to offer assistance if needed, as Kimberly Fike, Diane Rinker and Timothy Rodeheaver tell the meanings of various everyday roadsigns.

Maps and more maps are the learning centers which interested Linda Eazenbaker, Elizabeth Bowser, Danny Arbogast and Scott Gowans one day late in May, a few weeks after the innovative functional reading program began at Accident.

Brenda Oester, Amy Stanton, Gary Baumann, Urbane Maust, Rebecca Knox, Todd Beitzel and Mrs. Lois Michaels, aide, observe some of America's races of people, another facet of the functional reading program which has endless possibilities for every area of school study.

The kindergarten class, taught by Mrs. Bernardine Friend and Miss Donna Verdini, set up functional reading centers on its own, following the examples of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Accident. Here, aide Mrs. Joanna Ringer, Bill Friend, John Canan, Michelle Glotfelty and Miss Verdini help display some of the basic signs children should know for their safety.

Joseph Locke and George Futch, also in Mrs. Strauss' fourth grade class, observe one of many food labels prepared by willing parents for the functional reading program which began at Accident in May. Grades fourth through sixth were involved in pilot school funding at Accident.

Learning to follow directions is a necessity for everyone, and these sixth graders in Earl Savage's room were engrossed in making braided rugs during their reading period each day. Left to right are Nancy Collier, Brenda Fratz, Robin Miller, Denise Ringer, whose rug is being examined by Mr. Savage, Susan Sisler, Hilda Kolb.

Let's keep America the land of opportunity.
Historically, America has been "the land of opportunity". But "opportunity" is becoming a threatened species.
The opportunity to work and to achieve a better quality of life is threatened by the increasing problem of energy supply.
The energy crisis that seemed so big and vague and far away gets closer every day. Industry especially has become acutely aware of energy shortages. And every business and industry in America depends on an ample supply of energy to provide job opportunities for a work force that increases by over a million every year.
It's ironic that the emphasis on natural gas price regulation and demands for immediate and far-ranging environmental controls on oil delivery dampen the very hope for a cleaner environment, for better housing. Because the solutions to most of our other national problems depend on having sufficient energy to solve them.
Standing still, or keeping things just as they are, may be fine for some people. But for all the rest who strive for the opportunity to better their lives, we must have more energy. More gas, oil, clean-burning coal and electrical generating capacity to keep America the land of opportunity.
[illegible] Gas is working to help [illegible] energy crisis. There is [illegible] to natural gas deep [illegible] in America. [illegible] to develop our [illegible] of people for [illegible] jobs for this [illegible] energy. This means the cost of exploration and discovery more expensive. But, when you consider the alternative of low energy, we think you'll agree the price is not too high.
COLUMBIA GAS

John Schaidt Wins Rebel Sailing Race

John Schaidt, with his wife Susan as crew, made a clean sweep of the Rebel class sailing events at Deep Creek Yacht club.

Schaidt scored a first place in both the Spring series in June, consisting of 18 races, and the firecracker regatta, a five-race series sailed over the 4th of July weekend. Races were sailed during storms, rain, high winds and over the past weekend with very little wind.

In the spring series Schaidt nosed out Ken Farrell, with his wife Eileen as crew, in the final week. In third place was Bill Cook, formerly of Cumberland, now residing on Deep Creek Lake. Sally Carpenter, Pittsburgh, was his crew.

In the firecracker regatta Schaidt was first but had to keep a boat between him and veteran John Geare with his wife Lydia as crew, in order to win. Ken Farrell came from behind to nip Geare at the finish line and save the victory for Schaidt. Jim Corl, Coverwood, with Elizabeth McGuigan of Greensburg, Pa., as crew, took third place.

A trophy presentation ceremony was held on the Yacht club lawn after the races.

The next big event will be the annual invitational regatta to determine the Maryland State champions in the Rebel, Flying Scot and Jet 14 fleets. The date is the weekend of August 3-4.

Maryland Beats World In Pen-Mar Game 5 To 1

Rick O'Reilly knocked in two runs, including a solo home run in the seventh inning, pitched three innings of shutout ball and threw a runner out at the plate from right field to earn Most Valuable Player honors as Maryland defeated The World 5 to 1 in the 26 Pen-Mar baseball league all-star game Sunday afternoon at Mellenry.

O'Reilly singled home a run in fifth inning prior to hitting his home run. He got the mound victory over Basil Armstrong.

Maryland drew first blood in the opening inning when Chuck Eberly walked, stole second, moved to third on Doug Shook's sacrifice, and scored on single by Gary Bosley. The World tied the score in the third when Craig Wengerd singled home Bobby Uhl.

Starting pitcher for Maryland was Gary Bosley, of Oakland.

Charles Shahan put Maryland on top for keeps by singling home Shook, who had walked to open the third inning. Speicher was hit by a pitched ball in the fifth inning and scored on a wild pitch before O'Reilly singled home the first run of that inning.

Players for World were from Pennsylvania and West Virginia towns. Maryland players were from Mt. Savage, Cumberland and Oakland.

Oakland will complete its season with home games at McHenry. This Sunday Oakland will play Hyndman two seven inning double headers at 2 p.m. On Sunday July 28, Oakland will play Cumberland.

Because of changes in plans for a land fill on the property, construction of new facilities cannot begin immediately but remodeling and enlarging of the present buildings will begin shortly to prepare for the opening of the fall term on September 5. Changes to be made in present buildings will provide approximately 20 rooms for classes, dormitories plus a hall for dining and special events.

LIFE IS FULL OF QUESTIONS

One of the most common we spell with just three letters, W-H-Y.

As children we want to know the reason for everything. Why is snow cold, or sugar sweet? We grow into adolescence and the question is usually linked with restrictions: Why can't I? In maturity there are more and greater problems to solve, troubles and disappointments to overcome. And still we ask the age-old question, "Why?"

The Church knows our questions and our problems and invites us to come, bringing them with us.

In the Church we find new friends. Many of them have known sorrows and disappointments and through their faith have found courage. They will inspire us to try again.

Still more important we can learn to know the Christ. In His Divine wisdom He holds the answers to life's questions. In His love He invites all who need His help.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PARTNERS

Lesson for July 21, 1974

Background Scripture: Philippians 1; 2:19-30; 4.
Devotional Reading: James 1:2-15.

"That is none of my affair."

That is frequently the response of people who feel that they should not become involved in something that seems primarily to concern or affect someone else. Another way of putting it is: "I mind my own business."

Rev. Althouse

"No man is an island"

John Donne thought otherwise and we all known well his famous words: "No man is an island . . ." We may think of ourselves as being islands, we may isolate ourselves from the affairs of other people, yet, says Donne, this does not change us one bit. Whether or not we acknowledge it, we are linked together. When the bell of human concern is together. When the bell of human concern is tolled we must realize that it rings for us as well as others.

In Philippians, Paul speaks of our "partnership."

For one thing, he says we have a "partnership in the gospel . . ." (1:5). The "gospel," of course, is the good news of God's salvation. Therefore the sharing and witnessing of that news is the responsibility, not of a chosen few, but all disciples of Jesus Christ. Spreading the message of the gospel is "our affair," our responsibility.

We share the responsibility for the gospel because we have first shared the benefits of the gospel. Paul reminds the Philippians that they are "all partakers with me of grace" (1:7). If we share the grace of God in Jesus Christ, we must share his mission as well. So, because we are partners in grace, we are also partners in the gospel.

The secret

Paul speaks of still another kind of partnership. Referring to his hardship in prison, Paul says: ". . . it was kind of you to share my trouble" (4:14). It is likely that the Philippian church had sent Paul some money during his imprisonment. Paul's imprisonment in the eyes of some may have seemed "none of our affair." Yet the Philippian church thought of itself as Paul's partner. Since he had shared so much of himself with them, they felt they should share themselves with him.

Paul goes on to speak of one more partnership: "I can do all things in him who strengthens me" (4:13). Christ shares his condition. If it is a condition of abundance, Christ shares that. If it is a condition of deprivation, Christ is partner with him in that too. In fact, this partnership, this sharing his life with Christ, is the secret of life for Paul. "I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and want" (4:12). Because of this partnership with Christ, he has learned contentment "in whatever state I am."

No man is ever alone if he is in partnership with Christ.

OUR REFRIGERATOR IS WELL-STOCKED

In order to retain their freshness and therefore their effectiveness many of our medicines must be stored under refrigerated conditions. For example, certain types of suppositories would melt and become useless if they were kept at regular temperatures. In a few instances such as small-pox and polio vaccines it is even necessary to keep medicines in the freezer compartment.

Insulin for diabetics, certain eye ointments and solutions and some vitamins are a few other examples of products that must be kept in a refrigerator. Naturally, we will periodically check to be sure that the exactly right conditions are being maintained.

Spotlight On Summer Theatre

Carol Fritsky, pictured here, is among the new Garrett County Playhouse acting company members. By now she has already distinguished herself with theatre-goers as the sloppy and shrewish but lovable Teresa Phillips in "How the Other Half Loves" and as the wild and imaginative gardener in Agatha Christie's "Spider's Web".

Carol comes to Garrett County from the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque where she will be a sophomore in the fall. While she says her home is Saddle Brook, New Jersey, it's easy to imagine her equally at home on any stage in America.

Her experience as an actress ranges from Tennessee William's "Talk to Me like the Rain and Let Me Listen" to "Zapatera", in which she played a lead.

Who Molds Your Opinion?

Our Congressman, Goodloe Byron, tells us in his most recent newsletter that, "Surprisingly few people ever write their Congressman." Your reporter has spoken to many who feel that one letter doesn't make any difference anyway. Nothing could be further from the truth. Most Congressmen (including ours) read the bulk of their mail personally. Our Congressman goes on to say that "thouhgtful, factual letters have helped me make up my mind on issues or caused me to initiate a review of previous judgments."

Your letter should be reasonable, factual, and friendly. Identify yourself by name, and by some way in which you are typical of others in your community — as a farmer, union member, businessman, etc. Typewrite it if at all possible, and try to keep it under one typewritten page in length. It is best to stick to a single subject instead of mentioning every issue before Congress. If you know it, include the number of the bill you are discussing. It will aid him when he goes to study it and it will show him that you care enough about the issue to get the facts.

SO HOW DO YOU GET THE FACTS ABOUT IMPORTANT LEGISLATION? NOT by reading the big daily newspapers like the Washington Post, or the Pittsburgh Press or the Cumberland Times. NOT by watching the 6 o'clock News or by listening to the NBC, CBS, or ABC radio news programs. NOT by reading TIME, NEWSWEEK, or LOOK. These Liberal Establishment media go out of their way to keep your interest on impeachment, or Watergate, or other smokescreens. Congressman John Rarick from Louisana has compiled an impressive 86% cumulative score in the Conservative Index (published by REVIEW OF THE NEWS since 1971). He says that the people are being deceived by the confusion that the news media are causing. "As a result, people are disillusioned with our system and many won't vote, thereby letting the Socialists elect their radical puppets in November."

AMERICAN OPINION MAGAZINE is the world's foremost journal on political affairs. It has interesting and factual articles on crucial issues such as gun-control legislation, Who Votes How on Capitol Hill (did you know that your Senator, Charlie McC. Mathias has a cumulative score of 7% in the Conservative Index?, the $450 BILLION National Debt (you pay $29 BILLION in interest on that this year), and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (a move by collectivists to organize local police forces into a NATIONAL POLICE FORCE.)

REVIEW OF THE NEWS gives you a view of the important news of the week, capsulated and chronological. It tells you about important legislation before Congress too.

Americans, please stop paying the mass media to misinform you, and send for a year's subscription to AMERICAN OPINION MAGAZINE or REVIEW OF THE NEWS 395 Concord Ave., Belmont, Mass. 02178.

To The People of Garrett County:

What we need even more than a 5c cigar is:

A SENSE OF HUMOR!

A second Will Rogers, not I; but let's apply some of his common sense and humor to our problems.

What we need in County Government is:

IMAGINATION!

KING'S COURT WILL BE APPEARING FOR A SPECIAL EVENING CONCERT AT THE DEER PARK ASSEMBLY CHURCH ON TUESDAY, JULY 23RD. The public is extended a warm and cordial invitation to attend this evening of inspiration through song and word. KING'S COURT DIRECTED BY MICHAEL TROUTMAN FORMER DEER PARK PASTOR'S SON is from Bethel Temple, Chambersburg, Pa. This group is composed of young people of various grades who have experienced the Lord and wish to share His goodness with others. Their music has a wide variety of songs, which appeal to every age. The words may change but the message is the same concerning the love of Christ. Not only will you be pleased by the ministry of music but your life will be changed and involvement in the work of the Lord will cause your heart and life to do more. Many of the youth are actively involved in the Bethel Assembly, the largest in the Eastern District. You will want to hear how God has blessed and used them in this medium.

Whether they do they bring a spiritual impart and a challenge concerning the message of God's love. As the sweet strains of the King of Kings, your heart will be stirred by the message that Jesus can live in every heart.

REMEMBER ALL YOUTH ARE NOT REBELS AGAINST GOD AND SOCIETY.

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Gondloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as an open invitation to you to keep in touch with all aspects of my congressional activities. Please feel free to call on me or write me any question on your mind. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515. Because my time is obviously limited in Washington, I shall not be able to answer personal contacts, but I will answer all questions sent to me. Here are a few of the questions which were asked me in recent weeks:

What is the status of legislation to protect fishing streams in the United States?

You are probably referring to the Natural Game Fish Spawning Conservation Act which provides financial assistance to States for the preservation of such fish streams. This proposed measure is currently pending before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. Copies of the bill (H.R. 3830) can be obtained by writing my office here in Washington.

How much oil will the Alaskan pipeline provide to the Continental U. S.?

It is estimated that the pipeline would provide oil supplies equal to one-third of the country's oil imports.

My brother and I are in disagreement over a parliamentary procedure in the House of Representatives. Can you please tell us how debate is limited in the House?

General debate in the House is usually limited by special rule, the time being equally divided between the majority and the minority, and allotted to the individual Members by the Members designated in the rule. In no case may a Member speak longer than one hour except by unanimous consent of the House. When bills are being considered in the Committee of the Whole for amendments, each Member is limited to 5 minutes except by a unanimous consent.

I have heard that radial tires on cars can save gas. Is this true?

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, radial tires result in about a 3 percent improvement in fuel economy when compared to conventional non-belted bias tires.

I am a veteran of World War II. Do you know if I can apply for a home guarantee loan under the G. I. Bill?

The Veterans Administration informs me that expiration dates on G. I. loan eligibility were removed in 1970 and eligibility of World War II and Korean veterans was restored where their entitlement had expired. Eligibility for G. I. loans now runs until you have used it. You may obtain the necessary information and forms from your nearest VA office.

Who do I write to for a subscription to MONTHLY LABOR REVIEW?

MONTHLY LABOR REVIEW is published by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics and is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. for $9 a year.

I understand that you have some reservations about the Export-Import Bank. Please explain.

I feel it is unfair to provide low-interest money to finance the sale of a product to a foreign nation, when an American businessman can't finance the purchase of the same products for less than 11 or 12 percent interest rate. It is doubly unfair when the financing of these exports improves foreign industrial capacity to the point that it displaces competitive production by U.S. manufactures.

Could you please tell me where I obtain a copy of the FTC proposal which would ban advertising of children's premiums on television?

The text of the proposed rule may be obtained by writing the Federal Trade Commission, Office of Public Information, Washington, D.C.

Mathias and yourself?

Thirty-eight congressmen have now cosponsored the House version of this legislation which would allow family heirs to have their land assessed for its actual use as farmland rather than at its highest market value as required under current Federal estate tax law. The cosponsors represent a broad geographic cross-section of the country and I have been in contact with the Ways & Means Committee to seek consideration of the measure at the earliest possible date.

How much money may our son borrow under the Federal Guaranteed Student Loan Program?

The maximum you may borrow is $2,500 a year and the total amount for undergraduate or vocational study is $7,500. The loan must be repaid and payments begin between 9 and 12 months after your son graduates or leaves school. Information and application forms are available from schools or by writing the Maryland Higher Education Loan Corporation, 2100 Guildford Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland 21218.

Why can't oil companies divert their international resources into domestic oil exploration and production here in the United States?

They can. Under a proposed measure introduced in Congress, foreign tax credits for oil companies would be substantially reduced and foreign oil depletion allowances eliminated entirely. The bill would also eliminate tax deductions for costs involved in drilling and developing foreign wells. If the U.S. is to become relatively self-sufficient in oil we must begin working at home to develop our own oil resources and this legislation is aimed at encouraging investments by U.S. oil companies in the United States.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias
U.S. Senator

To Save the Chesapeake Bay

The Chesapeake Bay is one of Maryland's and the Nation's greatest natural resources. Over the years it has been battered by many conflicting demands. Industrialists and environmentalists, boaters and bathers, sport and commercial fishermen, and a multitude of local, state and federal agencies approach the Bay from different perspectives.

If we are to preserve the Bay as a useful and enjoyable resource, we must agree on common approaches to the various problems that now confront the Bay. One year ago, when I began my five-day tour of the Bay region, I promised that the Bay's future would continue to be a high-priority concern long after the trip was completed.

In line with that promise, I followed the trip with months of research and consideration of various proposed ways to improve management of the Chesapeake. I recently released a report recommending a series of new approaches.

One of my conclusions is that the Bay is surprisingly healthy, considering the care we give it. Unfortunately, we often take the time to care too late. Too many decisions are based on a limited view of the Bay, a lack of coordination between authorities and a failure to understand all the ramifications of the decisions that are made.

The necessary laws to handle Chesapeake Bay problems already are on the books. The challenge now is to get all the agencies involved to work together toward solutions to the problems.

One way to undertake this coordinated effort is by means of a single Chesapeake Bay Commission that could be formed jointly by Maryland, Virginia and the federal government. With adequate state and federal funding, it can be the politically sophisticated and influential organization needed to coordinate Bay activities, foster beneficial debate, ensure that federal plans for the Chesapeake deal with, and respond to, local concerns, and study long-range proposals for the Bay.

I hope the Governors of Maryland and Virginia will explore the possibilities of creating such a Commission. My office will commit the staff resources necessary for a proper review.

The Chesapeake Bay is well worth saving. We can only save it by working together, and we must begin now.

Hunting Rules Are Issued For Parks

Regulations governing limited public hunting for 900 acres at Rocky Gap State Park and 880 acres at Deep Creek Lake State Park have been issued by the Department of Natural Resources. A series ul public meetings were held on the proposals in May.

According to the regulations hunters must obtain an annual $2 permit in order to enter the regions, in addition to regular Maryland hunting licenses and stamps.

Also, hunting areas will be separated from other sections of the parks by a 150 yard buffer zone. Zones will be marked on the ground and brochures containing maps showing the hunting areas will be given each hunter.

No hunting in the parkland areas will be permitted before October 15.

Miscellany . . .

It is difficult to understand the inner workings of the mind of a person, man or woman, who deliberately calls in a false fire alarm. The one Tuesday night was one of those alarms, and the person who called it in was most particular as to the location and how to get into the building. Persons convicted of false alarms should be severely punished.

In this case Oakland firemen had already answered a call to Table Rock. They will answer an alarm at any hour of the day or night and are dedicated citizens. To take advantage of their concern for the property of others by turning in a false alarm is certainly criminal.

PARTICIPATE IN THE FAIR — Next week is fair week, the eighteenth annual event for farmers and business men. This is a county-wide event, located at Mellenry, in the center of the area, and should arouse deep interest for all citizens. The fair board has planned interesting events, educational and entertaining. It opens with an interdenominational vesper service Sunday evening and continues through the following Saturday night. Your participation will be appreciated.

ANOTHER ITEM OF INTEREST — And this is not confined to the county. August 10 will mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of Herbert Hoover. He is not generally remembered in history as a great President. But he was unquestionably a great man. It was his bad fortune to be president when the stock market crashed in 1929. Neither he nor anyone else knew how to revive the economy. During his 30 years after the presidency the nation again came to regard him as a great humanitarian and a man of unquestionable integrity. Personal integrity is an attribute that anyone can copy.

Six To Compete For Farm Queen

Six farm girls have entered the contest for Garrett County Farm Queen, to be held Tuesday, August 6, at 8 p.m., at the county fair grounds at Mellenry, it was announced by the women of the Garrett County Farm Boreau, sponsors of the event.

Contestants are Becky Fike, Debbie Fike, Oakland; Debbie Ringer, Accident; Sherry Shillingborg, Steyer; and Kathy Wellborn, Accident.

Judging will be based primarily on general knowledge of agriculture, and the ability to speak for agriculture. Judges for the contest are Mrs. Robert Hoag, Pittsburgh; Dr. William G. Savage, Swanton; and Mrs. Patricia Sell, Cumberland. Thomas Butscher, Oakland, will serve as master of ceremonies. Brief remarks will be made by Robert Glotfelty, fair board chairman; I. William Umbel, Farm Bureau president; and James Mellenry county extension agent. Mrs. Lillian Reckner will provide music and Rev. William Shimer the invocation.

2 Found Guilty Of Assault, Battery In District Court

Two men were found guilty of assault and battery in District Court by Judge Lewis R. Jones last week.

Steven McKenzie, and Leonard McKenzie, both of RD 2, Frostburg, had pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on William G. Edwards in Grantsville June 22.

Steven was fined $50 and $10 costs and Leonard was fined $100 and $10 costs.

Leonard was found not guilty of disorderly conduct at the same time and place.

A case of disorderly conduct against John McKenzie, also of RD 2, Frostburg, was stetted because of insufficient evidence.

Other cases heard in District Court included assault and assault and battery.

Sterling V. House, McHenry, had been charged with assault but the automobile involved in the dispute was to be returned and the case was dismissed.

A case of assault and battery against Charles Pursley, Mt. Lake Park, was stetted as the complainant would not testify.

W. Virginia Woman Hits Car And Fire Plug In Oakland

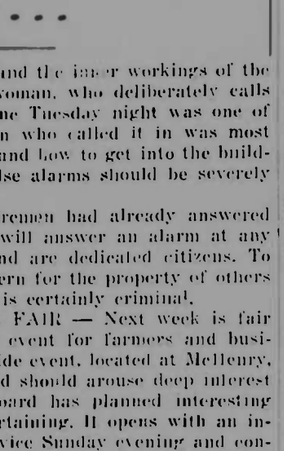
A West Virginia woman in a pickup struck a car on Oak street just east of Second street in Oakland last evening. She then continued east on Oak street and knocked down a fire plug on the corner of Oak and Third streets.

Ruth E. Evans of St. George, W. Va., traveling east on Oak street, crossed the center of the street and struck a car driven by Joan Carol Thomas of Mt. Lake Park. Ruth Evans then continued on, and failing to make a right turn onto Third street, going south, jumped the curb and knocked off the fire hydrant.

Water gushed from the broken hydrant but the town Water Department was on the scene not long after and a new plug was in place this morning.

There were no apparent serious personal injuries and no charges were noted in the report of the accident. Officer J. E. Thomas, of the Oakland Police Department investigated the accident, which occured at 8 p.m.

Named Football Coach At Southern



The appointment of Jim Miers as football coach at Southern High School, Oakland, succeeding Bill Frost, who accepted a position in Ohio, was announced this week by Dick Travis, supervisor of physical education and Athletics.

Mr. Miers was assistant to Coach Frost for three years and teachers physical education at Southern High.

His athletic career stems from playing football at Keyser High School under the veteran football coach "Tack" Clark, and also at Potomac State college under direction of the late Dana "Horse" Lough. He completed his education with a B.S. degree in Physical Education and English at Shepherd college, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. "Eck" Miers, a former coach at Keyser. He and his wife Kay have two sons, Jimmie, 3, and Sean, 3 weeks old. They reside at Oak Park, between Oakland and Mt. Lake Park.

Jim comes from a coaching family. His father, Estle (Eck) Miers, was one of the all-time great Keyser High athletes and also starred at Potomac State. He coached basketball at Keyser after coaching in Virginia. Jim's uncle, William (Huck) Miers, coached basketball at Piedmont High where his team made history.

Playhouse To Give Sixth Play Aug. 7-10

August 7 to August 10, Wednesday through Saturday, the Garrett County Playhouse will present "Charley's Aont," one of the world's most famous delights. The Brandon Thomas farce will be a revival for the Playhouse, it having been given previously.

Playing through Saturday of this week will be "Lovers and Other Strangers," at the Blue Barn on Beckman peninsula of Deep Creek Lake.

Curtain time is 8:30 each evening. Persons desiring to attend the play are urged to make reservations at any of the three pharmacies in Oakland, Englander, Proudfoot and Gregg.

Red Cross Drive Provides $1,000 For Two Projects

The annual Red Cross drive for funds was concluded earlier this year with the realization of $1,000 for its work in the county.

It was explained that the Garrett County Chapter, American Red Cross, operated two special units here, the bloodmobile program, with Mrs. Norma Hesen as chairman; and the Service to Military families, with Col. J. Haig Jackson in charge.

Col. Jackson, who serves as vice chairman of the local chapter, said the bloodmobile program costs some $500 annually while the service to military families costs about the same amount.

Col. Jackson explained the types of cases involving military families, which included messages to personnel overseas or in the United States in cases of deaths in the family where family members are seriously ill and the members need to get in touch with a serviceman, serious family problems, extension of leave, and the telephone calls necessary.

Col. Jackson said that for the first time the Red Cross has a telephone number which was received too late to get it in the directory for this year. The number is 334-3916.

Other officers in the county organization include Mrs. Joe Harman, secretary; and Mrs. Ruth Jackon, treasurer. Many volunteers help in the blood recruitment program when visits are made at regular intervals to Oakland and Grantsville.

Southern's Majorette Corps Win 11 Firsts

Southern's majorette corps captured eleven first place blue ribbons and a third place white ribbon at the National Majorette Clinic last week at Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, West Virginia.

The clinic participants used the dorms and facilities of the college from July 21 through the 25th. Each corps received instruction and evaluation in the areas of parade routines, group twirl, dance twirl, and novelty and halftime routines. Score sheets showing areas of strengths and weaknesses in twirling ability were given to each corps with an explanation of the comments.

Categories which were considered in the evaluation of each corps were: knowledge of routine, timing and unison, presentation of routine, twirls, and personality and smile. The hard-working spirit of Southern's majorettes made a favorable impression on the instructors of the clinic and the corps received encouraging comments in addition to their awards.

Since all nine members of Southern's majorette corps attended the clinic, the group has a head start on preparing for activities this fall.

Beer Tax Revenues Shared Second Year

For the second year, Maryland has shared beer tax revenues with the twenty-three counties and Baltimore city.

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that a total of $3,836,021.22 had been returned to the subdivisions for fiscal year 1971 which ended June 30.

The year's distribution was 6.65 percent greater than the previous year.

Checks totaling $1,050,312.88 were mailed to the 24 subdivisions for the fourth quarter, representing an increase of 7.5 percent over fourth quarter payments last year.

Distribution of beer tax revenues is based on 11 cents per gallon delivered to retailers in the respective subdivisions. The state beer tax is 9 cents per gallon.

Figures for Garrett county showed $1,849.78 received for the fourth quarter, April through June, making the total for the fiscal year $18,550.47. Kent and Somerset counties were the only ones receiving less. Five largest shares went to Baltimore City, Baltimore, Prince George's Anne Arundel, and Montgomery counties.

72 Animals Shown At Holstein Show

Seventy-two animals were exhibited by 26 individuals at the county's annual Black and White show held July 23, at the Fairgrounds at McHenry, sponsored by the Garrett County Holstein Association.

Jack King, Church Hill, served as official judge, and Donald Mason served as show chairman, according to James Mellenry, extension agent, agriculture.

Susan Mason was champion in fitting and showing in the junior division, while Robert Bender took champion in fitting and showing in the senior division for 4-H and youth.

Junior champion female in the adult division was won by Cleland L. Beitzel, showing Maryland Maple Meadows B-E Sadie, born July 31, 1973, and sired by Paclamar Black Eagle.

Man Pleads Guilty Of Marijuana And Alcohol Charges

Charges of possession of marijuana and minors in possession of alcohol were brought against two West Virginia men. One pleaded guilty before Judge Lewis R. Jones in District Court last week. Trial for the other is set for later.

Wilford Mike Feather, Bruceton Mills, pleaded guilty on two charges of possession of marijuana and being a minor in possession of alcohol. A minor in this case is a person over 18 years old but under 21.

Terry Lynn Feather, also of Bruceton Mills, has been charged with possession of marijuana, a minor in possession of alcohol and also possession of LSD. His trial has been set for August 27. This case had been sent to juvenile court but it was determined he is not a juvenile and the case was returned to District Court.

The sentence of Wilford Feather is being held up pending the outcome of the trial of Terry Feather.

Tests of samples taken at the time of the apprehension were proven to be marijuana and in one case LSD, according to a report of the State Police laboratory.

Oakland Firemen Called To Two Minor Fires

Oakland firemen were called twice this week to minor fires that were out on arrival of the department.

The first on Monday afternoon was to the apartment of Don Nine on Highview Drive just off East High street. Flames were out on arrival but damage was estimated by firemen at $100. Smoke ejectors were used.

A flue fire caused the second call, at the home of Phyllis Fike, on the Red Oak-Kempton road, near Table Rock. Flames were out on arrival. This was Tuesday morning at 11:35. There was no loss to the building. The building is owned by Benson Kelly. The fire truck traveled approximately 35 miles.

Oakland firemen answered an alarm on Tuesday evening near midnight to Browning Foodland, east of Oakland, which turned out to be a false alarm.

Published by W. A. Gonder, and made in Germany, the card was mailed for one cent postage. It was a photo of the B. and O. Station, the Frantz hotel, an ice cream parlor run by "Coonie" Whetsell, and another store which had a restaurant sign on the front, but was an old type "racket" store," along Railroad street, at one time a main thoroughfare.

The postcard was obtained by Tim Dugan, a planning commission consultant, who came to Oakland Tuesday on a routine assignment. Marshall Rickert, of the Planning Commission, brought the card to The Republican office.

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me, c o U S House of Representatives, Washington, D C 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks:

I understand there is a bill before Congress to provide tax relief to the survivors of men who died in the Vietnam War. What form will this relief take?

Among other things, H. R. 8214 would forgive federal income taxes on a serviceman's income received by his family after his death but while he was listed as missing in action. The proposed legislation would also allow the widow of a serviceman previously listed as missing in action to use special lower tax rates for two years after it was determined he had died and make other clarifying changes to assure widows of former MIA's of tax preferences.

Can you pleae place my name on a mailing list for consumer news?

I would suggest you subscribe to CONSUMER NEWS—a twice a month newsletter published by the Office of Consumer Affairs. Bi-weekly articles include government rulings and actions, new consumer laws, public hearings of consumer interest and new federal consumer publications.

What is covered by an Army ROTC Scholarship award?

Each scholarship pays for tuition, textbooks, educational fees, and provides a subsistence allowance of $100 per month for up to ten months each school year. During a six-week camp between the junior and senior year of college, the student receives approximately $400. The ROTC scholarship program was authorized by Congress in 1964 and during school year 1974-75 6,500 Army scholarships will be in effect. High school students desiring to compete for four year scholarships should write to Army ROTC Scholarship, P.O. Box 12703, Philadelphia, Pa. 19134.

When is Congress going to find an answer to high interest rates?

The House Banking and Currency Committee is searching for some solutions to inflation and high interest rates and is currently focusing on how the Federal Reserve System's management of the nation's money supply has affected the economys performance. I will keep you informed of the results of these hearings as they progress.

I did not receive my social security check last month and wonder if you could help me?

Upon receipt of your letter I contacted the Social Security Administration and you should be receiving our check very soon. The problem arose due to your recent move and the fact that Social Security did not have your new address. Social security recipients are reminded to report address changes immediately so as not to interrupt the mailing of their monthly checks.

2 Slightly Injured In Recent Mishaps

One person was injured in one of a number of accidents last week. One pedestrian was slightly injured in Mt. Lake Park recently.

Howard Francis Freeland, RD 2, Oakland, was injured in a one-car mishap the morning of July 22. He apparently was not treated at the scene of the accident, but elsewhere.

Freeland was driving north on U.S. Route 219, about a half mile south of Mansfield road when the vehicle went off the side of the road and onto the gravel shoulder. He then came back onto the traveled portion of the roadway, crossed it and hit an embankment off the south side of the road. Trooper C. H. Hinnant charged Freeland with failing to keep to the right side of the road.

Two other accidents occurred the afternoon of the same day.

William G. Likens, Fourth street, Oakland, was operating a State Highway road sweeper on the Hutton road just west of the Oakland town limits going westbound. Sharon A. Arnold, Oak street, Oakland, following the sweeper, ran into the rear of it due to the view of it blocked by blowing dust. Tfc. Ronald S. Lewis made no charges.

The other accident the same afternoon occurred on Third street at Oak Street in Oakland.

Sheila Louise Wildesen, Mt. Lake Park, was stopped southbound waiting for a traffic light. Lona Jean Filsinger, Second street, Oakland, going west on Oak street turned right to go north on Third street, failed to keep to right of center of the road and hit the Wildesen car. Lona Filsinger was charged with failing to keep to the right side of the road.

Three accidents occurred last Tuesday, one just past midnight and two later the following afternoon.

Alexander Snyder was traveling south on U.S. Route 219 just south of Mayhew Inn road about 20 mintues past 12 midnight. A blue hardtop car traveling north, failed to keep to the right side of the road, hit the Snyder car and failed to stop after the collision. Trooper Hinnant investigated the mishap.

An afternoon one-car accident happened on the Hutton road near the west end of Oakland just before 5 p.m.

Lance G. Uphold, Route 560, Gormania, was traveling east on the Hutton road when he lost control of his car on the wet roadway. The car hit an embankment on the right side of the roadway. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater investigated the mishap.

Richard L. Coddington, Mt. Lake Park, was driving northbound on N street in Mt. Lake Park, late afternoon of July 23. Gladys May Rhodes, also of Mt. Lake Park, was walking along the edge of the roadway. Coddington failed to slow down to avoid Mrs. Rhodes and struck her but she was only slightly injured. Tfc. Broadwater charged Coddington with failing to reduce speed.

Another accident which occurred on Deep Creek drive just west of U.S. Route 219, July 21, about 3 p.m. was also caused by failure to reduce speed.

Steven P. Tressler, Mt. Lake Park, was driving west on Deep Creek drive followed by a car driven by Ruth M. Umbel, Lake Shore drive. Tressler slowed due to traffic and was struck by the Umbel car. Ruth Umbel was charged with failing to reduce speed by Tfc. Broadwater.

A hit-and-run mishap occurred on U. S. Route 40 near Pigs Ear ruad mid-afternoon of July 15. Michael F. Stockdale, Delaware, Ohio, was traveling eastbound and stated a blue Pontiac with Pa. registration was passing him but returned to the right lane due to a vehicle approaching from the west. As the Pa. car pulled back into line it sideswiped the Stockdale car causing it to run off the road. The Pa. car failed to stop. Trooper Ronald C. George investigated the mishap.

Jeff had been sliding down the mossy chute when his left leg became wedged. There he remained for two hours, until an enterprising couple came along with a quart can of motor oil, which was applied to the boy's leg. The leg then came right out of the small gap between the rocks, so smoothly that the leg was not injured.

The name of the couple, and brand of oil, was not ascertained.

Employment Rate Rises In State

Employment in Maryland, in June, rose by approximately 20,000 over May to a level of 1,767,200, an increase of 3.9 percent over last June, according to the monthly employment report released by the Department of Employment and Social Services.

Seasonal gains in both farm and non-farm activities accounted for most of the 30-day rise.

The civilian labor force increased by more than 40,000 in June to total 1,843,200. The gain was attributable to young people in the job Market.

Statewide unemployment, in June, reached 76,000, an increase of almost 21,000 from May and an over-the-year gain of 4,200. The rate of unemployment was 4.1 percent, compared to 3.1 percent in May and 4.1 percent in June, 1973.

The statistics showed Garrett County with a labor force of 9,770, and employment of 9,010, leaving 730 persons unemployed, a 7.5 percent rate. This compared with 7.8 percent in Allegany county, 5.9 percent for Frederick county and 6 percent for Washington county.

Revisions In Debt Service Proposed

A price tag of more than $2 billion for new state school construction and transportation programs will require a major revision of Maryland's debt service policies, according to a legislative study.

The 168-page report recommended a wide range of steps to be taken that would give Maryland greater flexibility in meeting its growing financial burden.

Among other things the report proposed:

State constitutional amendments to allow the state to pay off bonds over a 25-year period rather than the present 15 years, and to allow the state to pay off its debts from any tax it desires rather than from a specific tax. This would allow abolishment of the state real estate tax;

Changes in state law to allow transporation bonds to be paid off over a 40-year period;

Creation of a statewide authority to control and supervise the state's complex debt requirements. The office would coordinate all state and local bond issues to make sure Maryland bonds don't saturate the market.

The study said the new financial obligations will require the state abandon its present conservative fiscal approach in favor of "a positive debt management program."

Grantsville Doctor Featured In Story In Sunday Sun

Days off are rare for a country doctor, Just ask Dr. Daniel L. Nofziger, who has been filling the role at Grantsville for the past year. A feature story about him appeared in the Sunday issue of The Sun, written by Tom Horton, a staff correspondent.

A portion of the story is reproduced here.

"No matter where you are, if sombody's hurt, they'll find you," the 28 year old physician said. "I've been pulled out of picnics, coon hunts."

The schedule that keeps Nofziger, his wife and their two small children close to home revolved around the clinic in Grantsville where the doctor and his nurse see about 60 patients a day.

Twice each day, including once on his lunch hour Nofziger also travels to Meyersdale at attend patients.

Nofziger receives a $10,000 a year salary from the Western Maryland Health Care corporation, a non-profit group funded by local citizens with help from the federal government. The organization also pays all his professional expenses, including his nurse's salary and malpractice insurance premiums.

His fees go to the health care corporation. The price for a visit, either in the doctor's office or at the patient's home usually runs between $5 and $7 and sometimes gets paid in bushels of vegetables.

Nofziger was quick to admit that the prospects of no capital outlay, an instant income and a new clinic to be finished in January, were instrumental in drawing him to Grantsville.

His arrival was not looked upon favorably by some physicians in the southern half of the county. They disagreed with guaranteeing a salary and staff to a young doctor when there was no insurance of a long term commitment on his part. After a dispute the county medical society voted 4 to 3 to endorse the health care corporation. Dr William Pope, county health officer, acknowledged recently that a rural area like Northern Garrett County can only hope that a doctor would decide to stay.

Dr. Nofziger appears happy now. He declared it was a challenge and that the good outweighs the bad.

A problem he faces is the clash of his modern medical training with the practices of older physicians. New ideas, techniques and drugs don't always meet acceptance of the small hospitals in the area.

In the city one would basically take care of people who are healthy,—preventive medicine. "Here you get patients who don't come to a doctor until they're really hurting."

Miss Harvey Is Wed To Mr. White

Miss Teresa Ann Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Harvey, Kitzmiller, became the bride of William James White III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. James White, Jr., also Kitzmiller, Saturday June 1. The double ring ceremony was solemnized in Mt. Bethel United Methodist Church, Kitzmiller, with Rev. Stephen Heiss officiating. Kristine Maffett was organist.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jeanne Nichols, Morgantown, W. Va., while Miss Carol Guth, Rockville, and Miss Ruth White, sister of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids. Cristy Spiker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spiker, of Kitzmiller, was flower girl and Daron Spiker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spiker, Levittown, Pa., was ring bearer. Both are cousins of the bride.

Neil Bray, of Alliance, Ohio, served as his nephew's best man. Ushers were Donald Rohrbaugh, Keyser, W. Va., and Brad Barton, Elkins, W. Va.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line silhouette gown of organza. The bodice and bishop sleeves and Victorian collar were trimmed with chantilly lace. Tiny bows accented the neckline and empire waistline. Lace extended on the skirt in a Redingote effect sweeping into a chapel train. A halo of lace held the mantil of illusion, edged with Chantilly lace. A cascade of white carnations, daisies and stephanotis completed her costume.

Following the ceremony a buffet dinner was served in the Kitzmiller Community building. Mrs. Wanda Harvey and Mrs. Elizabeth Spiker, grandmothers of the bride, assisted. Mrs. Dorothy Knotts and Mrs. Elizabeth Spiker, served the four tiered cake made by the mother of the bride. Mrs. Darlene Davis, aunt of the bridegroom and Mrs. Eva Myers presided at the punch bowl, Miss Robin Spiker, another cousin of the bride attended the guest book.

The bride attends Frostburg State College majoring in English, and is employed at the Algonquin Motor Inn. The bridegroom, who is a senior at Frostburg State College this fall, is majoring in French. He is employed at the credit department at Sears in LaVale.

For their wedding trip, the bride chose a princess-style dress of white sprinkled with tiny red rosebuds. They are residing at 115 Braddock street, Frostburg.

Among the pre-nuptial parties was a bridal shower given by Miss Carol Guth at FSC. The bridegroom's mother entertained with the rehearsal dinner. Mrs. Nichols was hostess for a post-nuptial utensil shower.

Evans Reunion Held

Those attending were from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana, North Carolina, Virginia, and Maryland.

Another reunion will be held the same place the third Sunday of July, 1975.

Reunian Correction

The story in last week's issue of The Republican about the 1961 class reunion should have read Donna (Shaffer) Holtschneider instead of Donna Paugh Holtschneider. We regret the mixup in names.

Policy Change Noted On Reduced, Free School Lunch

A liberalized policy for free and reduced price lunches and free milk for school children was announced this week by the Maryland State Department of Education.

Entitlement to free and reduced cost lunches is determined by family size and income. A child from a family of four, for example, will be entitled to a free lunch and free milk if family income is below $5,616. He or she pays the reduced cost (10 cents) for lunch if income is between $5,616 and $7,900.

Other children who are eligible include those from families with unusual expenses for medical bills, shelter, special education expenses, or casualty losses. Foster children are also eligible in certain cases.

Application forms with a letter to parents will be sent to all families with children in school at the beginning of the school year. Information provided on the forms will be treated confidentially. No child will be discriminated against on account of race, sex, origin, or ability to pay.

Boaters Reminded Of Licensing And Life Preserver Laws

Laws regarding boat licensing and life preservers have been clarified this week by Cpl. Harry Miller of the Natural Resource Police, who is in charge of law enforcement locally.

He reminds all boaters that any boat with a motor must now be registered and licensed, due to a new law passed last year which became effective January 1.

Owners of boats with 7½ horsepower motors or less must now apply for licenses and registration just like owners of larger boats.

Boat dealers and service companies in the Lake area have applications available. Cost is $2 title tax, with no charge for registration for boats 16 feet or less.

Owners of boats 16 feet or over with engines 7½ horsepower or less must pay the $2 fee and a $5 registration fee.

These laws affect owners of boats bought prior to January of this year, when the new laws went into effect. Purchasers of new boats will be made aware of these new regulations at the time of purchase.

Life Preserver Requirements

A law passed last fall now requires all boats 16 feet or longer to carry one type 1, 2 or 3 wearable life preserver for each person in the boat, along with at least one type 4 "cushion" preserver in each boat.

The type 1, 2 or 3 preservers must fit the individuals in the boat, whether adult or child. Most business places have these wearable preservers available, at a cost comparable to the cushion type.

Members of the Natural Resource Police are issuing citations to anyone on the Lake found in violation of safety regulations.

Former Department of Natural Resources boating regulations regarding Deep Creek Lake will become obsolete as soon as new rules are printed. New laws regarding safety, boat speeds, and skiing will be put into effect next summer. All new regulations will be advertised before the next boating season begins, according to Cpl. Miller.

Dr. Von Braun Visits Allegany Vo-Tech Center

Dr. Werner Von Braun, noted German scientist, visited the Allegany County Vocational Technical Center at Cresaptown today, accompanied by Harry Teter of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

They were met by Senator Charles McC. Mathias. The group examined the Appalachian Education satellite project being conducted at the center, where some Garrett county teachers are enrolled in the program.

The program comes under the Regional Educational Services Administration.

Coal Diggers Drill Corps "Best In Class"

The West Virginia Coal Diggers, a drill corps of 43 children, ages 3 through 16 years, marched through the streets of Ashland, Ky., on July 13 to represent the West Virginia Coal Industry in the PIPE Indian reunion parade. Their efforts earned them a "best in class" trophy.

The trophy was presented to Director Marie Weatherholt.

Four weeks prior to the parade the group had no money, no uniforms and new members had little drill training. The corps estimated it needed $3,000.

Area businessmen were contacted and nearly 100 persons made donations, including Moran's Trucking company, Del Boring Tire of Oakland, Kelly's Furniture of Mt. Lake Park; Stahl's Refrigeration of Mt. Storm; Cline Sewing Factory, Keyser, and Farmers and Merchants bank of Keyser, and Grafton Coal company. Money for uniforms and bus fare was raised. Women donated their time to make the uniforms. Enroute to Ashland the group toured the capitol building in Charleston.

The Diggers now have members from Grant and Mineral counties in West Virginia, and Garrett County.

Woman Accosted By Fake Detective At Foodland

One woman was accosted in Browning's Oakland Foodland parking lot last Thursday and had her purse searched by a man claiming to be a store detective.

The woman's husband later called the store, and was told that no one was authorized to check women's purses or otherwise detect shoplifters except the store managers. At no time has anyone been authorized to make such checks outside the store.

The woman reported that nothing was taken from her purse so far as she knows although the man rummaged through the contents before handing it back to her. The incident was reported to the state police and to the local radio station.

No other such incidents have been reported.

Commissioners At Various Meetings

County Commissioners were in attendance at various state and local functions during the past week.

They attended the Maryland Association of Counties summer conference where local problems were discussed. Alternatives to the possible elimination of the property tax and an increase in the sales tax was highly discussed. Neal Potter, president of the Montgomery county council, supported keeping the property tax, as he said it provided about twice as much revenue as the sales tax. He pointed out that the sales tax would have to be twelve percent to generate the same amount of revenue as the present property tax.

Chairman Wayne B. Hamilton was in Annapolis Tuesday meeting with Lowell Frederick of Economic and Community Environment. He also was in a meeting to discuss several feasibility studies being conducted in the county concerning the National Freeway and other proposed development.

Mr. Hamilton also met with Louis Phipps, deputy secretary Department of Natural Resources, to discuss proposed development and its affect on the natural environment of the county.

Mr. Hamilton also met with Congressman Goodloe Byron regarding effects of coal mining in county. The commissioners last winter during energy crisis encouraged legislators to consider coal as a source of energy because of its availability. Anchor Coal company is asking for local support for its efforts to open a deep mine near Grantsville.

Mr. Hamilton also met with William Brown, Appalachian Regional Commission to discuss new funding being made available for recreation and conservation. Mr. Hamilton was expressing the county's need for funding for a building for the community college. It was suggested that a portion of the building could be used for the environmental and estuarine center, University of Maryland, which is considering moving from LaVale.

The commissioners met with Dr. Alta Schrock of the Highlands association to discuss feasibility study for vocational education and woodwork production in Grantsville area. The association received Appalachian Regional commission funds to do a feasibility study for such a program. The association is planning to implement this program in late fall.

The commissioners opened bids for the Communications system and tower for sheriff's department. Bidding on the equipment were RCA and General Electric. Bidding on the tower were RCA and Instrucom, Inc. Awards were not made pending investigation of the specification compliance.

Sitting as a Roads board the commissioners met with residents of the Walnut Bottom area to discuss widening of the Walnut Bottom road. Commissioners said that widening of the road would most likely take place this fall, barring any setback due to weather conditions.

EDUCATION:

This is the most important function of County Government.

I consider myself a friend of educotion. I think I om well informed about education, it's problems and possibilities.

About 4.8% of our children graduating from high school cannot read at a 4th grade level. I have some specific ideas thot might be tried to improve this situotion and hopefully help make Garrett County's school system a premier system.

Washington Post Story On Land Use Criticized

A news story in the Washington Post of July 29, concerning Garrett County proposing to give up some state land, was being criticized this week by local persons as being inaccurate and misleading. The story was by Douglas Watson, a staff writer for the newspaper.

The leading paragraph declaring that "Maryland officials are considering retorning up to 10,000 acres of state forest land in Garrett County to private ownership and development, a move that could encourage expanded strip mining," was declared misleading. Marshall Rickert, head of the Planning commission, declared the implication on strip mining was in the writer's own mind and not from anything which he had indicated in a telephone interview. The writer admitted he had never inspected the master plan maps and outline.

The master plan for the county's development, did recommend that no more state land be acquired, and recommended opening some matore state tracts to responsible persons for harvesting the timber.

The article also indicated that there had been bickering between the planning commission and the Department of Natoral Resources, which the commission declared was not true. Rickert said that a good relationship with the department had been established a few years ago and was still applicable.

The story concerned mainly the plans of the County Planning commission and what coold be done to call for more productivity in the area for better economy.

Rickert said he planned to clarify the commission's position with the newspaper and with the Department of Natural Resources.

Honored On Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Selby, Friendsville, and Lt. Cdr. (Ret) and Mrs. Henry C. Shaffer, Summerville, South Carolina, honored their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Rush, Friendsville, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

An open house reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rush on Sunday, July 11. Over 350 friends and relatives attended. A buffet luncheon was served earlier to the family and out-of-town guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Selby.

The table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake and a smaller wedding cake, both made and decorated by Mrs. Helen Shaffer, daughter of the Rushes. A low arrangement of gold and white shasta daisies flanked by gold candles, miniature bridal couples dressed in gold and miniature bells also decorated the table. Sandwiches for the reception were prepared by Mrs. Fred Humberson, Friendsville.

The gift table was centered with a yellow and green planter, a gift from Mrs. Ruth Selby and Mrs. Stella Conti, Cumberland.

Mrs. Rush's gown was designed and made by her daughter, Mrs. Jean Selby. She wore a corsage of yellow mums given her by her daughters, and her only jewelery was a gold locket and earrings given to her by her grandchildren. Mrs. Susan DeSarro, granddaughter, was in charge of registering guests. Mrs. Dacie Wheeler, oldest sister of Mrs. Rush and Mrs. Charles Rush, sister-in-law of Mr. Rush, served the cake. Mrs. Vesta Frantz presided at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Beryl Wolf served coffee.

Orval Rush and Ocie Ryan were married at the parsonage of the Methodist Church at Brandonville, West Virginia, on March 15, 1924, by Rev. S. E. Ryan, father of the bride. They are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Jean Selby, Friendsville, and Mrs. Helen Shaffer, Summerville, South Carolina. They have four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

They have been residents of Friendsville most of their lives. Mr. Rush is retired, having had a farm and working in grocery stores most of his life. Mrs. Rush is active in Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star. Both are active in their church.

Bosley-Liller Wedding Held

Miss Lu-Jean Liller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gene Liller, Oakland, became the bride of David Allen Bosley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth V. Bosley, Gormania, in a double ring ceremony held at St. Paul's United Methodist church, Oakland, on Saturday, July 6.

Rev. Lawrence Sherwood, D. D., officiated. Miss Kim Liller, cousin of the bride, accompanied Mrs. Shirley Coffman, aunt of the groom, who sang, "More," "Color My World," and "We've Just Begun."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a long white gown of sata peau over taffeta, styled with a lace ruffled bib, high collar, with lace ruffle and full sleeves bonded in lace with ruffled cuffs. A narrow band of cotton lace encircled the waistline. The A-line skirt fell into a full chapel train, edged in lace. A profile headpiece of cotton lace flowers held the veil of tiered bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Tammy Hayden, Mt. Lake Park. Bridesmaids were Miss Rhonda Rodeheaver, Miss Cynthia Fike, Oakland; and Miss Gale Bosley, Gormania, sister of the groom.

Thomas Bosley, Gormania, was best man. James Bosley, Daniel Bosley, Gormania, brothers of the groom, and Kevin Liller, Steven Liller, Oakland, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

A reception followed at the American Legion home, Oakland. Mrs. Sue Morgan and Mrs. Madeline Humberson, aunts of the bride, served cake. Mrs. Betty Jean Liller, aunt of the bride, served the punch. Miss Robyn Morgan, cousin of the bride, served coffee. Mrs. Martha Deem and Mrs. Joyce Winters attended gifts. Miss Mary Lynn Gibson registered guests.

Spotlight On Summer Theatre

Cynthia Simpson, pictured above, is presently appearing at the Garrett County Playhouse as garrulous Brenda and as sweet Susan in the Taylor-Bologna comedy, "Lovers and Other Strangers." Summer stock is something of a departure for Cynthia, who, trained at the Goodman School of Theatre, has worked mostly in musical comedy and in modern classics; but her skill has helped her bridge the gap admirably.

Oklahoma born Cynthia has lived all over the United States and it may be this geographic diversity which enhances her notable versatility—a quality full displayed to the fullest in last week's "Spoon River Anthology."

Juvenile Cases In March Show Drop Over Last Year

According to a report received from Maryland Department of Juvenile Services, the total number of juvenile cases in Garrett County in March decreased from those of the same month of last year.

This is in contrast to an increase in the state generally.

Cases in the county decreased by 50 percent whereas the state cases increased by 24 percent for the same month.

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Lives—growing or mature—goin direction only with commitment.

Join the FAMILIES who worship and grow together in church.

PRAYER FOR TOUGH TIMES

Lesson for August 4, 1974

Background Scripture: Colossians 1: 1-14, 2:1-7; 4:7-18.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 5:13-20.

A well-known corporation lawyer was overheard one night on a train from his Pullman berth: "Now I lay me down to sleep. I pray the Lord my soul to keep. . . ."

There is nothing wrong with that prayer, except that it would seem that a Christian might be expected to grow beyond its simple requests. One is not surprised if a child is self-centered and simplistic in his prayers. We would anticipate, however, that an adult would have learned a more mature approach to prayer.

Rev. Althouse

Always Thanksgiving

In Colossians Paul is writing to a church that is in danger of some kind. Its situation is precarious. The first chapter of this epistle is a good illustration of how a Christian can pray in times of deep concern and stress.

For one thing, Paul prays thankfully. In fact, thanksgiving is the one constant element in his prayers, regardless of how dark the situation may be. "We always thank God . . . when we pray for you" (1:3). Even when Paul is concerned about the dangers confronting the Colossians, Paul continues to pray thankfully.

This is the secret of Paul's effective prayer life: he always finds something for which to be thankful and by concentrating on his gratitude he opens up the channels through which God's grace will flow. Anyone can thank God when things are going well, but if we learn to thank him in tough times, we will find our prayers much more effective in the long run. God works best in thankful hearts and lives.

A prayer for understanding

One would expect, perhaps, that from thanksgiving, Paul would settle down in his prayer to ask for HELP! But Paul sees another petition as more important: "that you may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding" (2:9). Why would he pray for understanding God's will?

The answer is that very often, unless we understand God's will, we do not recognize the help he sends us. God always answers our prayers, but sometimes the answers come in forms that we may not recognize.

Paul makes a further petition "to lead a life worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing to him, bearing fruit in every good work..." (3:10). Once again, Paul puts something else before sheer rescue. He asks that in the midst of this danger, the Colossians may conduct themselves in such a way that God is glorified in the sight of men. This was the example of Christ on the cross.

Finally, Paul asks, "May you be strengthened with all power ..." (3:11). If we are not to escape the danger around us, it is more important that we find the strength from God to see it through and emerge as victors rather than victims.

Taylor-Evans Nuptials Held

St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, was the scene of the marriage of Alberta L. Evans and John A. Taylor Saturday, June 15, with the Rev. Donald R. Thomas officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Evans of Horse Shoe Run. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Taylor of Rockhurst.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of sheer nylon organza over an acetate taffeta lining. Delicate lace ruching accented the high neckline and V-shaped bib. The long bishop sleeves featured lace cuffs. A matching lace Camelot-type hat trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip-length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds, white pompons and baby's breath.

Mrs. Carolyn Baumgardner, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of pink double knit polyester featuring a high neckline and long sleeves. Her headpiece was a halo of pink rosebuds and pompons matching her bouquet of rosebuds, pompons, and baby's breath.

Roger Taylor served his brother as best man. Ushers were Lee Weybright and Richard Baumgardner II, both brothers-in-law of the bride. Organist was Mrs. Judy Thomas.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Gloria Weybright, sister of the bride, served the cake, and Mrs. Donna Taylor, sister-in-law of the groom, served the punch.

Will The Government Get Your Gun?

Most of us have no intention of giving up our guns. The primary reason is that we understand that an armed citizenry, well-trained in the use of arms, is the most powerful deterrent to domestic criminals looting our homes and businesses (as well as foreign enemies attacking our nation.)

Switzerland, which has not been involved in a war since 1515, bases its national defense on a militia system involving voluntary rifle training for young men. All qualified citizens keep their guns and ammunition at home — and they wear sidearms when going to the polls to vote — to demonstrate pride in readiness to defend their nation against all enemies, foreign or domestic. They spend very little tax money for the upkeep of standing armies or police forces.

In 1775, King George III of England came over here to disarm the American people. The rifles of the men of Massachusetts said "NO" very decisively. You should know the rest. They made their own government, and limited it with the Constitution of the United States, which provides in the 2nd Amendment that we have the right to "keep and bear arms."

Now 199 years later, our once-limited Government has become so powerful and centralized that it orders the people where to send their children to school, how to run their private enterprises, and when to build an addition to their houses.

And now, those of us who can see through the Liberal Grapevine understand very well that the Once-Limited Government is deceiving the American people with a very subtle CON GAME — GUN CONTROL and LEGISLATION.

Most people would agree that such legislation would be good IF it were magically able to eliminate all firearms. BUT, since it can't (simply because criminals don't obey laws) its only effect is to disarm law-abiding citizens.

And so observe that dictatorship, totalitarian concentration of power — is descending upon the American people, and that the super-rich elitists trying to arrange it are logically shifting the power to rule, slowly and cautiously as always, from the people to themselves. In a climate of crime and anarchy, the conditions are ripe for a totalitarian takeover by the Federal Government.

The political criminals plan and pay for such well-publicized riots as the Wounded Knee episode or the Kent State snow-job, the SLA, and the wave of political assasinations. Their purpose is to scare you into believing that local police are brutal, and cannot do their jobs without Federal Assistance. Their solution is the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which is the "American" equivalent of Hitler's SS — a plot to organize local police departments into a Federal Police force!

The John Birch Society is dedicated to fighting the tyrants who threaten to enslave us. Our only weapon is the truth. When will you join us? When the "copper shortage" ("necessary" for shell casings) eliminates ammunition from the hardware stores? Or when the Federal Police come knocking on your door at night to confiscate your "sniper weapon?"

VOLUME 98 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD. AUGUST 8, 1974 | PER COPY 15c | NUMBER 23

A Sad Occasion . . .

The admission of President Nixon that he had deceived the American people, the judiciary committee and even his own attorneys brings up a sad occasion tor all, particularly those who remained faithful to the elected leader of this nation, through these past months.

In an overall view, however, do his apparent misdeeds outweigh the good? It would not be difficult to convince this writer that they do not.

When Mr. Nixon was sworn in as president we were in the midst of a most destructive and expensive conflict. He brought this war to an honorable conclusion but not the way McGovern would have done it, by graveling before the enemy. When he became president the Supreme Court was stretching the constitution by strange liberal interpretations. His appointments brought back conservatism to the court. He recognized that China represented 25 percent of the total world population and that we should be on more friendly terms. He cut down the cold war with Russia, was instromental in bringing about a peaceful solution in the middle east. In all his foreign affairs he has served this nation creditably.

This editorial is not to condone the man for his errors. But he has had a good program. And how many members of the House of Representatives and Senate are guilty of the same offenses, for which he is charged, such as accepting illegal campaign contributions, income tax evasion, misrepresenting things to their constituents, withholding information that would jeopardize their political careers? A good percentage of them, I would wager. Let him who is without blemish cast the first stone.

More than a century ago President Andrew Johnson was impeached by the House and was saved in the Senate by a single vote. Let us learn a lesson from history. If Mr. Nixon is to be convicted of impeachment and removed from office, let it be for "high crimes" as specified in the Constitution and nothing less. As the President has stated, let us weigh the evidence in perspective of the entire matter.

Weather Forces Postponement Of Tennis Matches

Uncooperative weather on Saturday and Sunday forced postponement of three matches of the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament, which will now be played next week in Wheeling, Pittsburgh and Washington.

In the men's singles over 55, Mickey Pardew defeated Henry Foss 6-1, 6-2. In the men's singles, Mac Pardew defeated John Williams 6-3, 6-4. Williams, of Baltimore, was seeded number one in the men's singles and Pardew number two.

In the men's singles, 45 and over Mickey Pardew will face Jack Dorsey, Keyser, next week in Wheeling. Martha Eaton, Pittsburgh, number two, will play against Nancy Best, Baltimore, number one, in the finals of the women's singles event in Pittsburgh next week.

John Myers and Charles Atherton will match skills against David Martin and Tim Jenkins in men's doubles finals next week in Washingtun, D.C. Winners of these three matches will be announced later, according to Earle Palmer Brown, vice president and tournament director of the Mt. Lake Tennis Club.

Needed Rainfall Dampens Mt. Top This Past Week

Some needed rain fell over the weekend on the Mountain Top and some more this morning. Temperatures were slightly below normal.

There was some light to moderate breezes during the storms and a light, cool breeze was blowing Monday.

Daytime mercury readings averaged 78.3 degrees, the high being 82 last Friday before the storm broke. Monday it got no higher than 69 degrees. Marning lows averaged 54.3 degrees with the lowest being 50 degrees Tuesday.

Photo I. D. Cards For Social Service Being Provided

The Department of Social Services is currently engaged in a program of providing each person who receives a check from that agency with a photo identification card.

This program is mandatory throughout the state and is designed to protect merchants and banks as well as persons wanting to cash checks issued by the department, according to Perry Shaffer, executive director.

Within this county there has not been a large problem with persons cashing checks which do not belong tu them, but this is a problem in the metropolitan areas and causes much inconvenience for business places and persons trying to cash checks without sufficient identification, he pointed out.

With the card any person should be able to cash a Social Service check at any bank or store in Maryland. If the business do not recognize the individual sinessy establishment personnel presenting a check to be cashed, it has every right to ask to see the photo I. D. card.

The local Department of Social Service has processed nearly one-third nf the caseload and it will complete the project by October 15, it was stated.

Permission to construct the 50-acre lake has been filed hy the Youghiogheny Mountain Club. The lake would be just two miles above Muddy Creek Falls, in the Swallnw Falls State fnrest.

Four were taken to the hospital with one person, Barbara Uppercue, 19, Baltimore, remaining as a patient after being treated for burns of both legs. The others were treated for burns and released.

The Hahn family was having a reunion at the home of Carroll Hahn, on the Beckman's peninsula. Two motor boats were cruising near each other when one boat, driven by John Hahn, uncle of Carroll, was losing speed and Richard M. Hahn, 23, Baltimore, passenger in the boat opened the hatch to check the trouble. The hatch was then closed and Carroll Hahn, coming up in the other boat, suggested waiting for a while to see if the suspected gas fumes vanished.

The latter boat then moved off and the driver of the trunbled boat turned up the throttle but the boat did not respond. The explosion followed a short time later as Carroll Hahn returned tu the scene. In the meantime the injured persons had reached shore and the boat was in flames.

In the boat besides Richard and John were Prilip A. Hahn, 17, Catonsville, Keith Hahn, and Miss Uppercue.

The injured were brought to Garrett County Memurial hospital by the Garrett County Rescue squad. The boat was considered a total loss. It was "The Bee," a Century Sahne, 1966 model, and was said to have been in excellent condition.

SENSING THE NEWS

Network Bias

The role of the television networks as instruments of establishment liberals to continue to trouble many thoughtful Americans. The networks deny that their programs are slanted. But all their actions reveal that they are interested in presenting only one view, the liberal view of American life.

A case in point is "The American Challenge" a weekend special on the CBS Network earlier this summer. This program purported to offer listeners insight into where the country is going and what are our next troubles. In an advertisement placed in the news magazines CBS said it was broadcasting 30 reports by an "impressive array of thinkers and doers."

It was an impressive array of liberal thinkers and doers. But where were the conservative thinkers and doers? Where was the balance in presentation that should have been offered by the network. The balance in presentation that should have been offered by the network. The balance simply wasn't there. Only one well-known conservative thinker—William F. Buckley Jr.—was included in the list, as a token of liberal tokenism.

The listening audience heard about America's future from Profs. John Galbraith and Paul Samuelson of Harvard, former Johnson administration staffers Richard Goodwin, George Reedy and Bill Moyers, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, women's liberationist Gloria Steinem, former Socialist Party Chairman Michael Harrington, and a variety of liberal critics of American society, including Margaret Mead, Robert Hutchins, Barry Commoner, Nat Hentoff and Dwight McDonald. If ever there was a one-sided forum, this was it.

These voices should be heard, but their critics also should be heard. It is inexcusable and intolerable that only the spokesman of liberal elitism should have a hearing on network programs.

Well, someone may say, who should have been on the program to give balance? It would have been the simplest matter for CBS to include a representative group of thinkers and doers who believe in our economic system and in the general structure and objectives of our society—for example, economists Milton Friedman and Henry Manne, essayist Russell Kirk, columnist Stanton Evans, national legislators such as Rep. Philip Crane and Sen. Jesse Helms, and such scholars and commentators as Thomas Molnar, George Roche, Stefan Possony, and R. Emmett Tyrrell Jr.

Why didn't CBS include conservatives of this caliber to balance the liberals and radicals? Why are conservatives systematically excluded from major media events?

The answer is that the major media, such as CBS, are determined that the public not receive an in-depth, balanced understanding of national issues. Though fairness is supposed to be built into network programming, the fact is that fairness is almost wholly absent.

One wonders when a really large part of the public will realize that it is being spoon-fed liberal-left views and denied access to other significant views and vital facts. The networks, for example, have functioned as lobbyists for a single point of view—a single conception of America.

Given the fact that the air waves belong to the public, it is outrageous that the electronic media should be characterized by such sustained, systematic bias in the presentation of public issues. In allowing this condition to exist year after year, without making any attempt to require the networks to develop balance in news and commentary, the Federal Communications Commission is betraying its duty to the American people.

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON

President—National Education Program

Searcy, Arkansas

The American government has gone into the rope selling business again! We have been in that business many times before, but at the rate we are selling rope in 1974, it appears, Russia may have a corner on the world rope market before the year is out.

For those who don't remember what the "Rope selling" business is all about, let me quote from Lenin's "Private Notes, 1921." Quote: "The capitalists of the entire world, and their governments, in the rush to conquer Soviet markets will close their eyes to the . . . realities, and will thus turn into Blind Deaf-Mutes. They will open credits which will serve as a support for the Communist Party—even in their own countries, and will provide us with essentially needed materials and technology which will restore our military industries, essential for our future victorious attacks on our suppliers . . . they will be working for the preparation of their own suicides."

Lenin pointed out that the capitalists would compete to sell the Bolsheviks the rope for hanging capitalism.

For those who believe the Communists have changed their stripes, that what Lenin said in 1921 immediately after World War I and only a few years after the Bolshevik take-over of Russia no longer holds in our present Detente, let me quote from a more modern source: Isvestia, official voice of the Russian Communist ruling party, November 27, 1973: "The Marxist-Leninist ideology is waging an offensive against bourgeois and revisionist ideology along the whole front. Under conditions of relaxation of tension we are faced with a crucial task: To make full use of the opportunities being opened up for a future offensive against bourgeois and revisionist ideology."

Isvestia was concerned that detente might lead to a sense of popular relaxation among the Russian people and vigorously called for vigilance. At the same time, Radio Moscow, in Arabic, was calling upon the Arabs to take advantage of detente, which allegedly had weakened American ties with Israel.

For those who believe that detente between Russia and the United States and detente between Red China and the United States has somehow become a magical substitute for realistic statesmanship, let me quote from Chinese Premier Chou Enlai, speaking to a banquet for visiting Cambodian Communists about the same time as Isvestia was telling the Russians what detente meant in Moscow. Quote: "The revolutionary people do not at all believe in so-called lasting peace or a generation of peace. So long as imperialism exists, revolution and war are inevitable."

So what is the answer of our State Department to these blunt, plain statements about detente from the leaders of Russian and Chinese communism? We are selling rope with which to hang capitalism!

The world, and politicians in particular, would not believe Hitler when he plainly declared his intentions in his book, Mein Kampf. They did not believe Lenin, Stalin nor Kruschev. Now it appears our State Department absolutely refuses to believe today's leaders of Communism in both Russia and China. They are not speaking with a forked tongue! They do not hesitate to plainly state their intentions of using detente as entire world. They are still using the same financing sources they started out with back in 1917 . . . the good, old, American taxpayers. Yes, American taxpayers have footed the bill for the development of communism right from its very inception. That's what Lenin meant about capitalism selling the rope to hang itself.

Giving President Nixon Credit

President Nixon no doubt could emphasize with a lament of Brigham Young, the 19th century Mormon prophet and colonizer. In a letter to Jefferson Davis, Young spoke of the "utter uselessness" of trying to vindicate his character from attacks against it: "When the vile slander is fairly refuted, and truth appears in the most incontestable manner, it is permitted to be quietly upon the shelf to slumber the sleep of death."

President Nixon's character likewise has been under constant bombardment and, with Brigham Young, he can fairly say that even the praiseworthy things he does seem to be overlooked by those seeking his political downfall.

Here, then, for the record:

It was President Nixon who, after a decade of U.S. fighting in Vietnam, extricated our forces from that country and orchestrated the return of some 600 American POWs early in 1973.

It was President Nixon who created Henry Kissinger, our globe-trotting super solver of the world's problems. Without the skill and courage of a Richard Nixon, there could be no Henry Kissinger. Kissinger received the Nobel Peace Prize but Mr. Nixon earned it.

It was President Nixon who last year presided over the first major turnabout in the nation's growing welfare rolls in 20 years. Through insisting on tighter management practices at both the Federal and State levels of government, 255,000 persons — many of them welfare cheaters — were removed from the rolls of the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, saving the U.S. Treasury 800 million annually.

And it was President Nixon who, when faced recently with nearly a half-million-dollar tax liability, quietly agreed to pay it rather than contest the amount as virtually any other American taxpayer would have done.

Mr. Nixon's administration obviously has had plenty of problems. But let's not forget it also has had some outstanding successes. — U.S. Press Association.

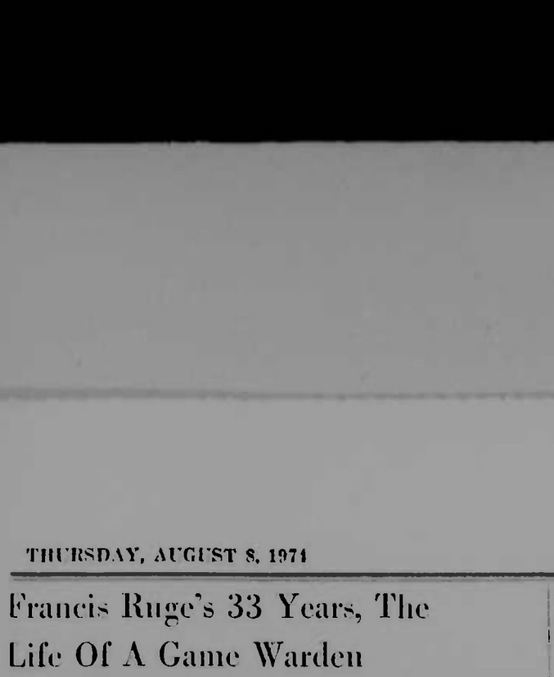
Francis Ruge's 33 Years, The Life Of A Game Warden



by Carol Canan

Most people look forward to retiring so that they can do all the things they've never had time for. That is not quite the case, however, with Francis Ruge, who retired early this year after 33 years doing what he enjoyed most in life, working as a Natural Resource Policeman.

Mr. Ruge, a native of Eckhart, began his career in Allegany county, but was called to Garrett county when George Shields, then game warden, was taken in the draft.

After Mr. Shields returned from the Army, Mr. Ruge worked again in Allegany county for a time, but wasn't very fond of that territory, since mosquitoes were so thick — and so large — along the canal and towpath.

He was glad to come back to the highlands when he had a chance, receiving a permanent appointment here in 1951. At that time, there was one warden for Garrett county, with the main chores of a forest warden being to patrol Deep Creek Lake in summer and to keep an eye on hunters in hunting seasons. Then, too, the deputy warden system was in effect, with Jake Parker deputy. Now there are three Resource Police assigned year 'round, and extras to help with the Lake Patrol in summer.

For years, wardens attended annual one-week training sessions on the police procedures and laws involved in their jobs, and learned the other facets of their jobs "on the job." Now there are training sessions for police on all parts of their duties.

Until 1951, the wardens used their own vehicles and were paid expenses and allowed depreciation. Now each has a state vehicle to drive. Wardens also made out a daily accounting of where they were and what they accomplished.

On his job, Mr. Ruge especially liked the chance of being outdoors and mingling with hunters and fishermen. He regarded making arrests only as part of his job, something he couldn't get out of, and the men he arrested reacted accordingly. In all his years, he never had any trouble with the ones he found violating the laws. He felt they knew they were breaking the law, and most went along peaceably. He never was shot at nor did anyone ever pull a gun on him. Quite a few times, though, people did take off running if caught in the act, human nature being what it is.

He doesn't feel lawbreaking is increasing, noting that there have always been spotlighters and others who try to take the easy, unsportsmanlike ways of killing game.

For many years, Mr. Ruge lived wih his brother-in-law, the late Philip Filsinger, and sister Mary, on their farm near Deer Park. He is the son of the late Robert J. Ruge and Frances Schreiber, a Polish-German combination who married and settled in Eckhart where his dad worked in the coal mines. He is the youngest in a family of ten.

For the last several years, since his assignment in the northern part of the county, he has boarded with Mrs. Mary Livengood in Grantsville. Now he plans to move to Frostburg to live with his other sisters. Elizabeth and Ann.

Mr. Ruge never saw a bear until the last year he worked, when he sighted one in September in the Savage River area. Never since he has been working here can he remember a case of rabies.

He has tramped over nearly every inch of the county numberless times, but doesn't favor any one area over another. Once he had a special liking for Deep Creek Lake, before the deluge of summer boat traffic and tourists.

Mr. Ruge has been so content here that he never traveled much, content to go to Canada occasionally for fishing, and once he got as far as the Mississippi River, but a freak May snowstorm forced him to turn back. He was on his way to visit Yellowstone Park at the time, about 1938.

He is saddened at the decrease of wildlife locally, including grouse and turkeys, and reminds kind-hearted citizens not to take home "motherless" fawns or other wildlife. Many times the game wardens have been called to help with an animal found in the woods, and the wardens usually would return the animals to the places they were found, and the check on them to make sure they were all right. Occasionally they would have to take deer in the 400 acre wildlife refuge in Washington county.

Mr. Ruge's spare time now will be filled with leisurely hunting and fishing trips, some reading, and with his newest hobby, collecting old-time silent movie films. He now has five or six reels of "The Perils of Pauline," circa 1918, one "Tarzan of the Apes" and some comedies such as "Ben Turpin."

Lately he has also begun collecting films about railroads, such as the "B & O Centennial 1937" and "Winter Railroading in the Colorado Rockies." Two nephews are railroad buffs and got him interested in this newest hobby.

His interest in the county will not stop with retirement, especially since another hobby he plans to pursue is the growing of native Chestnut trees, which he hopes will prove resistant to the blight which killed all local trees years ago.

Some years ago, he got a few Chestnut burrs, and planted the nuts in planters. When the trees were about five inches high, he transplanted them to the Filsinger farm and his home in Frostburg.

Four saplings grown from seed bore chestnuts when they were about ten years old, but developed the blight after two years and were killed. One of these, wrapped in vinyl plastic tree guard, lived and bore burrs one year longer, but it also died after the wrappings disintegrated. He plans to continue trying, however.

He was honored on retirement with a dinner sponsored by the Frostburg Knights of Columbus. Regional NRP representatives attended and presented him with a gold watch for his years of service. Cpl. Harry Miller and Officer John Williams, county Resource Police, gave him a filet knife for fish.

May he have many more years to fish and hunt, without the chore of watching for lawbreakings'

C. C. McIntyres Will Travel To Bermuda

Mr. McIntyre ranked seventh across the local region last year he was number 15 at the end of the convention year.

Mr. McIntyre was also recently notified that he had won the National Sales Achievement Award for the second year in a row. For the last four years, he has led the entire Cumberland district in insurance sales volume.

In Bermuda, he will be presented with a sports blazer by the company, the third he has won. The McIntyres have attended conferences previously in the Bahamas, Atlanta, and Toronto, and in November they plan to attend a convention in Toronto, and in November thty Puerto Rico.

well but we were without water for more than four months."

On another occasion he said polluted water from a cess pool destroyed all the fish in Little Bear Creek for several miles. Another time some thirty thousand trout at the Bear Creek fish hatchery were destroyed.

Mr. Aiken wrote to Mr. Coulter after visiting the site to the proposed dam and lake. "I believe that the nature of the land is such that it would be next to impossible to keep the impounded water from seeping through the bottom and sides of the lake," he said. He pointed out the water which would leave in that manner would not return to the natural bed of the stream. Mr. Aiken also declared he was convinced that there was not enough water available to feed a fifty-acre lake and maintain the desired flow for Muddy Creek Falls.

He offered suggestions in place of a lake which included a park with driveways along the shores of the stream, a park similar to Rock Creek park in Washington. He also suggested an arboretum similar to those found on many college campuses. He said there was no limit to what could be done to make the park a beautiful place and still preserve Muddy Creek in its natural state.

He concluded by telling Mr. Coulter it was his belief that in the long run the retirees who are purchasing lots in the area would be "much better satisfied with a beautiful park.

lege, Mellenry. The meeting is open to the public and all interested persons are invited.

To be discussed and open to questions is the Maryland Housing Fund and the Maryland Home Financing Program.

Primary aim of the Housing Fund is to stimulate home ownership of adequate, reasonably priced housing in Maryland for various income levels by guaranteeing qualified lending instutions against losses.

The Home Financing Program was established to make direct mortgage loans to disadvantaged and low income citizens of Maryland at a preferred rate of interest.

Delegate Bolden stated, "I feel that we have been neglectful in these home ownership programs mainly because they have not been fully explained and that this is an opportunity to get the "WORD" direct from the horse's mouth. I hope that those individuals who are in the market for a home and the realtors, the builders and the lenders make this meeting a top priority."

Reviews Russian Weed Control

An Oklahoma State University agronomy professor, whose wife is the former Susanna Porter of Oakland, has returned from a 30-day trip to the other side of the world where he reviewed Russian weed control work.

Dr Paul W. Santelmann spent 30 days in the Soviet Union at the request of the Council of Environmental Quality, a U.S. governmental agency, to participate in the 1974 U.S.-USSR Integrated Pest Management Program.

Santelmann visited with Soviet scientists at several institutions to evaluate their programs and to acquire information which "might be used for minimizing crop losses due to pests with a minimum effect on the environment," Santelmann said.

Contracts for future cooperative efforts and future exchange of research information were made.

A phytopathologist (plant pathologist) and an entomologist accompained Santelmann to research institutes in Moscow, Leningrad and Kishinev. Visits to plant protection institutes were made at Kiev, Kishinev, Tashkent and Samarkand.

Collective and state farms specializing in wheat, vegetables, fruit and cotton were visited. "As the collective farms control large areas and are under the complete control of the directors, some pest control practices can be carried out that cannot be used on farms in America," Santelmann said. "The Russians tend to rely more on biological control of insects than we do in the U.S.," he said.

"Though weed and disease control practices are similar to those we use, I saw large crews of workers with hand hoes in corn and sugar beet fields," Santelmann said.

A visit to the world headquarters of the Ciba-Geigy Corporation in Basel Switzerland was arranged. While in Basel Santelmann reviewed and discussed the herbicide screening and research programs being conducted by the company.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR County Commissioner
WHERE DO YOU STAND? If you are registered to vote you can take a stand; however, IF YOU ARE NOT REGISTERED TO VOTE do you realize you have no position; YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO SPEAK. It's that simple. REGISTER; THEN VOTE for the person of your choice! ! Our freedom is precious: a part of it is the choice to vote a person IN (OR OUT)* Call your candidate, ask him what he thinks about your pet subject. Does your candidate have a stand on each subject?
If you are presently enjoying your new tax bill, fine; if not, ask why your net tax has gone up; if it didn't go up this year, check your records over the last four. You'll find that it has gone up, although the present administration has said they didn't raise the rate (what they failed to say is, the base went up — hence higher taxes). I am aware of some tax bills raising 333%! Does that interest you? Check yours, ask your neighbor; talk to your friends.
It's time we got the truth — not half of it! We'll get into serious discrepancies which will surprise you later, but now let's concentrate on getting registered to vote. So remember — REGISTER before August 12th, 9 p.m. at Board office.

Board Reviews Sheriff's System On Communication

Bids for the county sheriff's department communications system were reviewed by the County Commissioners with George Camp, project director for a centralized system for the county.

The proposed system for the department would be paid in part by the governor's commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. The proposed system, Wayne Hamilton, chairman said, would enable a better radio contact between the deputies on patrol and throughout the county.

Commissioners also meet with Marshall Rickert, Planning director, to discuss the Youghiogheny Mountain Lake development and the proposed lake construction and its effect on Muddy Creek Falls. Following a public hearing held on this matter by the Department of Natural Resources, Hamilton said there was still much public concern for the impoundment. The county planning commission testified at the hearing setting forth conditions which should be met before the construction of the lake is permitted.

Commissioners are attending the Soil Conservation tri-annial review at Garrett county. Reviews are held throughout the state to keep the local residents informed as to the Soil Conservation Service activities. Mr. Hamilton said that keeping up with the various state agencies is more readily available when the information meetings are held in this county.

Commissioners also took action on a proposed budget adjustment requested from the Social Services Department following normal budget procedures. The county is requesting that the unexpended funds from the Social Services department be returned to the county. The amount to be returned to the county is $1,607.81. In other action the commissioners reviewed an on-sight inspection report made by Col. J. Haig Jackson, administrative engineer for the Sanitary commission. They also reviewed a proposed market study being prepared by the State Department of Economic and Community Development. Hamilton said it is the policy of the State Department to do a feasibility study before undertaking projects in the various counties.

Roads Activities

Sitting as the Roads Board, chairman Earl Opel, in concurrence with Bernard Guy and Mr. Hamilton, awarded bids for rock salt at $30 per ton to Cargill Salt, Inc., electric wiring for the Accident garage, including electric heat, to Mac's Plumbing, for $12,900; and snow fence to D. W. Miller for 30,000 feet of snow fence at $10,200. In other action the board signed a right of way agreement with the Chessie System, for the road construction being done in Swanton.

Notices, Property Evaluation, Being Mailed Citizens

Garrett County property owners may expect to receive notices of assessment changes recommending new valuations to their properties. Such notices are required by law to be sent to any owner before an assessment can be increased. These notices show a proposed assessment of land and buildings as well as the previous assessment upon which current taxs bills are based. Owners should understand that this notice will affect tax bills which will be received by them July 1, 1975; and has no effect on the bill received this past month, it was stated by Jerome Moyer, Supervisor of assessments.

Prior to this year property owners in Maryland were accustomed to receiving such notice every three years. It was a regulation of the State Department of assessments and Taxation that directed local assessment offices in each county to physically review and assess every property on a three year basis. In 1973 property owners brought suit against the Department that resulted in a court order demanding that a more equitable system be devised since all jurisdictions were not following the three year plan. A procedure is to continue physically review on a three year basis and to revalue the remaining two-thirds of the properties by an analysis of market indicators was accepted by the Court to comply with its order. This Court case was heard in Anne Arundel Circuit Court Richard L. Borden v. Albert W. Ward, Equity No. 21,059, and before Judge James L. Wray.

Each year the local assessors will physically review a third of the properties and individually calculate the estimated value of each. In addition, they will conduct an office analysis of sales to develop a market index to adjust each assessment not physically reviewed. In either case the assessment determined is expected to represent the proper proportion of current value. This means that virtually every owner in Garrett County and the rest of the State can expect to receive such a notice between now and the end of the year.

Also, this is the first time that assessment notices represent 50% of the estimated value instead of 50 per cent as had been the statewide system until December 1973. The notices currently being received are intended to represent value of each property. If the owner feels that the market value of each property, if the owner feels that the assessed value is excessive he has the right to question the valuation. The notice gives specific details as to how a protest must be made.

The local office expects a flood of questions regarding the new annual assessment system, but the owner is required to take into consideration the fact that the new system is a result of the court order and not an action of the local office, it was pointed out.

Any questions the owner may have as to valuation is pertinent to the local office and will be handled as quickly and equitably as time allows. An official protest must be in writing and be received by the local office of assessments within twenty (20) days of the date shown on the notice. Upon making such a protest of the valuation the individual will receive a date for him to discuss the assessment with the assessor who made the calculation. A great deal of time will be saved if the owners request an appointment rather than to visit the office spontaneously since the assessor spends most of his time making field reviews and will not be available except at appointed times, he concluded.

Swan Mail Box Vandalized Again

D. Noel Obenshain had reported that for the third time his mail box in Green Glade road has been damaged by vandals.

The box constructed in the form of a large white swan was erected in 1971 at the west entrance road for the Hazelhurst section of Deep Creek Lake, it was a marker used by many of the summer residents to direct visitors to their cottages.

In mid summer of 1972 an explosive was detonated in the box and blew it all apart. Mr. Obenshain completely rebuilt it. Later the same summer the swan's head was torn from the box. It remained the "headless swan" during 1973.

Three weeks ago Mr. Obenshain with assistance of a nephew, made a new head for the swan and installed it on the mail box. Saturday morning a week ago around 2 a.m., vandals again broke the swan's head off. Marks on the head indicated that a tire chain was used, and pulled by a car or truck. A resident nearby was awakened by the crash and heard laughter as one or more vehicles drove off.

Mr. Obenshain is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties responsible.

The cards for men and women over 62 will be used for discount tickets for the Garrett Bus System when it begins operation about November 1 and for other programs instituted by the CAC and the Commission on Aging.

Dale Ellis, director of Senior Citizen programs for Garrett County, indicated that he is working on plans for several uses of the cards. He did not elaborate because the details have not been completed.

Some Senior Citizens will use the cards for the first time to gain a reduced price admission to the Garrett County Fair Friday.

The Canary yellow wallet size card can be obtained by filling out a form at the Community Action Ageney Office at the intersection of Liberty Street and the Sterling Processing Road in Oakland, or at the three hot meals centers in the County, Crellin, Jennings, and Kitzmiller.

There is no cost for the cards.

GOSPEL QUARTET TO PERFORM AT FAIR—"The Messengers", a gospel quartet, will provide religious music at the fair grounds at McHenry tomorrow evening, beginning at 7:30, it was announced.

Wrong Energy Answer

It was predictable that, in response to the energy shortage, a host of pro-socialist, self-appointed "experts" should proclaim, "Let the government do it!" No matter that these self-same experts are the most vocal among the carping critics of the American political and economic system. The answer to everything, it seems is more government control and authority in every segment of American life. And, in the energy field, the cry is for the formation of a "government corporation" to find and produce oil and natural gas on federal lands.

The irony of it all is that much of our current energy shortage can be attributed directly to government interference and control. And secondly, those who would "nationalize" industry here seem to be blind to the fact that the one country that is completely nationalized—Soviet Russia—is trying desperately to get American free-enterprise assistance, technology and know-how to develop the Soviet Union's rich resources of energy in Siberia. If Socialism is working so well, why isn't it working for the Soviet Union? And, since Socialism obviously is not working well for Russia, why should anyone expect that it would work well here?

Declares John E. Swearingen Chairman of Standard Oil Company (Indiana), "Formation of a government corporation to find and produce oil would only compound our difficulties."

"The record of the countries which have adopted this approach is so dismal by comparison with what competitive enterprise has accomplished in the United States," continued Mr. Swearingen, "that such a notion can hardly be taken seriously. U.S. Oil companies have found the largest portion of all the oil and gas reserves known to exist in the entire free world, including reserves American firms have found for foreign governments and the so-called 'national' oil companies."

Swearingen also pointed to the petroleum industry's readiness to take the risks involved in the exploration and development of both federal and private lands, noting that U.S. oil companies spent over $5 billion in 1972 for exploration and development within the United States.

Putting the government in the oil business is the wrong answer. Government encouragement of private enterprise is the right answer.—U. S. Press Association.

A Sharp Drop In Traffic Count Is Noted At McHenry

The traffic count at McHenry showed a sharp drop during June this year over 1973. There was a drop of 52,597 vehicles passing the check point. A decline was noted in the other three checkpoints which are in is a continuing trend of recent months.

In June this year 114,860 vehicles were counted at McHenry as compared to 167,457 in June 1973 with a percentage drop of 31.4.

The 1974 totals at McHenry are down 19.3 percent with this year's 568,945 being down from last year's 704,771.

The drops at Town Hill and Lonaconing are less being only 5.5 and 2.5, percent, respectively. The sharp drop at Clarysville is said to be due to the opening of the National Freeway to Frostburg.

Traffic Mishaps Injure Several Persons Recently

Several persons were injured in traffic accidents last week in various parts of the county. One person was taken to the Meyersdale Community Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Sharon J. Garner, Friendsville, was apparently not seriously injured and treated and released from the hospital. Mrs. Garner was driving east on the Bear Creek road near the Accident-Friendsville road last Tuesday morning. According to the State Police report she was reaching for an item on the floor and in doing so pulled the steering wheel to the right, causing the car to strike a bridge. Tfc. D. E. Tharp investigated the mishap.

One driver was slightly injured in a two-car mishap the afternoon of July 25 at U.S. Route 40 and the Finzel road.

Carol M. Minnich, RD 2, Frostburg, the injured, driving west on Route 40, was stopped in the lane of traffic attempting to make a left turn into the Finzel road. Lawrence R. Host, Booth, W. Va., following, failed to reduce speed, collided with the rear of the Minnich car and then hit a guard rail. Tfc. Carl D. Skidmore charged Host with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

One passenger, of a car in a three-car accident at the intersection of State Route 135 and old Route 219 last Saturday afternoon, was slightly injured.

Ruthanna Weber, was injured while a passenger in the car driven by Charles S. Weber, both of Chevy Chase. The Weber car was traveling west on Route 135. James E. Matthews, RD 1, Oakland, was stopped headed south on Old 219. Paul H. Arnold, RD 2, Oakland, had stopped headed north on other side of Old 219 but then continued across Route 135, struck the Weber car forcing it into the Matthews' car. Tfc. L. R. Rosage charged Arnold with failing to grant the right-of-way.

Lynn P. Contravo, Mt. Holly, N. J., was slightly injured when the brakes of his rig malfunctioned on a sharp turn on U.S. Route 50 at the top of the hill from Gorman. His tractor-trailer failed to negotiate a sharp left turn at the Althouse Hill road, went through the guard rail, down an embankment, struck a test pipe, a fence and came to rest against a tree. Tpr. David Miller investigated the mishap which occurred early last Tuesday morning.

Roland E. Seaman, Clarksburg, W. Va., was slightly injured in a one-car and deer mishap on U.S. Route 40 about two miles west of Keyser Ridge early last Thursday morning. Seaman struck a deer which had jumped onto the road in front of his car. Trooper Gary A. Berkebile investigated the mishap.

Two other minor, non-injury accidents occurred on Route 40 last week.

Robert L. Kidd, Baltimore, was traveling west on Route 40 in a truck towing another vehicle. The towed vehicle broke loose, ran off the left side of the road and struck a utility pole. It then returned to the roadway and hit a pickup driven by Rexford O. Bittinger, Sr., RD 2, Grantsville. The towed vehicle then drifted backwards and hit the towing truck of Kidd. The accident occurred near the Pocahontas road.

Gary G. See, Moorefield, W. Va., was driving east on Route 40 just west of Foster's Inn road the afternoon of July 28 and had stopped for a fine of traffic. Gilbert L. Riffle, Woodbridge, Va., following the See car, failed to reduce speed and hit it in the rear. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged Riffle with failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Enrolls At School

Miss Celia Marie Bailey, Mt. Lake Park, has enrolled in the Katharine Gibbs school in Montclair, New Jersey, for the two-year liberal arts, secretarial program.

Perform The Unusual

Two horses belonging to Lori Larson, of Lake Shore Drive, and Maureen McCormick, of Beckman's peninsula, both summer residents, apparently performed in an unusual manner last week by crossing Glendale bridge twice in two days.

The flooring on the bridge is a grating where animals or humans can look down and see the lake waters beneath them. Horses don't seem to enjoy the view. Nevertheless the two riders took their horses across the bridge to the Beckman peninsula, one day, and re-crossed it again the following day, without undue trouble.

New Spotlighting Law In Effect

A new law on the Maryland books was announced this week by members of the local Natural Resource Police, who felt it would be of interest to certain segments of the population.

Effective July 1, it became illegal to cast a light into fields or woods even without a gun in possession. An earlier law, which made it illegal to cast a light in fields or woods with a firearm or instrument used for killing in possession, remains in effect.

The bill, a version of one introduced to the last session of the General Assembly by Del. DeCorsey Bolden, states: "Hunting at nighttime with lights prohibited — A person may not hunt or attempt to hunt at nighttime any species of wild bird or wild quadruped with a light, including the headlights of any vehicle and also at nighttime a person may not cast the rays of any artificial light when the rays emanate from a vehicle on any woods, fields, orchards, livestock, wild animals or birds, dwellings or buildings. The provisions of this paragraph do not apply to the normal use of headlights of a vehicle travelling on any public or private road in a normal manner, to a person using a light or lights for purposes other than hunting, killing or intentionally assisting to hunt or kill wildlife to any police, emergency or utility company vehicle using spotlights in the performance of their duties, or to any farmer or landowner on his own or leased land using artificial lights to check on livestock or poultry. However, raccoons or opossum may be hunted on foot at nighttime during open season with the use of a dog and light.

During strike in Baltimore, 16 jail guards and a union official were arrested.

TURKEY ROLLS AND ROASTS

You'll be seeing more and more turkey rolls and roasts in grocery stores these days, says, the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One reason is the general abundance of turkey. The second is because processing of turkey roasts, rolls, and other turkey items has been one of the fastest-growing segments of the poultry industry in the last decade.

Processed turkey products come in a variety of styles ranging from raw, boneless roasts to cooked rolls and pan roasts. Some products are packed in aluminum pans and even include a packet of gravy. You can buy these products prepared with all white meat, all dark meat, or with white and dark combined. They can be served in a variety of ways. They are convenient.

Does convenience sacrifice quality? Are all turkey roasts the same quality? What goes into these products is the U.S. Grade A. mark on the label.

Before grading, the turkey in the product must have been inspected for wholesomeness. In addition, the U.S. Grade A shield on the label means that the boned turkey meat used in the product comes from young U.S. Grade A birds. These are the highest quality turkeys and are fully fleshed and meaty, well-finished, and attractive in appearence.

After the turkey has been deboned, it is formulated into rolls and roasts under the continuous supervision of graders from the Agricultural Marketing Service. The roasts must be made so that each slice will remain substantially intact when cooked and served. Tendons and cartilege must have been removed from the meat. In addition, the product must be packed so that it will retain its shape after thawing and cooking. The label on the roast must accurately describe the product's contents.

Ofelia del Rosario Is IFYE Guest Of The Virginia Grove Family, Mt. Lake

Pam Grove, 11, Mrs. Virginia Grove, Wendy, aged 6, Ofelia del Rosario, who has, unbelievably, just had her 30th birthday while visiting the U.S., and Bobby Grove, 8, pose in front of the Grove home in Mt. Lake, where Ofelia is a guest through the International Farm Youth Exchange program. Miss Rosario will present a program of slides and descriptive talk about her country next Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library.

By Carol Canan

Miss Ofelia A. Del Rossario, of Gabaldon, Nueva Ecija, the Philippines, is currently the guest of Mrs. Virginia Grove and children, Mt. Lake Park. Miss Rosario arrived last Thursday in this county, and will present a program of slides and short talks at various places in this area. A program will be given at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, next Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Prior to coming here, she was the guest of three families in Missouri. One of the families operates a beef raising farm, the other two were dairymen.

An elementary school teacher in her own country, she is staying with Mrs. Grove, who is a teacher at Dennett Road School. Mrs. Grove is a project leader of the Monte Vista Junior 4-H club, and is also a den mother in Cub Scouts.

Miss Rosario is the eighth in a family of twelve children, eleven of whom are surviving. Her family, including one brother who stills lives at home and is also a teacher, runs a small farm which produces corn, peanuts, and root crops. They have some chickens and a pig.

A member of a 4-H club in her homeland when she was a child, she was interested in swine and gardening. She is now an adult leader of a club.

Food care and preserving is of special interest to Miss Rosario, whose favorite American food is steak, (not hamburger) and peaches. She is interested in learning ways to dry and store foods. In her country, food is grown fresh year around, and rice is a staple of most diets. People in her country, she says, eat rice for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

To her, American foods are overcooked, as her people like crisp vegetables. She also noticed an overuse of bread and potatoes in the American diet. On her land, government sponsored nutritionists are employed to help people learn to clean and cook foods, and otherwise obtain better nutrition.

Family living is also different from that in her country, where generations live and work together. Here children are much more independent.

Miss Rosario says America is a "machine country" since we have "lots of machines." One is not enough, especially with cars. In the Philippines, everyone works and most labor is the hard way, by hand. The carabao is the national working animal.

Her country, too, is concerned with the fuel shortage, perhaps more so than is visible here. Here, she says, people have two or more cars and use them freely, as necessities rather than luxuries. Wastes of materials is also evident to her, with milk containers bought, emptied and thrown away; instead of recycled. In her country, newspapers are sold back to street vendors by weight, and bottles can also be re-sold.

The literacy rate in the Philippines is among the highest in the eastern countries, with 80 percent of the citizens able to read. The same percentage are members of the Roman Catholic Church. There are also a great number of professional people, doctors, lawyers, etc, in her country, but many go away for their training and then work elsewhere, coming home only for retirement.

Two nephews of Miss Rosario are in the United States at present, both married to nurses. One is with the U.S. Army stationed in California, the other lives near Philadelphia.

Miss Rosario also mentioned that teachers as well as students in her country wear uniforms. There is also a national uniform for special occasions.

After leaving the Grove home, Miss Rosario will go to Frederick county for two weeks, then to Kent county for 20 days. At the end of September she will be given ten days free time to spend where she wishes. She will leave in October for her homeland.

Her English she learned in school in her country, but her enthusiasm, thoughtfulness, and willingness to learn are her own characteristics, ideal for the job of ambassador between our countries.

Proposed Lake On Muddy Creek Stirs Much Controversy

Private development of a proposed 50 acre lake on Muddy Creek was stirring up some controversy among area residents.

A hearing on the proposed project was held recently. This week petitions were circulated by some opponents seeking to throw a roadblock into the project. Primary objections are that the lake would impede the flow of Muddy Creek Falls, and a change in water temperature being damaging to trout.

The resort area consists of seasonal homes and year round homes. About 15 homes are now occupied but some 100 houses have been built or are under construction.

The lake area would have an earthen dam with a wall through the center which John Nichols, one of the developers, said would be structurally sound and adequate to handle the lake water and runoff.

The development already includes a clubhouse, a swimming pool, tennis courts, and areas for hunting and fishing.

So far Piney Mountain Corporation has sold about 1,500 lots since the inception of the project 10 years ago.

In addition to a permit from the Water Resources Administration the corporation also would need a permit from the Soil Conservation Commission and final approval from the planning commission and county commissioners.

Something wonderful happened yesterday.

I was walking in Grandma's garden, feeling a great sadness that she would never again walk there with me. Her favorite flower, the creamy-blossomed yucca, stood out delicately against the blue sky, breaking my heart with its loveliness. A yellow bee trembled over it a moment, then settled on a pearly petal. Bright-hued blossoms waved in the gentle breeze, pond ripples sparkled in the sun, and for one golden instant, I felt her presence. A prayer she'd taught me years ago came to my lips, "Grant me, God, eyes of the Spirit to see, in the beauty of Your world, reflections of infinity."

I thought of how clearly Grandma had seen God's goodness. Her love of God and devotion to His Church had shone in everything she said and did.

Because of her devotion I too felt God's love all about me. I knew then and there that I would never be lonely again with the Church to sustain and guide me.

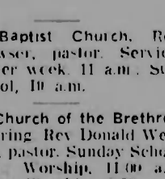
American Freedom and Christian Responsibility



By
Rev. W. H. Leake, Deer Park, Md.

Today a great many of America's most loyal citizens are becoming alarmed at the growing dangers, both to their individual freedoms and to the freedom of this nation. These dangers exist primarily because a "Govt. of the people, for the People and by the People" no longer has the active support or participation of the People. We, the citizens of this country are ultimately responsible for the conduct of our elected officials. If they will not live by the Constitution of the United States and serve for the benefit of those served, then every two years, we have the privilege of sending a complete new House of Representatives, every four years, a new president, and every six years a new Senate to Washington, D. C. The same holds true for our LOCAL and STATE OFFICIALS. We can replace them all every four years IF WE SO DESIRE. They who live in a free country and will not vote are to be pitied more than those who live in a communist country and cannot vote. REGISTER AND VOTE!

PLEASE REMEMBER: God is the Author of Freedom and a People who will not exercise their freedom to defend their freedom is no longer deserving of freedom.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CHRIST ABOVE ALL

Lesson for August 11, 1974

Background Scripture: Colossians 1:15-29; Philippians 2:5-11.
Devotional Reading: Colossians 1:15-27.

Some time ago a woman was trying to explain to me some of her religious "hang-ups." Among these, she said, is the question of the importance of Jesus Christ. "I believe in God," she said, "but I can't understand why so much is made over Jesus."

Rev. Althouse

Her sincerity was both refreshing and challenging. Because she was willing to voice her doubts, I was given the opportunity to try to deal with them. I found myself wishing that more people would be as sincere in verbalizing their religious concerns.

The image of God

First of all, I told the woman that, for me, Jesus Christ is the highest of all revelations of God. She had indicated that she believed that God revealed himself in the lives of many people, including people outside our religious tradition. I too believe that God reveals himself in many ways, both inside and outside the church. At the same time, I have never found any source of revelation as complete and full as that which we have in Jesus Christ.

The writer of Colossians says it this way: "He is the image of the invisible God" (1:15). The word "image" can mean either a copy or the appearance of something. Obviously, Paul is not using "image" to indicate that Christ is a copy of the Father, but that he is the appearance of him. We often say of someone's child that he or she "is the image" of his or her father or mother. We do not mean they are an exact copy of the parent, but that there are great likenesses. This is what was meant in Genesis 1 when that writer says that man is created "in God's image."

I myself might say that when I look at Jesus Christ, I see the nature of God the Father. He is the most complete reflection of what God is all about. If I want to know about God, I look to Jesus and find my answers.

All the fullness

Paul also suggests another reason for the centrality and supremacy of Christ: ". . . in him all the fulness of God was pleased to dwell" (1:19). When I look at nature, I find one perspective of God's nature revealed. When I read the prophecies of Isaiah, I find another perspective. If I read the holy book of another religion, I can find glimpses of God that speak to me. But when I contemplate the life and person of Jesus Christ, I find a picture of God that is three-dimensional.

This, to me, is the genius and uniqueness of Christ: not just one perspective, not just a portion of the picture, but "in him all the fulness of God" is represented. Like the Eastern mystic, Jesus was a man of prayer, meditation, and spiritual discipline. Like the Westerner, however, Jesus was also a man of action, of deeds as well as words. He is the perfect blending of all man's potentialities.

That is why to me Christ is above all.

SUN-STROKE OR HEAT EXHAUSTION

Although both sunstroke and heat exhaustion are caused by the same thing—overexposure to extreme heat, they are very different and telling them apart could be very important.

SUN-STROKE—the skin is hot and very dry. A doctor should be contacted at once. A cold water bath or sponging, an ice pack on the head and undressing are recommended until help arrives.

HEAT EXHAUSTION—the skin is cold and clammy. Move person to shady place, keep head lower than the body and loosen tight clothing while waiting for the doctor.

Capitol Comment

By Charles McC Mathias

Protecting Maryland's Historic Sites

Maryland is rich in historic sites and it is important that they be preserved for future generations of Marylanders and, indeed, all Americans. I recently introduced two pieces of legislation to provide for the protection of two of our State's historic sites. Senator Beall joined me in sponsoring these measures.

One of the bills already has been passed by the Senate. It authorizes the government to acquire the home of Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, at Glen Echo in Montgomery County. The area then will be established as the Clara Barton House National Historic Site, to be administered by the Interior Department.

In light of Clara Barton's accomplishments, it is most fitting that this action be taken. The people of this country, and the world, are indebted to her for her humanitarian efforts.

The other bill that I recently introduced would preserve Antietam Battlefield in Washington County. It authorizes the expansion of the national battlefield, now about 1100 acres, to a total of 3260 acres. The area would include the 1800-acre site of the actual battle, plus an environmental protection zone of 1440 acres, to preserve the largely rural surroundings.

The Antietam bill incorporates the work of the Antietam Battlefield Advisory Committee of Washington County, which was formed at the request of Senator Beall and myself to solicit local opinion from a wide range of citizens. The work of this Committee could serve as a model for future National Park Service planning across the country.

I hope that both these bills—on Clara Barton and Antietam—will receive prompt approval in both the Senate and the House. They assure the survival of two Maryland sites that occupy places in the history of the State and the Nation.

Your views on the subject of this weeks' column are valued. Please write me at 460 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Arachne's Myth

The Greek tale of Arachne, a famous weaver of Lydia, gives us the name for a class of animals regarded by many as pests of man. Among these are scorpions, harvestmen or Daddy Long-Legs, mites, ticks, and spiders. Arachne, whose name means "spider's web" was the first spider, according to Greek mythology. She was so proud of her skill that she admitted fearing no competition, even that of Athena, the goddess, so this deity came in disguised form to weave a competitive tapestry. Arachne unbraided her until she revealed her true identity, whereupon they both went to work. Arachne depicting the crimes of the gods and Athena weaving threaded portraits of gods.

Athena was so jealous that she ripped through the work of the mortal and struck her on the head Arachne could then bear no more, so she tied a noose about her neck and asked the goddess to end her life and humiliation in turn. Athena pitied her and lifted her up, but caused her to remain hanging alive, changed in form to a spider. So she remains today, for her impudence.

But it is strange that the pagan imagery of cutting the thread of mortality remains as a figure for death, even in Christian prayer. One exhortation says, "When death cuts the thread of my days, give my soul to Jesus."

Spiders have come to mean more than weavers to men. They are the symbols of industry, patience, and perseverance. Children of a former school day are aware of the story of King Bruce of Scotland, who had given up hope of a great deed for his people, when he spied a spider making its drag line, swinging and making repeated efforts to get back in the ceiling, finally accomplishing this and inspiring the king to make another attempt at his feet, and with success

Now if the spider did succeed, it was from instinctual behavior, as science does not attribute great intelligence to its kind However, it is fascinating to see the working of 100 tiny tubes on the spinnerret of this animal and observe the varieties of webs which result Did you know that besides the orb web of our garden spider, there are a number of others: geometric orb, funnel, reticular, tube, and sheet. The spider weaves not only a single gossamer for traveling, but utilizes webs for hiding, a tough envelope web for molting, tents for bad weather lining burrows, for batching eggs, and cocoons for hiding eggs?

A spider's body is a maze of beautifully matched parts. You would never dream of a complete body wall, like a water jacket in an automobile, which envelopes the whole organism in chitin for protection and attachment of muscles. Some spiders are so intricately formed that their reproductive organs are in dual parts, quite well hidden and featuring two specific functions before leaving one spider and being transferred to another animal

You will hear tales of killing a spider and bringing rain although this seems as genuinely prophetic as bread mold betraying a witch in the area. The harvestmen are regarded with respect in England, as they remind farmers of a man with scythe, rake, and sickle. At the least Arachne gave her name to some special organisms in the ladder of living things.

What the Education Bill Means for Maryland

Congress has enacted a $25 billion education bill that contains many features of direct interest to parents, school officials, and, of course, students in Maryland's public schools.

One of them is a provision that I sponsored to assist all states in the education of handicapped children. The bill includes $630 million for this purpose nationally, with $12 million for Maryland.

That will help to provide the decent education the courts have ordered for 51,000 handicapped children who have been turned away by local school systems previously because there were insufficient funds to pay for the special programs they need.

The legislation also changes the formula used to determine aid to disadvantaged children. This results in an increase for Maryland from $22 million to $30 million.

Another change in the impact aid program will produce about $6 million for Baltimore. This change provides for federal funding for children living in public housing projects.

My Maryland colleague, Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Jr., co-sponsored an amendment that establishes a $400 million national program to provide grants for local projects to improve reading skills.

In addition, Senator Beall advanced a provision in the bill that prohibits courts from ordering school busing in the middle of a school year.

The education bill is a comprehensive measure that revises the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. I think it is a forthright piece of legislation that generally stands to serve Maryland's interests.

OPEN LINE

By
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me, c o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington D. C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks:

What is your position on sales of nuclear reactors to foreign nations in the Mid-East?

I do not support such actions because of the risks and uncertainties related to weapons production and terrorist attacks. I also question the need for new sources of power since the Middle East is rich in natural energy sources and cannot readily afford the huge capital investments required by nuclear technology.

Do you have any literature you can recommend to your readers as to how citizens can conserve energy this summer?

The Federal Power Commission prints a free booklet, "Energy Conservation", which may be obtained by writing the FPC 825 North Capital Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

What has become of legislation to unsnarl federal procurement policies?

Congress has cleared legislation to expand the use of simplified procurement procedures by the federal government and passed a measure to establish within the Office of Management & Budget an agency to coordinate and monitor the procurement practices of the federal government's many departments and agencies. Copies of H. R. 15233 may be obtained by writing my office in Washington.

I need additional fuel for agricultural production and need to be assigned to a new supplier. Can you help me?

Most farm fuel problems can be solved by contacting your local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office. The ASCS County Executive Director will work with you in contacting local distributors, the State ASCS office and he Federal Engery Administration (FEA). If you use 20,000 gallons per year or more your request for assignment to a new supplier can be made by filling out FEA Form 17, use FEA Form 20 if you require less than 20,000 gallons per year.

How did you vote on the surface Mining bill which was before the House last week?

I supported final passage of the bill to set federal guidelines for the regulation of surface mining for coal and for the reclamation of land that had been strip mined. The legislation passed 291-81.

Spotlight On Summer Theatre

Pictured above is David Sindorf who is appearing regularly at the Garrett County Playhouse. Patrons will not soon forget David's portrayals of old Hugo in "Spiders Web" or of Jerry in "Lovers and Other Strangers." While straight theatre is a new form of work for David, entertainment is not. He has worked in mime and improvisational groups, including the Second City group in Chicago.

Thanks to this experience and to his work with the Mime Experiment of Albuquerque in New Mexico, David has brought to our stage a refreshing honesty and life. David is currently appearing as Charley in Brandon Thomas' world- famous "Charley's Aunt" which plays thru Saturday of this week, curtain at 8:30 p.m.

IS YOUR HOME A "HALFWAY HOUSE"?

If your house was built in 1964, it would probably cost 50% more to build the same house today. So it's important for you to watch property values carefully to make sure your insurance stays current with these increasing costs.

We can help you find out if you own a "Halfway House". We'll give you a copy of the Dwelling Approximator, a simple folder that will help you determine the approximate replacement value of your home. Then, we'll review your present home insurance with you to help you determine whether it gives you adequate protection.

THE REPUBLICAN

Ten Years Later . . .

It has been almost ten years since Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona was defeated in his bid for the presidency. Since that time many groups and individuals in the U. S. of widely varying political beliefs have come to acknowledge the greatness of Goldwater.

Said Idaho Congressman Steve Symms recently, "It is really ironical that ten years ago the extra-liberal opinion makers tried to give Barry Goldwater the image of 'devil incarnate' because of his pro-freedom views, yet today he is universally hailed as one of the most honest and highly respected men in government." It would really be interesting to see what would happen if the American voters had 1961 to do over again.

Symms added: "For many years Republicans have been warning the American electorate about the dangers of centralized power and speaking in favor of local control over local institutions. Rather than cowering in the face of Watergate, conservatives should take this opportunity to point out to the people that the real issue today is big government and that Watergate is but one example of what will occur as more and more power is centralized in the hands of the Federal government."

As Symms accurately noted, among those who have consistently warned against the pitfalls of unrestrained government, Barry Goldwater has been a leader.

A measure of his national stature is that it is widely believed that President Nixon's own chance of clinging to office remained alive only so long as Senator Goldwater "stayed on the reservation."

And now he is one of those being prominently named as a possible vice presidential selection. Although we cannot redo the election of 1964 it is some comfort to see that the true greatness of Barry Goldwater has at last been widely recognized and appreciated.

Public Hearing On Water And Sewage Is Held

Master Plan Must Be Updated To Be In Compliance, Commissioners Report

Master Plan Must Be Updated to Be In Compliance, Commissioners Report.

A public hearing on the comprehensive water and sewage master plan for Garrett County was held during the regular session of the County Commissioners on Monday. The hearing was conducted by Marshall Rickert, County Planning Director, to comply with State of Maryland Health Department regulations. An annual update of the plan is mandatory, to be in compliance. Several projects presently under construction included in the update, are Will O' the Wisp Condominium, Red Run Inn Condominium, P & F Mobile Home Park and the new school sites at Broadford and Northern Middle.

Merle Glasser of the State Department of Health & Mental Hygiene, brought the Commissioners up-to-date on legislation affecting water and sewage management, passed during the past legislative session. He also explained the draft of the Regulations for Water and Sewage Plan saying that the old Water and Sewage Comprehensive Plan for Garrett County be completely revised. Mr. Glasser further stated that the Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the Department of Natural Resources are coordinating efforts to obtain water discharge and sewage permits. Others attending the hearing were Colonel J. Haig Jackson, Administrative Engineer to the Sanitary Commission; Mr. Fred Warther, Mr. Frank Long and Reverend W. H. Leake.

A delegation of residents from the Pud Miller Road near Accident met with the Commissioners to discuss condition of this road. Chairman of the Roads Board Earl E. Opel, said that information concerning the scheduling of improvements of that road is available at the Roads Department.

The Commissioners also had the audit of the county books completed last week by certified public accountants, Wooden & Benson of Baltimore. An annual audit of the books is held

Nixon Resigns As President

President Richard M. Nixon resigned last Thursday night, effective at noon Friday, telling the nation, "America needs a full time president and a full-time Congress", freed of the pressures of Watergate and impeachment.

Nixon said he leaves without bitterness toward his foes, with thanks for those who have supported him through the months of Watergate disclosures and crises.

Nixon said the leadership of America would be in good hands. He said he was stepping aside in the national interest.

It was the first time in the 185-year chain of presidents that a chief executive had resigned his office. And it was the first time that the office would be filled under presidential succession decreed by the 25th amend-

Admissions, Amusement Taxes Are Distributed

Checks totaling $2,172,965.52 were mailed last week to Maryland's subdivisions as payment for the admissions and amusement taxes collected for the fourth quarter of fiscal year 1974, it was announced by Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller. The distribution compares with $1,920,472.17 returned for the same period last year.

For the entire twelve months July 1 to June 30, the Comptroller distributed $6,717,633 to counties and incorporated cities and towns of Maryland. The figure in 1973 was $5,882,342, showing a 14.2 percent increase over the previous year.

Distribution for the fourth quarter included $4,831.96 to Garrett county. Garrett county was sixth from the lowest counties. Counties receiving less were Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, Somerset and Talbot.

Telephone Service Disrupted Saturday

About 500 telephones in the Oakland area were out of service late Saturday and much of Sunday when the C & P Telephone company experienced cable problems.

The disruption occurred in mid-evening Saturday and the last of the problem was cleared up about 9 p.m. Sunday, according to Frank Eberly, manager of the Oakland telephone office.

The breakdown affected both residential and business telephones, including those at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. However, the telephone company had employes stand by with mobile phones to faciliate emergency calls.

Mr. Eberly explained that the problem occurred when moisture formed in the underground cables. He said there is special condensation equippment to offset the moisture but the equipment failed to work. As a result company crews had to dig up a 900-pair cable, which has 1,800 wires, and replace the whole thing. Because the cable had to be spliced at both ends, a total of 3,600 splices had to be made, requiring a great deal of work and time, Mr. Eberly said.

The telephone service was restored on a progressive basis, some of the telephones being put back in service as each cable wire was spliced.

Mr. Eberly said also that some trunks, such as the one at the Thayerville office at Deep Creek Lake, also were affected by the disruption.

He said that fortunately the problem occurred on a weekend when the demand for telephone service is not as great as it is during a weekday.

Guthrie Home Is Destroyed By Fire

The two-story frame home belonging to the George Guthrie family was totally destroyed by fire last Friday evening about 10 p.m. No family possessions or clothing was saved as there was no one home at the time of the fire. A passer-by along Route 495 turned in the alarm to the Deer Park Volmteer Fire Company, but the fire was too far advanced by the time the company arrived on the scene.

No estimate of loss has been figured by the firemen. The house was located along Route 495 between Deer Park and Swanton.

The Deer Park Volunteers also were called out Saturday evening, to extinguish a blaze in a B & O boxcar.

The fire, thought to have started from friction due to a missing wheel bearing, was confined to the underside of the car, and there was little damage to the shipment of photographic papers inside.

Lake Firemen Called to Two Fires

Members of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company were called out twice last Friday, August 9, to fires in the McHenry area.

At 4:23 p.m. they were called to a vehicle fire which occurred following a pickup-car collision at the intersection of Bumble Bee road and rt. 219. The pickup, property of Elmer Durst, Cumberland, was burning but firemen were able to douse the fire before the gas tank ignited. Mr. Durst had just had his gas tank filled prior to the collision. The other vehicle involved belonged to Rudolph Wolf, Pittsburgh.

Fourteen men and two vehicles responded to the call, and returned to the fire house about 5:23.

That night, at 11:30, firemen were called to the Gilbertson residence on Marsh Hill Drive where a charcoal burner fire had spread to the woodpile. Firemen extinguished the blaze and damage was confined to the wood.

Seventeen men responded to this call, and returned to the fire hall about midnight.

Firemen Have 3 Alarms

Oakland firemen received three alarms since last Friday, none of them serious.

Last Friday evening at 7:30 firemen went five miles south of Oakland on 219, near Gortner where a car of Ralph Williams had overturned, spilling gasoline on the roadway. Firemen hosed the gasoline from the road.

At 10:15 that same evening they received an assist call to Deer Park which was cancelled before the fire truck left the fire house.

Monday afternoon at 3:15 firemen received a call from an apartment of Gloria Paugh in Loch Lynn where an extension cord was burning. But there was no additional fire and firemen soon returned to Oakland.

Homemade Sailboat Will Be Launched

An unusual launching event is scheduled for McHenry, Deep Creek Lake, on Saturday, August 17. What make it unusual is that the boat, a 17-foot sailboat, "weegie," has been constructed by Thomas Huston, 43, of Pittsburgh.

"Weegie" grew for three years on the second floor of the National Printing Company in Knoxville, Pa., near Pittsburgh, and emerged a few days ago through a gaping hole in the building wall, since it was much too large to come out the door. It is now resting in the parking area of the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Huston, at McHenry, parents of the builder. It was hauled to McHenry by a trailer. Mr. and Mrs. Huston are part owners of the printing company and both have been the creators and designers of the vessel.

The sailboat has a 22-foot mast and the sails are blood red imported Japanese cloth.

Mr. Huston said they had sent for the plan for the build it yourself type of boat and had spent hours and hours making trips to the hardware store. Total cost is $1,269, besides disrupting his business, his sleep and certainly his life in "an interesting sort of way," he says.

The coming event has been announced over Pittsburgh television stations.

Mr. and Mrs. Huston have 2 children, a son, Jack, 22, and a daughter Mary Ann, 19. His next project—an airplane.

Two were killed when a tug rammed a New Orleans bridge.

Nixon Resigns

ment, ratified in 1967.

Gerald Ford, named vice president last year following the resignation of Spiro Agnew, assumed the oath of office at noon Friday and took over the presidential duties.

Mr. Ford promised a "smooth and orderly transition" in taking over the office. This was emphasized in a visit with him by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Kissinger conferred with Ford Friday morning.

Emphasizing a continuity in foreign policy, Kissinger already had sent messages of assurance to all corners of the world and met with foreign ambassadors Friday. Kissinger will remain in the position of Secretary of State under Ford's administration.

Nixon declared he began his presidency by dedicating his service to the furtherance of peace and said "I've done my very best . . . . to be true to that pledge."

The President added he believed that because of his quest the world today was a safer place "Thus more than anything is what I hope will be my legacy to you, to our country, as I leave the presidency," he said.

Public Hearing

toward the end of the previous fiscal year. Copies of the audit will be made available in October of 1974.

George Comp, project director of the centralized communications system for Garrett County, discussed with the Commissioners the discrepancies in the bids from RCA and G. E. The bids were opened July 29 and must be awarded within 30 days to guarantee the bid price, concerning communications, the commissioners also sought a right-of-way to the tower site for the proposed communications system.

Dr. William Pope, County Health Officer, reviewed the fiscal year 1974 spending on the part of the health department. He also cited several new programs which have been implemented in the past year. Such programs have been the eye care mobile unit; a nutritional program for children, infants and women; and participation in a computerized system to keep account of children receiving health services. County participation in the fiscal year 1975 is 25% of the total health department. Other funds are received from the state and federal governments and services collections.

In other action, the Commissioners reviewed departmental spending in various county agencies for the present fiscal year, to date. A review of county department spending periodically assures compliance with the funding, as budgeted by the county commissioners, it was pointed out.

The county has received a total of $7,066.66 from various state parks in the county. Revenue from Herrington Manor State Park totaled $2,701.42; Savage River State Park, $1,816.56; New Germany State Park, $1,647.57 and Deep Creek Lake State Park $1,082.96. The county receives revenue from the state parks on a quarterly basis. Funds are derived from admission charges.

lose control and the vehicle flipped on its side. Tfc. Ronald Lewis investigated.

At the exact same time, Richard Eugene Reall, 17, Mt. Lake Park, was riding his cycle south on Route 219 just south of Monte Vista road. The front wheel of his vehicle started to vibrate, causing him to lose control and he struck the pavement. Tfc. Lewis investigated this one also. Reall was treated and released from the hospital.

Thomas Allen True, 29, operator of the motorcycle, and his passenger, Shirley Joann Armstrong 38, both of Kitzmiller were admitted to the hospital after they were thrown from their cycle in a two vehicle accident last Saturday afternoon on the Sand Flat road at the Boy Scout road.

Marlene Kay Barrell, Lutherville, was making a left hand turn onto Boy Scout road from southbound on Sand Flat road. True passed a vehicle stopped in the traffic lane and collided with the Barrell car on the process of turning. The motor cycle then went off the road and overturned, throwing both of its occupants. Trooper C. H. Hinnant charged True with passing on the left when unsafe.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad took the above injured to the hospital.

A special song, composed for her, using the tune of "Shortening Bread" was sung by the campers.

To the Taxpayers in Mt. Lake Park

There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction among some citizens on the charge of $10.00 per year for sewer service in the Corporation.

I would like to clarify some of these rumors being circulated that the money has been misused. Any interested person can examine the books and see for themselves where the money has been used.

No. 1. At present there is an excess of $14,000.00 in this fund drawing interest in the bank.

No. 2. A share in cost of new truck which is paid for Approximately $3,500.00 used for hauling men and equipment to repair and maintain sewer lines.

No. 3. Three trailer loads of tile at approximately $1,500.00 per load delivered to Mt. Lake Park.

No. 4. Labor for town crew on repair and maintenance of sewer lines.

Urged Not To Attach Signs To Utility Poles

Candidates for political offices are being urged to caution their campaign workers against attaching signs to utility poles.

Potomac Edison Company officials issued that appeal today, citing the safety of linemen as the principal reason. Signs affixed to poles create hazards when linemen must climb poles for repair work. Such objects could cause the lineman's climbing spurs to "cut out" possibly resulting in a fall or other serious injury.

In many localities, placing of any type of sign on utility poles is prohibited by law.

Many pennies were turned in when Orlando, Fla., banks and merchants of a shopping center offered $1.25 per hundred.

Mt. Lake Council Hears Of Troubles, Lagoon Operation

The progress and difficulties of the interceptor and lagoon operation at Mt. Lake Park were outlined Tuesday evening by Col. J. Haig Jackson, administrative engineer for the Sanitary Commission, to members of the Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park.

Col. Jackson told them a number of manhole covers were missing, that there was a frozen valve at the lagoon, one pump was inoperative, that the exhaust system and lights were inoperative, and that a trash basket guide must be straightened.

He added that manhole structures between 1 and 8 leak and that the line between 9 and 10 must be excavated and the line re-laid. A section of pipe needs replacing. He recommended that manhole structures should be sealed to avoid taking in ground water.

He estimated that it would take $50,000 to get the system in to operation, with expense for what already been done amounting to some $100,000.

It is planned to use the interceptor system to take care of the discharge from the Broadford schools.

At Tuesday night's meeting the council approved spending some $32,000 for paving the streets.

Council also named an appeals board including Albert Kight Clayton White and Charles Munday. Fannie Sullivan was named as an alternate member.

Special Services Set

Minor Accidents Occur On Weekend

Several relatively minor accidents occurred over the weekend with apparent slight injuries to two persons. Three were one-car accidents. Three were on or near U.S. Route 40 and one on U.S. Route 50.

Arthur Sheffield, RD 2, Grantsville, was slightly injured when he lost control of his car on Route 219 north, about a mile north of Route 40 last Thursday just past noon.

Sheffield lost control on a wet road, ran off the right shoulder and struck the guard rail with the rear of his car, spun around, hit the rail again with the front end. Trooper Ronald Georg charged him with negligent driving.

David J. Rohrbaugh, RD 1, Gormania, was slightly injured in another one-car mishap on Route 50 about a mile east of Table Rock road Saturday evening.

Rohrbaugh was traveling east on Route 50 when a truck operated by David Keith Caruthers, RD 2, Oakland, failed to yield the right-of-way when attempting to enter Route 50 from a private road. Rohrbaugh headed to the right, hit an embankment and overturned. Trooper C. H. Hinnant charged Rohrbaugh with failing to yield the right-of-way.

James A. Trimpey, Markleton, Pa., was driving east on Route 40 late Saturday night and noted an unidentified vehicle stopped on the roadway preparing to make a turn into Casselman Park. Trimpey applied his brakes, skidded out of control and hit a guard rail. Trooper G. A. Berkebile charged him with negligent driving.

James J. Cranston, Jr., Randale Cliffs, had stopped for a string of slow-moving vehicles on Route 40 near Route 219 north Sunday afternoon. George W. Yoder, Salisbury, Pa. failed to note the slow-moving traffic in time to get slowed down and ran into the rear of the Cranston car. Trooper Georg charged Yoder with operating at speed too great for conditions.

American Freedom and Christian Responsibility

By
Rev. W. H. Leake, Deer Park, Md.

Thank God for America: for once again we see the wisdom of the founding fathers of our country in the safe guards that they wrote into our Constitution. Our Ship of State has sailed through some very troubled waters in its 198 year history and we feel none have been more hectic than those we have just come through.

Some have tried to use the events of the last few months to say that our form of Government is finished, that it will not work in this 20th Century; but neighbor, it has worked and rather than diminish confidence in our form of Government, let us get on our knees and thank God for our Constitutional form of Government. Also while we are on our knees let us ask Him to endow us with wisdom, knowledge and strength that we might be used to help solve the many problems that face our nation, rather than contribute to or become part of those problems. One last thing, before you get up, would you please pray for our new president: God alone knows what an awesome responsibility Mr. Ford has accepted, he needs all of our Prayers.

REMEMBER: TO BE GREAT, ONE MUST BE THE SERVANT OF A CAUSE GREATER THAN HIMSELF. PRAY AS IF ALL DEPENDED ON GOD AND WORK AS IF ALL DEPENDED ON YOU.

To Inform Public On Surface Mining

The Western Maryland Coal Owners and Operators' Association, meeting Friday August 9, voted to investigate ways in which the public could be informed concerning surface mining under the "total reclamation" laws of the State of Maryland, Robert Harvey, President of the Association announced.

"Surface mining in Western Maryland today is a much-needed industry due to the energy crisis," Mr. Harvey continued, "and the Association feels that while some problems remain to be solved, much of the criticism surface mining has received is a hang-over from former years and a lack of understanding on the part of the public regarding total reclamation, land contouring, planting, and other requirements under today's law."

Discount Cards Distributed To Senior Citizens

Discount cards are being provided to senior citizens of the area that may be used to receive a discount on articles purchased from various merchants. The procedure was explained by Dale Ellis, director of Senior Citizen programs. He said over 300 cards were issued the first week and he hoped that approximately 2,500 elderly in the county would be reached within a month.

He said that C. W. Englander would offer a 10 percent discount to county senior citizens an drugs and related items at his pharmacy. Purchasers, who must be over 62, must produce one of the yellow cards to obtain the discount. Cards may be obtained free of charge at one of the county's hot meal centers at Crellin, Jennings or Kitzmiller, or at the Community Action agency office in Oakland.

Ellis said he hoped that other merchants would follow the plan and said he hoped to meet with merchants in all sections of the county in an effort to get them to participate in a discount plan. The cards will also allow a discount for the elderly on the new Garrett bus system. Ellis said he also was making a survey in the rest of the state to determine whether other areas would honor the Garrett card.

Trip To France Being Organized

Travel arrangements are now being made for a group of Southern High school French students to take a nine-day trip to Paris, France, during April, 1975.

Organized nationally by the American Leadership Study Group and locally sponsored by Miss Ducy Snyder, French teacher at Southern, the trip will include visits to Paris and the French countryside, Belgium, and London. The cost from New York, including fares, meals and lodging is $430.

This trip would be the second for Southern High students. Last spring six students and Miss Snyder took a similar trip to put French taught in the classroom to a practical use and to visit the sites studied during the academic year.

Miss Snyder said because these travel programs are so popular they are usually fully booked by Thanksgiving. Miss Snyder has made reservations for 16 students from this area, but she said it would be necessary to have a complete group organized early in the school year.

Students who would like to be part of foreign travel this year, or who would like additional information are to contact Miss Snyder at her home or at Southern High School.

A WALKING CANDIDATE — Apparently Walter G. Finch, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate from Maryland, is a walking candidate. Up to yesterday morning Mr. Finch had covered 637 miles of Maryland by walking and meeting the voters in an effort to create interest in his campaign. This week he has been in Garrett County and reached Oakland Wednesday afternoon, after walking along U.S. Route 40 and 219. He is shown in the photo with his daughter Ruth Mae Finch, beside one of the markers along the Pennsylvania-Maryland border. He plans to continue his walking expedition at least for 1,400 miles, he told a voter yesterday morning. He says he is a crusader for a brighter tomorrow.

Dayton Man Wins State Rebel Title

Tom Emmons, Dayton, Ohio, with his wife, Kay, tending the jib, topped a field of sailors from vacht clubs in New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Illinois and Maryland when they battled strong winds and rainy skies on Deep Creek Lake to win the Maryland Rebel Championship the weekend of August 3-4.

Second place was taken by Rob Chabot and his son Matt, Cincinnati, O., while twice national champion, Dave Mahan, Salem, Va., with Eileen Farrell, Cumberland, as crew, was third. In fourth place was Irv Hetherington, of Des Plaines, Ill., with his wife Jane.

About 70 sailing yachts answered the starter's cannon in the two-day three-race event sponsored by the Deep Creek Inter-Club Yacht, Racing Association.

Largest class was the Flying Scot with Fred Griffin and his father Don as crew, won over more experienced skippers. Gordon "Sandy" Douglass, who designed the Scot, finished second. Third was Jack Carpenter and brother Harry. Dirk Peake, Pittsburgh and Barbara Hollander were fourth; and J. J. Becker and brother Chris, Pittsburgh, took fifth.

The Jet 14 event was won by John Boyd, Galesville with Jack Baker, Annapolis, second, and Al Rebel, White Oak Pa. third. Smallest fleet was the Lasers land, the winner.

Several Minor Mishaps Noted Are Injury-Free

A number of recent relatively minor accidents around the county were mostly injury-free. One slight injury was noted in an accident last Friday.

O'Connor was traveling west on U.S. Route 40 last Friday evening when James R. Holsopple in a pickup, of Holsopple, Pa., pulled from Chestnut Ridge road into his path and the two collided. Trooper G. A. Berkebile charged Holsopple with failing to yield at an intersection.

The front wheel of Williams' car dropped off the hard surface of the roadway into a six to eight-inch ditch along the road causing the operator to lose control. The car then struck an embankment and turned over. Tfc. Ronald Lewis made no charges.

Scott M. Anthony, Pittsburgh, was traveling south on the Beekman Peninsula road the evening of August 3 as Richard T. Puquay, Greensboro, N. C. was traveling north. Anthony crossed the center of the road and hit the Fuquay car. Trooper C. H. Hinnant charged Anthony with failing to keep to the right side of the road.

Charles R. Veach, Shakopee, Minn., was traveling through Grantsville on U.S. Route 40 the evening of August 1, when the trailer part of his rig swayed and caught a low overhanging tree limb. Trooper Ronald Georg investigated.

Ruth F. Mayfield, RD 1, Swanton, was traveling east on Md. Route 135 at the intersection with old 219 near Foodland the afternoon of August 1. Louis C. Hutson, Kitzmiller going south on old 219, failed to yield the right-of-way, pulled onto Route 135, into the path of the Mayfield car and was hit by it. Trooper J. E. Foley charged Hutson with failing to yield the right-of-way at an intersection.

James M. Knotts, Gormania, was traveling west on U.S. Route 50 just east of Table Rock road August 27. His car went out of control, off the right shoulder came back across, then off the road and hit an embankment. Tpr. Foley charged him with negligent or reckless driving.

Alvin R. Layman, Fairfax, Va., was traveling on the Wilson-Corunna road about 2 a.m. July 27 when he failed to negotiate a left curve. His car ran off the right side of the road and hit a tree. Tpr. Georg charged him with operating at excess speed.

David L. Sweitzer, Deer Park, in a pick-up, intentionally ran into the rear of a car driven by Eva C. Sweitzer, also of Deer Park about 1 a.m. July 26. Eva Sweitzer had been stopped at the 'stop' sign at Main street, Deer Park before entering Route 135. The accident was the result of a domestic argument. Tpr. Georg charged David Sweitzer with negligent or reckless driving. David Sweitzer, about two hours later, took off, in the pick-up, down Oak street in Deer Park, having left his house in an angry condition, lost control of his vehicle, hit a utility pole and an out-building of P. G. Arnold. Tpr. George investigated this accident also.

Spotlight On Summer Theatre

Michael Kroth

Charlene Chavez

Charlene Chavez, Michael Kroth and Robert Jeffrey Levitt are among the members of the acting company and staff of the Garrett County Playhouse. Charlene is serving as production stage manager and as an actress in the playhouse's twentieth season. A native New Mexican, Charlene's interest in theatre has been fed by much experience with acting groups in the Albuquerque area. This week, Charlene will be tempestuous Mrs. Pencil, the exotic siren in Alice Gerstenberg's "The Potboiler".

Michael Kroth comes to us via the University of New Mexico from Kansas, where he began his college career and his theatrical interests. Mike has played numerous roles with us this season, ranging from juvenile leads to this week's role—the arrogant Mr. Sud in "The Potboiler", one of three short plays being produced in tandem at the Blue Barn.

Robert Jeffrey Levitt, of Albany, New York, has shown his flair this season as a character actor with such roles as Mr. Spettigue in "Charley's Aunt" and as the hotellier in "Let Sleeping Wives Lie". This week he appears in "Solitaire and Other Games of Chance" by Milburn Mehlhop as Logan Grantham, a businessman with a lot to learn.

See the bill of one-acts, including Anton Chekov's delightful "The Boor" through Saturday of this week.

SUZUKI

It's magic.
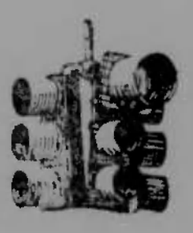
People look at you, you look back.



Everything moves, the sun shines, the wind blows, and all of a sudden you're riding down roads and trails you've never seen before. That's the beauty of the dual purpose Suzukis.

Perrine-Harvey Vows Exchanged

Miss Denise Ann Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl K. Harvey, Jr., Swanton, became the bride of Paul E. Perrine, son of Mr. and Mrs George T. Perrine, Mt. Lake Park, in a double ring ceremony held at the Deep Creek Baptist church on June 30. Rev. Robert G. Jennings, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Robert E. Harvey, aunt of the bride, provided organ music, while Mrs. Carolyn Helbig sang "Each for the Other," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father the bride was attired in a full length gown of white chiffon edged in lace and highlighted by seed pearls. The gown was styled with an empire waistline, high neckline and long full bishop sleeves. The train was styled from lace and extended from the waistline, held by a lace bow. Her headdress was a crown of pearls which held a full French illusion veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white and turquoise daisies with pink roses and baby's breath, with a lift-out corsage.

Her attendants' gowns were styled identically to that of the bride, in shades of turquoise. Their headdresses were large satin bows and veils. Matron of honor was Mrs. Linda McCartney, Oakland. She carried a nosegay of white and turquoise daisies, pink roses and baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Miss Debby Sisler, Deer Park; Miss Susan Perrine, Mt. Lake Park, sister of the groom. James Preston, Oakland, was best man. John Perrine, brother of the groom, and Gary Harvey, brother of the bride, were ushers.

A reception followed in the church basement. Mrs. Ethel Cassell, aunt of the bride, and Wanda Ridgley served the cake, Mrs. Gail Perrine, sister in law of the groom, served punch. Miss Debbie Harvey and Miss Sandy Harvey, sisters of the bride, registered guests and attended gifts.

For travel to Virginia the bride wore a long aqua and pink dress. The bride is employed as a dental assistant for Dr. William G. Savage, Oaklnd. Mr. Perrine is serving in the U.S. army.

EASIER WITHOUT THE NET

Why do we enjoy games that make it harder on us? We equip our tennis courts with nets. We line our golf courses with narrow fairways and dot them with sand traps. On a chess board we grant wide movement to only one piece, the queen. In football a team has but four downs to gain the required yardage.

This is because man at his best is innately honest. He demands that his every skill meet reasonable tests. He's convinced there is no satisfaction—no "fun"—without challenges.

Man's religious awareness, which inspires our weekly worship, continually cultivates that innate honesty. Our Christian faith prompts us to develop divine resources of character and commitment. Far more than any game, LIFE tests strength and weakness, rewards achievement not failure.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

LIVE FREE!

Lesson for August 18, 1974

Background Scripture: Colossians 2:8-
Devotional Reading: Galatians 5:13-26.

A number of years ago Joy Adamson wrote a trilogy of books about her experience with the African lion: Born Free, Living Free, and Forever Free. Her thesis was that as the lion is born free, he ought to be enabled to continue to live free.

Rev. Althouse

What Joy Adamson did for lions and the animal kingdom, someone ought also to do for people. Actually, that's what chapter two of Colossians is about. Paul is saying to the people of this church that by the power of Christ they have been reborn into freedom and they ought to continue to live in freedom. "If with Christ you died to the elemental spirits of the universe, why do you live as if you still belonged to the world?" (2:20).

Only a shadow

Paul's question was a reference to the style of religion practiced by many of the Colossian Christians. It was a legalistic style of religion. The heart of that religious style was a heavy dependence upon rules and regulations. Ironically, this is what Jesus had criticized so greatly in the scribes and Pharisees. Their rules and regulations became more important than God's Spirit. In fact, the legalism became even more important than God himself. Now, freed from that legalism by Christ, Paul noted that the Colossians were slipping back into that very same style of religious life.

Paul is not saying that rules and regulations are worthless. What he is saying, however, is that these can never be the central focus of our religious life. Man has a habit of devising rules and regulations to regulate his religious experience and ends up stifling the operation of God's spirit in his life. The legalism becomes a substitute for the actual presence of God.

The substance

Paul points out that the multitude of rules and regulations on food, dress, festivals, etc. are not the essence of true religion, but only a "shadow" of that essence. "These," he says, "are only a shadow of what is to come; but the substance belongs to Christ" (2:17). It is the "substance" of religion upon which we should focus and that "substance" is Christ.

Unfortunately, many Christians today still practice Christianity in a legalistic manner. Their religion is primarily one of rules and regulations. Fine as those rules may be, they often become more important than Christ himself. They take the place of a living Savior. The lives of these people become so filled with "thou shalts" and "thou shalt nots" that there is no room or need for Christ himself.

Not only does legalism tend to keep Christ out of our lives, it also separates us from our fellows. Paul says, "let no one pass judgment on you in matters of food and drink . . ." (2:16). Instead of bringing us closer to God and our fellowmen, legalism tends to drive us further away from both.

THE PRESCRIPTION WAS READY AND WAITING
There are prescription medicines that are prepared by us way in advance of receiving a call for them. This is particularly true of some multi-ingredient prescriptions that are written by dermatologists. Because a dermatologist will prescribe the same basic medication prescription quite often, we will compound a sufficient supply to last for a normal period of time.
Frequently, these prescriptions take a long time to make and in this way our customer will not have to wait for it to be made up from scratch. We try to work closely with all physicians to bring you a professional pharmacy service.
YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Eddy Appointed Manager of BG & G Life Department

In a letter distributed to Beall, Garner & Geare policyholders, Agency President John E. Geare has announced the appointment of Russell E. Eddy as Manager of a newly created Life Insurance Department in the Oakland Office.

This department will enable the firm to provide service in the development and administration of group and pension plans, personal estates, partnership and corporate funding agreements, and special life insurance programs.

Russell Eddy is a graduate of De Matha High School at Hyattsville, and University of Maryland, at College Park. He at one time had his own property and casualty agency but disposed of it in order to concentrate on life insurance in Montgomery County.

In 1969, he moved his family to Oakland and has since then maintained a residence on Mary Drive in Mt. Lake Park. Mrs. Eddy has for the past several years conducted dancing classes for youngsters in the Oakland community. The Eddys have four children, the oldest boy having just entered the Army, while a younger son and two daughters are at Southern High School.

LIBERTY STREET OAKLAND, MD. DIAL 334-2101

Land Use Planning Good or Bad?

Probably some of both, and I hereby propose an imaginative approach to the problem.
First, what is wrong with land use planning and zoning as it exists in other counties and states:

1. Continuous political football.
2. Source of pay-offs, variances and favors to powerful interests.
3. Contempt for traditional land ownership rights.
4. Cost of administration and delays.

What is good about lond use planning and zoning:

1. Has the value of preventing rape-of-the-land, of which we have some in Garrett County.
2. With increasing population and amount of land constant, it is more important to plan with the future generations in mind.
3. It is especially important to plan in Garrett County. Since we are attractive and beautiful, it is important to preserve these qualities.

The zoning to go into effect for Deep Creek Lake, and Deep Creek only, is in need of a few modifications, but is essentially O. K.

Now what happens in so many other land-use and zoning plans is that from the simple beginning, as with Deep Creek Lake, the plans multiply, divide, enlarge and in every other respect depart from the original modest beginning.

SO I HEREBY PROPOSE, IF I AM ELECTED, I WILL ADD TO THE ORDINANCE A REQUIREMENT THAT ANY CHANGE IN THE BASIC PLAN WILL BE ONLY BY REFERENDUM OF COUNTY VOTERS.

This will keep the plan simple and modest since changes will be dictated only when the majority of the voters want it.

I also challenge my opponents in District 2 to share their views on this matter.

Wrong Church Named In Accident

A correction is noted regarding a motor vehicle accident in last week's Republican. The wrong church was named.

It was learned this week that the church hit by Roger Lee Paugh was the Crellin Assembly of God church not the United Pentecostal as noted on State Police records.

The same source stated damages were estimated to be about $4,000.

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me, c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks:

Can you please discuss the Bicentennial community program and tell me how our town may apply?

Communities in Central and Western Maryland may apply for official recognition as a Bicentennial Community as part of the nation-wide effort to stimulate grass roots involvement in America's 200th anniversary. According to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission (ARBC) the following procedures should be followed. First, your community should organize a special Bicentennial planning and coordinating committee which is representative of all segments of the community; Second, plans should be drawn up which will include at least one lasting reminder of the special effort the community undertook for the Bicentennial commemoration; Third, obtain the approval of the Chief Executive Office or governing body of the community and then submit the application through the appropriate Bicentennial agency.

Why must a veteran requiring nursing home care first be hospitalized under VA auspices?

Under the Veterans' Health Care Expansion Act of 1973 this is no longer true. The new law permits the furnishing of nursing home care, in the case of service-connected veterans requiring such care for their service-connected disabilities, upon determination of need by a VA doctor.

Where can I obtain copies of bills before Congress?

I understand that the Library of Congress offers surplus books free to schools in the U.S.? Please comment onthis.

The Library of Congress maintains at all times a collection of surplus books which are available to educational institutions and public bodies in the United States. Authorized representatives of schools and libraries may make free selections from this collection. The publications are available for selection at any time, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m., in the Exchange and Gift Division, Room 2016, Annex Building. Interested institutions may contact the Library of Congress for additional information.

Please explain the proposed tax exemption for volunteer firemen?

Under proposed legislation volunteer firemen would be exempt from paying income tax on annual earnings less than $500 which they may receive while performing services as a member of a volunteer fire company.

Gerald Ford's Assets —

Since Gerald Ford's elevation from the relative obscurity of leader of the Republicans in the House of Representatives to the office of president, the veteran lawmaker from Michigan has handled himself with credit.

Some have criticized his constant defense of Mr. Nixon, but because of the position he has occupied during this critical period of history it is difficult to see what other course he could have taken.

Gerald Ford is not a wavemaker. He does not antagonize deliberately, if it can be avoided. His strongest trait in the House opponents as well as supporters was his ability to reason with others—in both parties—until a legislative decision was reached. His basic modesty and integrity served him well as a legislative leader.

Those are traits sorely needed in the White House at this time. The nation is facing some perils which go beyond the White House crisis, although they are inexorably wound up in it.

Economic problems, long played down on a confused scale of priorities, require patient but constant and enlightened attention. No one man can solve them, but certainly a working relationship between the legislative and executive branches based on mutual respect is a requisite to developing a workable plan of attack.

It is in this area that Gerald Ford's experience, tact and reasonableness will be important assets—Hagerstown Daily Mail.

Transition . . .

As we approach the 200th anniversary of the birth of our nation, our form of government has just passed the most severe test it has faced in a century and passed with flying colors.

Thanks to the inspired Constitution upon which the government is founded, the resignation of the President of the United States has been carried out in solemn, if sad, dignity. The automatic elevation of the new president also occurred with dignity. There was no violence. The hundreds of people who gathered around the White House were not unruly. They came to watch the end of an era.

Unlike scenes in other parts of the world when governments have fallen, there were no rambling tanks, no military attacks, no executions, and no burning and looting. The city was not put under martial law.

On the contrary, the country's laws held the nation together. The Constitution which was framed in the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in 1787 and became effective March 4, 1789, provided the compass that kept our nation on its steady course.

By the same token it must be recognized that in this instance the government did not fail. There is no new "regime"; there will be continuity of policy, although some faces have changed.

Watergate held this country up to a mirror and the citizens did not like what they saw. They called upon the rule of law to correct the image. The necessary and painful steps to make the correction have been taken.

This was done because this is a government of laws and not of men. We earnestly pray that the lessons the country learned in this trying incident will lead us to appreciate once again the value of honesty and integrity in the operation of government, and the conduct of our personal lives.

Plan Expansion For Handicapped

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has recently been awarded demonstration project funds to be utilized in expanding services for adult handicapped individuals in Garrett County. According to David P. Ramsey, Director of Community Development, the project is designed to develop an on-going activities center with a sheltered workshop being phased in at a later date. The long-range goal is "to develop a program for the physically, mentally, and emotionally handicapped adult in order to enable him to enhance his social and occupational opportunities." Mr. Ramsey stated, "The specific purpose of the project will be to assist the participants to advance to their maximum potential and highest degree of independence."

The Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland, through its Mental Health and Mental Retardation Advisory Committee chaired by Rev. Clarence Kaylor, approved and submitted this proposal for Federal funding consideration. The Committee is composed of representatives from Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

"Shades Of 1905"

A program for the presentation of "The Great Coontown Minstrels," sometime in 1905, at Oakland, was provided The Republican office this week by the executors of the will of the late J. M. Jarboe. Mr. Jarboe died August 10, at the age of 89.

Among the cast, in addition to Mr. Jarhoe, who took the part of "Jake," were James Bell, Harry McComas, Philip Peddicord, Milton Smeell, Bernard Giessman, Joe Ross, Harry Bolden and a Dr. Bixler. Jake had a solo, "Just My Style."

The program was full of advertisements from business men and only A. D. Naylor and company remains. It advertised vehicles and implements, sleighs and sleds. 9,899 Citizens Eligible To Vote In September

Official Registration Figures Released By Election Board

There were 9,899 citizens of the county eligible to vote in the upcoming primary election on September 10, as of August 12, it was revealed by the Board of Supervisors of Elections. This was 466 more that were listed on November 5, 1973, after 787 names had been subtracted from the voting rolls for not having voted within the past five years.

The statisies show 3,900 Democrats and 5,800 Republicans, 16 American party, and 183 others, either independents or who declined to make a preference. The figures give the Republicans a majority of 1,900 over the Democrats, which is 54 less than in 1973 when the figures were 3,649 Democrats and 5,603 Republicans.

The figures by districts show that Democrats outnumber the Republicans in only three districts, No. 4, Bloomington; and No. 9, at Finzel; and No. 13, Kitzmiller. The Democrats have an edge of 5 in Bloomington, 208 to 213, but majority of 31 in Finzel, 225 to 191, and 145 in Kitzmiller, 304 to 159.

Republicans have a two to one edge in Grantsville and Jennings, a three to one edge in Sang Run, Elbow and Bittinger, with the edge in Mt. Lake Park being 706 Republicans to 416 Democrats. In Oakland's two districts the Republican edge is 417 to 280, and 436 to 283.

The American party has registrants as follows: one in Grantsville, three in Accident, four in Saug Run, three in Deer Park, and one each in East Oakland, Bittinger, Kitzmiller, West Oakland, and Mt. Lake Park. In the "other" category twenty-seven are in Mt. Lake Park, and 29 in East Oakland.

Where the registration is close for Republicans and Democrats there are three districts with Deer Park 241 Democrats and 293 Republicans; Red House, 120 Democrats and 150 Republicans; and Friendsville, 302 Democrats and 368 Republicans.

The official registration count on October 10, 1972, showed a total of 9,854 voters, with 3,838 Democrats and 5,839 Republicans, a difference of 2,001.

Mountain Top Gets More Moisture

Dairymen Show Concern At Prices

Dairy farmers of the county are expressing grave concern over the constant and continuous rise in the price of feed and the constant and continuous reduction in the price they receive for milk.

A dairy farmer provided these figures yesterday:

In April the cost of feed was $116 per ton. In August the cost of feed was $169 per ton, an increase of $53 per ton. At the same time the price he received for milk in April was $9.30 per 100 pounds. In July the price he received for milk was $7.61, a drop of $1.69 per one hundred pounds.

The dairy farmers are feeling the increase of imports has a lot to do with the fluctuation in the cost of things and the price one gets for milk.

This particular farmer used some two tons per week for feed He predicted that if the cost of feed and the price the dairy farmer receives for his milk did not improve soon, that a number of them would not be able to continue in business.

Tri-County Development Plan Viewed

Garrett County Commissioners were in Hagerstown last week at the Tri County Council for Western Maryland meeting, to review the Appalachian Maryland Development plan with members of the council from Washington and Allegany counties.

They explained the plan addressed itself to the three counties and their needs for orderly development. Primary concern was water and sewage needs for areas of anticipated growth.

The Washington county members, along with Hagerstown members, raised objections to the plan with their primary opposition being against the council's emphasis on Allegany and Garrett. Chairman of the Tri-County Council, Wayne B. Hamilton, Oakland, directed the planning department to take into consideration Washington county's concerns. It was noted by Edward Heath, executive director of the council, that the Appalachian Regional Commission, the federal agency responsible for approving the plan and funding the needed projects, found no favoritism toward any of the counties involved. Mr. Hamilton directed the planning department to review Washington county's concerns in the light of the Appalachian Regional Commission's comments.

The council also approved the project package which includes four projects for this county. They also set priorities for review before it goes to the state representative for the Appalachian regional commission. Projects for this county include: Garrett Community college vocational education program; Garrett Health Department, Grantsville Health Center and Pediatric Residency, a vocational guidance counselor for Garrett Community college. A total of sixteen projects is included in the package.

County Commissioners Earl E. Opel and Bernard M. Guy are also members of the council and supported projects for this county.

Rockefeller spoke only briefly in response to his selection, saying the call to the vice presidency "makes me very humble" and that if confirmed his purpose would be to serve the President and "all the people of this great country."

Wage and price controls were again under study in August.

Advanced Energy Systems

The gasoline shortage of the past winter has been almost forgotten by the American people. With resumption of oil shipments from the Middle East shortages of fuel have virtually disappeared and the problem of long-range energy needs suddenly seems remote. But students of the nation's energy situation know that the energy crisis has not permanently vanished.

Thus scientists and technologists are seeking new sources of energy for the United States. Recently selected scientists met in this city under the auspices of the Edward Teller Center of Science, Technology and Political Thought to consider how America can achieve a higher degree of energy self sufficiency through the use of advanced energy systems.

Dr. Edward Teller the great nuclear scientist after whom the Center is named pointed out in an introduction to the meeting that "the development of promising new energy sources must continue hand in hand with fossil fuel use to meet America's energy demands." Thus speakers at this meeting discussed fusion power, geothermal energy and solar power. Each of these advanced energy systems has its advocates. Each has a potential for meeting the energy needs of the most productive nation on earth.

Dr. T. K. Fowler of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in California described the advantages of the still experimental fusion process which eventually will replace today's nuclear reactors. Striving to master fusion power is an important goal for the United States. As Dr. Fowler noted, "Fusion fuels are non-radioactive and, ideally, all radioactive byproducts are completely borned up in the reactor. Moreover the fusion fuels are abundantly available in the oceans and the amount consumed would be a drop in the bucket." But fusion power won't be a practical reality until the 1980's.

Sen. Peter Dominick and Dr. J. D. Balcomb of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory described advances in solar power. Progress is being made in the application of solar power to the heating of dwellings and of dwellings and offices. A considerable number of solar-heated buildings are under construction. Again, however, solar is not the answer to the overall needs of the world's largest industrial nation.

Some very exotic power systems are being developed, such as solar sea power, which was described by Dr. Clarence Zener of Carnegie-Mellon University. This involves utilization of temperature differences in the ocean. Dr. Zener believes that solar sea power "will render nuclear power economically obsolete in the 1980's." Perhaps.

It is clear, however, for the forseeable future that the principal advanced energy system is that which utilizes the nuclear reactor. The use of nuclear power has been retarded, however, because of opposition from anti-nuclear crusaders who say that the danger of accidents is enormous. They would ban nuclear power plants.

One of the most fascinating and instructive papers delivered at the Teller Center conference was that presented by Dr. Richard Wilson, Harvard University's Physics Dept. He presented a "risk-benefit analysis" of nuclear power.

"Man often takes risks, and always has," he said. "The purpose of risk-benefit analysis is not to stop man's taking risks but to help man to choose the risks he wishes to take." He analyzed the number of deaths per million megawatts of produced electricity, depending on the type of fuel. For coal, the number of deaths is 1,000 by black lung disease, plus 60 deaths by accidents. For uranium mining, Colorado noted "the anti-technology crusaders are opposing a orthodox fusion. As Dr. Peter Beckman of the University of [illegible] rate per unit of energy produced by a factor of no less than 15,000."

Americans have come to accept thousands of deaths on the nation's highways. They don't demand that Detroit halt automobile production. But they are very fearful of commerical nuclear power which has never caused a single fatailty and which, in the worst accident, could not result in the highway death toll of one Labor Day or Fourth of July holiday.

While the Teller Center conference was designed for scientists, it served another important public purpose in helping educate Americans about the realities and opportunities in the advanced energy fields.

"Death Row" in U.S. prisons is getting longer.

The Soviet Union is now engaged in the largest peacetime military buildup in the history of man. In the face of all this, on January 8, 1971, the Soviet Defense Minister called for the STRENGTHENING of the Soviet military might and additional military spending. Russia can afford it! The American taxpayer seems willing to subsidize all the other industrial developments, even the purchase of wheat to feed the Russian communists, ad infinitum. We are subsidizing an international trade center in Moscow, natural gas exploration, installation of machinery for a truck factory on the Kama River, a canal, a valve-making plant, a loan to build a huge steel mill at Kursk which will be constructed by three West German companies. In addition, American taxpayers are also letting Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia in on the gravy train. Those countries had loans approved on March 23, 1971 in the amount of $50.5 million. These loans involve a number of projects in petrochemicals, computer systems, textiles, aircraft sales and machine plants. No wonder the Soviet Union can call for an even greater expansion of its military buildup spending. Americans are selling rope on a scale never even dreamed of by Lenin in 1921 when he predicted we would rush to sell the rope with which to hang our capitalist economy. Already the U. S. National debt is bigger than the national debts of all the rest of the world.

DETENTE is defined as a relaxation of strained relations or tensions. The price of detente as such, should be born multilaterally in concessions from both sides. So far, the only concession Russia has made, and it is a most dubious one, is they may send Russian made automobiles to be sold on the American market in competition with our American automobile industry. That still is a maybe, which is being strongly opposed by the Detroit automobile industry. In Detroit alone there are 100,000 U. S. auto-workers now on food stamps, not because they are striking, but because they are indefinitely unemployed. This is another cost of detente to the American taxpayer, who, to date, has born the entire cost of detente unilaterally with the Soviet Union receiving all the concessions and giving nothing.

Here are just a few examples of 1974 rope selling by American business, with the encouragement and full blessing of the Federal Government and its several lending institutions: $80 million worth of ball valves from Cameron Iron Company; $12 million worth of crawler tractors for pipeline construction, from International Harvester; $20 million worth of valves from Wallworth Company; $3.5 million worth of oil exploration items from Halliburton-Welex and Dresa Industries; $2.5 million worth of anti-blowout controls from Kooney-Stewart-Stevenson; 500 submersible oil pumps from Reeder Pump and Byron Jackson; Thousands of tons of pipeline coating from Kendall Polychemical. These facts were reported in a column by Paul Scott, March 23, 1974, who also reported that Commerce Department officials confirm that more and bigger deals of this kind are in the making and are currently under consideration.

Armco Steel Corporation has just signed a five-year scientific and technical exchange agreement with the Soviet Union. This company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, will trade with Russia in the field of iron metalurgy and in offshore oil field equipment.

Services Held For Burn Victim

Additional information was available this week in the death of Mrs. Marion McGinnis, 65, when a fire destroyed her home near Aurora, W. Va., last Wednesday, August 14.

Mrs. McGinnis was upstairs in her home when the fire was spotted by a driver of a Clem Teets oil trock.

Mr. McGinnis was working in his home workshop which is separated from the house. Mr. McGinnis tried to reach his wife but was driven back by flames and smoke. He and the truck driver tried to put up a ladder on the outside of the house but this also proved to be unsuccessful.

Volunteer firemen from Aurora and Rowlesburg answered the call but they were unable to rescue Mrs. McGinnis. The home was entirely destroyed by the flames. Cause of the blaze was not known.

Born October 15, 1908, in Fairmont, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late Edgar C. and Laura L. Hess Stemple.

She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and a graduate of Fairmont State college. She had been active in church work, dramatics and Browne Scouts in Fairmont.

She is survived by her husband, Frederic D. McGinnis; two daughters, Mrs. Alice L. Penzo, Hyattsville, Mrs. Laura L. Frye, Bethesda; a son, James E. McGinnis, Virginia; two brothers, Lewis L. Stemple and Frederick H. Stemple, both of Aurora and three grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Minnich-Stewart funeral home in Oakland before being taken to Pittsburgh for cremation.

The remains were returned to Aurora where a memorial service was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran Church with Rev. Donald Thomas, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Aurora cemetery.

The government hiked the home loan interest rate to 9.5 percent.

Miss Riggs Enlists In Army Tuesday

Miss Bea Mae Riggs, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin A. Riggs, Grantsville, was enlisted Tuesday, August 20, in the Army for participation in the WRAIN (Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing) Program which is sponsored by the Army in conjunction with the University of Maryland.

Miss Riggs was sworn into the Army by Capt. Sharon B. Hayes from the Pittsburgh Recruiting District, who came to Cumberland for the swearing-in ceremony in the recruiting office on George Street.

She will leave Sunday to begin her tuition-free education, estimated at $25,000 for her four years' schooling at the University.

Daredevil Won't Jump; Riot Ensues

An estimated 15,000 to 25,000 persons rioted Sunday at Appalachia Lake, near Brucetom Mills, after a motorcycle daredevil, Bob Gill, canceled a planned 200 foot jump across the lake.

The people became angered when Gill, a St. Petersburg, Fla., motorcyclist, reneged on the jump, blaming inclement weather, and the admission price of $6 per adult and $2 per child was not refunded.

When told there could be no refunds, fans allegedly ripped up a specially built ramp and tore down telephone lines.

Promoters had deposited proceeds from ticket sales in the night deposit vault of a nearby bank and were unable to refund ticket money, the United Press International stated.

Rain checks were said to have been issued to the fans, with the tickets containing either August 25 or 26 for the jump.

The jump was supposed to have been made at 2 p.m. Sheriff deputies and state police were sent to the scene in riot gear to quell the disturbance. No injuries were reported.

Some 200 fans, incensed by the long wait and then cancellation, stormed Gill's ramp and tore it down, then moved on to the box office and then ripped down the resort's entrance sign and firebombed the office and latrine area, authorities said.

The Daredevil had planned to use a specially built Kawasaki motorcycle for the jump. In pre-jump publicity he had billed the attempt as more dangerous than E. Knievel's planned rocket powered leap over the Snake River canyon. Gill had criticized Knievel's attempt at "the greatest ripoff of the American public in sports history."

2-Vehicle Mishap Injures Two In Oakland Saturday

A car-truck accident at the corner of Center and Wilson streets in Oakland last Saturday evening resulted in two persons being treated and released from the hospital.

James Gallagher, Oakland, driver of the truck and Charles A. Graham, Lanham, driver of the car, were taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Gallagher, headed north on Wilson street, failed to stop at a "stop" sign and collided with the Graham car headed east on Center street.

Officer Frank Finch of the Oakland Police investigated.

A two-car rear end collision occurred last Friday afternoon at Oak and Eighth streets, in Oakland, because of a third car.

Officer Finch investigated this accident also.

Searching Records

If you want to spend some intriguing time, take off to the Land Records Office in the Oakland courthouse But double the time you expect to stay, for two hours of extended searching will inevitably lead to four, there is no avoiding it

I parked on Alder Street, being careful to apply the emergency brake, for this is a true Garrett County street. No one said a word at my entrance into the records room; everyone was busy typing or looking for something. We settled down to an intense pace, with plenty of grimaces but serious intent.

My intended search began in the very first folio, which shows, in the graceful old script, the act which created the county and marked its metes and bounds, carrying the signature of Gov William Pinkney Whyte. Readers may wish to note that the confines are "all that part of Allegany County lying south and west of a line beginning at the summit of Big Back Bone or Savage Mountain, where that mountain is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line and running thence by a straight line to the middle of Savage River where it empties into the Potomac River; thence by a straight line to the nearest point or boundary of the State of West Virginia; then with the said boundary to the Fairfax Stone." The Fairfax Stone actually is two miles inside West Virginia, so we were robbed just a bit

There are plenty of extra gleanings in a search for old deeds and records. For example, one finds that a great-great grandmother, born and reared in Germany, could not sign her name, but made her mark. As early as 1873, a Schley was purchasing from the "Rich Level" land patent and being wise enough to reserve for himself all resources found "upon or under the surface of the land herein described." So much for early mineral rights

It is also possible to learn who the influential people were. A Daniel J. Foley, of Baltimore owned land at Finzel when it was purchased in 1881, and the name of James W. McCulloch reappears in many local governmental machinations leading to the formation of our county. And the Puritanical temperaments of our forebearers in the Mountain Lake Association (John B. Van Meter, president) made it a condition for Mr. Freysinger not to "buy, sell or use as a beverage any intoxicating drink, spiritous or malt liquor, wine, or cider" on the premises or in any building there, or the state should determine that the former owner may "have again the ground and premises . . . as if this deed had never been executed."

A rural environ shows through in some deeds, as in the case of Richard F. Browning, who bought from Andrew and Mary Kimmell not only 50 acres, which was Military Lot 1129, but with it he retained all improvements, plus "six head of horses, Tom, Charlie, George, Silver, Ellen, and Bill, three road wagons, eight sets of harness and two milch cows." In 1884, you see, someone bought a whole farm and worked from that September day to continue the prosperity of the place I wonder if he stayed there long.

The zenith in my discoveries was the painstaking work evidenced in the report of Dr. L. A Bauer, who used three possible methods for determining Garrett County's eastern boundary on the land itself. His report carries a full evaluation of work done before on this line, somehow, no one did it with satisfying accuracy. I am sure that no one but a present day hiker or engineer could appreciate Bauer's concise explanations of the considerations in evolving the truest line between Allegany and Garrett County. It was finally done by triangulation drawings are shown between points at High Rock, Sampson's Rock, Initial (where the Mason-Dixon crosses Big Savage), and a point termed Jackson Try that for size by using a topographical map When the survey necessitated finding the middle of the Savage River, from whence the line is drawn, it was observed that "Both rivers flow against the ledge of hard sandstone rock, which forms the base of Franklin hill. Waters there are of different colors," enabling the geologists to determine the middle of the Savage as it empties into the Potomac.

Thus my findings ended, so as rubbed eyes, closed the volumes and returned to the automobile holding staunchly to its position I knew that pleasure comes from intense research. Exactly four hours had evolved from my allotted two

Do visit your land records office, and start reading from any point. It has more old puzzles than you can ever conjecture, but what joy there is in trying to find solutions! There's more than land in those old books. I didn't even get to the marriage records

Is The Constitution Outmoded?

The Young Americans for Freedom, the John Birch Society, and all involved citizens are to be commended for their outstanding displays at the Fair. Largely due to their educational efforts, local citizens are becoming increasingly aware of crucial ISSUES which could endanger the Constitutional rights of the American people.

Even those of us who normally don't vote are beginning to understand how important and precious our voting privilege is. It is vitally important that we all consider the important ISSUES in the upcoming election. Persons are to be considered only insofar as these persons have the wisdom and strength of conviction to conserve the best interests of the American people AS OUTLINED IN THE U. S. CONSTITUTION. Much propaganda has been circulating in the universities and the news media — that the Constitution is "outmoded" and no longer addresses itself to "modern" problems. Many sincere, but misinformed "Liberal" college profs and columnists say that our FORM of GOVERNMENT needs "modification" to cope with "modern environmental, social, and international developments." Right? Wrong!

What needs "modification" is not the Constitution, but the Establishment -- that is, the status quo, the way things are now. There is a big difference, you know. Many people are under the impression that our form of government is to blame for the overinflated bureaucracy, complete with its inflationary spending programs, high taxes, and over-regulation of our lives — (not to mention, Watergate). Nothing could be further from the truth. The Constitution delegates certain powers to the Federal Government, and then reserves all the rest to the "States respectively, or to the people.", (Tenth Amendment). There is no provision in the Constitution for the Federal Government to subsidize, and thereby control our schools, our police, or our local governments.

Conservators of our Constitution are the true conservatives. Those who seek to preserve the liberal Establishment (with all its socialistic HEW and HUD handouts, inflationary deficit spending, no-win wars and "detente" with our ideological enemies) ARE NOT CONSERVATIVES. Whether they know it or not, the "liberals" are working to institutionalize a massive bureaucracy capable of imposing controls over every aspect of our lives.

So, vote! But not just for anybody — a vote for a corrupt, ignorant, or spineless politician is worse than no vote at all! How would you like to find that the Senator you voted for supported a bill to re-write the U. S. Constitution? Believe it or not, there are men in the U. S. Senate who would like to do just that.

So what are the issues? How about the County-Wide Zoning and Planning Commission? How much power would this agency have? How about an elected school board? You pay for the schools with your tax money, so shouldn't you have some say as to who chooses the courses and the textbooks? Just how far are your candidates going to bend in order to "be in compliance" for Federal and State funds for the new schools and all the other projects in the County? There are always strings attached to Federal handouts.

How can you know your candidates? The local chapter of the League of Women Voters offers one open forum, and so does the Switchboard program on WMSG. Remember, if you are informed, you can influence others to vote intelligently.

By Rev. W. H. Leake, Deer Park, Md.

Well, Americans, he did it! Over 200 million to choose from and "our", the President, chose one of the least qualified of all men we know to be his vice-president and represent the Traditionally Conservative Republican Party.

Nelson Rockefeller is a SOCIALIST from way back and why Mr. Ford would choose him proves to this writer only one thing, WE OFTEN CHANGE MEN IN THE WHITE HOUSE, EVEN POLITICAL PARTIES BUT WE NEVER CHANGE DIRECTIONS, ALWAYS LEFTWARD AND DOWNWARD. Please remember, fellow conservatives, it was Nelson Rockefeller who caused Johnson to be elected over Goldwater in 1964, it was during the Primaries that he made popular the Atom Bomb Scare, etc. He was Governor in New York from 1958 until recently and N. Y. State has the highest state and local taxes in the entire Nation. He vetoed Legislation that would have curbed abortion on demand in N. Y.; he is a strong advocate of Gun Control; he is a tireless worker for a ONE WORLD ORDER; ... and ON and ON we could go. In fact, it would take volumes to tell of all of his socialist and communist leanings, just suffice it to say here, that Rockefeller's appointment proves that Gerold Ford is not his own man as he told us he was or else he is not the conservative that he has led us to believe he is; and either way TRUTH IS STILL A RARE ITEM IN WASHINGTON, D. C. BY THE WAY, WHAT HAPPENED TO TRUTH IN LABELING, OR DOES IT NOT APPLY TO POLITICIANS?

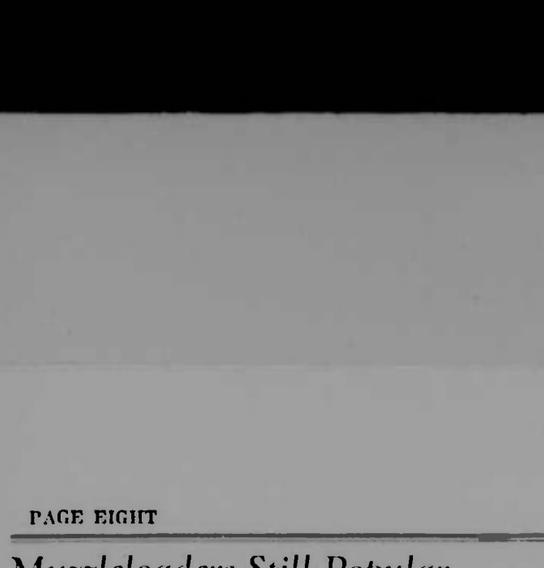
Muzzleloaders Still Popular For Sport, Recreation



A haze of powder obliterates the view temporarily after each shot from a muzzleloader. To the right is one of the targets on the hunter s walk competition.

By Carol Canan

August 10 and 11, groups of men and women from the tri-state area gathered on a hilltop high above Bayard, W. Va. for a muzzleloaders' trophy meet. The men, usually clad in buckskins and toting long-barreled rifles and some women, also with old-fashioned rifles, competed in several events to determine those with the best aim.

These muzzleloaders are a curious mixture of old and new fashions—old buckskins and modern sports clothes, beards and long hair, moccasins, campers, vans, a wigwam, motorcycles, coonskin hats and long rifles.

To become one of this group you need only a muzzleloading rifle costing about $175 factory made or $500 if handmade to order by a gunsmith. All other items, except powder, patches and ball, are extras, not requirements.

Chief among the gunsmiths in the area is Keith Casteel, proprietor of Backbone Mountain Village near Gormer, along 219 south. His handcrafted guns, of curley maple with hand-carved designs in German silver, brass or gold, sell for nearly any price he cares to name.

He and his wife Anna, co-owners of the shop, are prime movers in the Alleghany Mountaineers Muzzleloading Club, formed about three years ago, with members from the tri-state area. At present, there are about 35 male and female members whose central purpose revolves around muzzleloaders . . . their capabilities, uses, and owners' skills.

Anna Casteel displays very nice form in the tomahawk throw. All three Casteel children can also throw tomahawks, which come in sizes for men, women and children.

At their matches, held on the second Sunday of each month all summer, participants vie for prizes in several areas, including 25 yard offhand, 50 yard benchrest, hunter's walk, and tomahawk and knife throwing.

In a trophy match held at the club's meeting place above Bayard, winners were Keith Casteel, first; Owen Rowe, Morgantown, second; and Gale Wilson, third, in the 25 yard offhand.

Winners in the 50 yard benchrest competition were Keith Casteel, Owen Rowe and Bill Swisher. Offhand and benchrest aggregate high scorer was Richard VanNosdeln.

Ernie Carr was first in the tomahawk throwing match. In hunter's walk, Gale Wilson had the highest score, Bill Swisher second highest, and Ernie Carr third.

Georgia Rowe was top scorer in the ladies match, Margaret Swisher second and Anna Casteel third.

In the 25 yard offhand, muzzleloaders are not rested against anything but the holder's arm and shoulder. In the benchrest, each competitor uses a gunrest of some kind, either a log or, more often, a desk-like contraption built by the owner to offer a combination shooting table, and back and side rest.

Akin to the [illegible] are the [illegible] posted at the hunter's walk. Here buck [illegible] pants and some kind of frontier hat. Mrs. Casteel, [illegible] who gets them almost clean as new. There are products which will clean the leather, but the washing machine is much faster and handier.

While his wife has made many of the buck-skin outfits for the club, Mr. Casteel has made many of the rifles. John Cunningham, Farmington, Pa., has also begun to make guns, and for those who trust their own skills and ability to follow directions, muzzleloading kits are available for do-it-yourselfers.

Each gun, whether flintlock or caplock, can fire only one shot, which is okay for the competition grounds but probably not so good when early pioneers faced an angry bear, mountain lion or Indian. After each shot, the barrel is cleaned with a patch and cleaning rod, then a new powder charge must be measured out, patch and ball rammed in, and either the flash-powder or cap put in, or on. Then all that's necessary to be ready to fire is to pull the trigger back.

Competition requires a keen eye, steady hand, and lots of patience. Patience is necessary there on top of the hill, where the wind is nearly always blowing and the least breeze can push the muzzle a little too far to the left or right. In the 25 and 50 yard shoots, round tar-

Owen Rowe, vice president of the Allegheny Mountaineers, has been practicing his tomahawk throwing and muzzleloader shooting for about ten years.

Mr. Casteel rams home the powder and ball prior to shooting another target on the hunter's walk competition of the Allegheny Mountaineer Muzzleloading Club.

Clayton Miller, Route 2, Oakland, listens as Keith and Larry give him some pointers on throwing the knife, a feat which is easier to watch than to do.

Muzzleloaders

[illegible] cards are used. In Hunter Walk, cards with a [illegible] crow and turkey are placed about 25 yards from the [illegible] and a card with a deer about 50 yards from the muzzleloader. Cards are collected and scored to determine the winner of each event. In tomahawk throwing, a playing card is placed on the log which is about seven steps from the contestants.

An especially interesting muzzleloaders' competition is called the Flint Seneca Run, a timed match when the competitor must load and fire three shots, one of which must strike a tomahawk blade, which splits the ball, the halves of which in turn must strike two pennies, then the men must build a fire with flint and steel, and throw the tomahawk and knife.

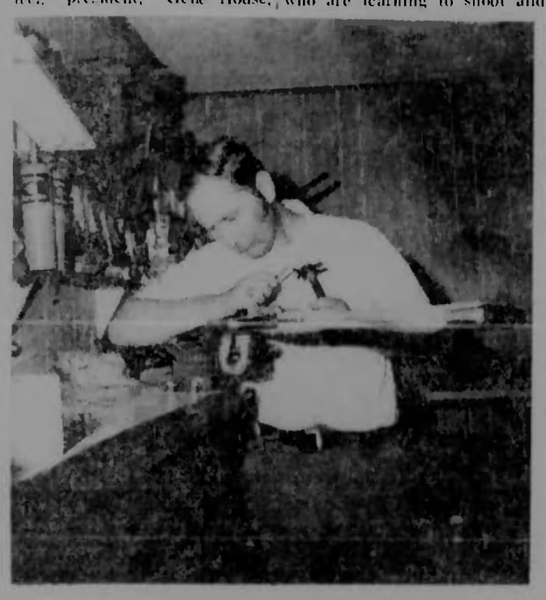
The Casteels' shop is a fascinating display of guns new and "old," fishing and hunting gear, and moccasins made by the Cherokee Indians in Cherokee, N. C., all interspersed with animal head trophies shot by Mr. Casteel, callskin rugs, and trophies won by the entire Casteel family in shooting events.

There are three young Casteels, Teresa, 13, who has won two trophies shooting a .22 at the annual Oakland Optimists club's Junior Rifle Safety program; Alisa, 11, and Karen, 5, who are learning to shoot and who can throw the tomahawk.

Coonskin caps, fringed leather pouches and leather handbags are also attractively displayed in the Backbone Village shop near Gortner.



Very carefully, Mr. Casteel adds the engravings to a muzzleloader he is currently making for Gene House, Lonaconing. Old-fashioned designs are chiseled free-hand in the German silver, brass or gold inlay.

Mr. Casteel quit his job as director of Engineering for the northern division of Island Creek Coal Company after 14 years, and opened the shop last November. His interest in muzzleloading can be traced back at least 15 years.

He now devotes full time to making muzzleloaders to order, even down to the hand engraving on silver inlays with old-fashioned tools, including a handmade chisel and special hammer. He also does carvings on powder horns made from cow horns, and a complete relief map of the Canaan Valley area is on his personal powder horn. He has carved some horns to order for his customers.

He estimates that 95 percent of the guns he sells are for use in competition and hunting, and not for display.

Black powder caps, balls and ball molds are for sale in their shop. They also have coon or fox skin caps, leather pouches and handbags, deerskin gloves, trigger guards, powder flask, modern rifles and shotguns, muzzleloading shotguns, compound bows, muzzleloading cap and ball pistols, kits to make pistols, half and full stock rifles, leather hats, fishing gear and tomahawks and custom knives made by Keith. It takes from eight to ten hours to make one of these knives, which usually sport a bone or horn handle.

The shop also offers books on Indian life, and gunbuilding.

Mr. Casteel and family usually attend the National Muzzleloading Match at Friendship, Ind. each spring and fall, where he has won four trophies.

Shades of Meshack Browning indeed, since Keith is a great, great, great, great, great-grandson of the famous hunter. Meshack, if he could speak about his descendants would probably say, "Right on, Keith."

A variety of muzzleloaders, including one made for a young boy or girl, which is at the top, left, decorates the walls of the Backbone Village Mountain Rifle Shop. In the foreground is the rifle Keith has turned down $1,500 for, as he made it for himself and plans to take it elk hunting later this year.

Seeking Bids On Resurfacing Of Bloomington Hill

The State Highway administration is seeking bids for the resurfacing of 2.74 miles westward from the Garrett county line on State route 135, with bituminous concrete. This would include improvement of Bloomington hill.

Upon receiving the news Delegate DeCorsey Bolden said this was welcome news to the people of the county, particularly following the unfortunate experience with the "tar and chips" that were placed on the highway earlier this summer.

Deadline date for submission of bids is September 5 and the work was scheduled for completion this Autumn.

Barbecue a Brace of Duckling

On a warm evening or on a lovely autumn weekend, a cooling outdoor dinner party is in order.

To barbecue a brace of duckling is to cook the finest outdoor meal of the season. The all-American fowl is exquisite to the taste buds, a picture for the eyes. Available all year long in frozen meat display cases of the nation's supermarkets, the duck is handy to keep in the freezer.

For four delighted diners, one duckling will suffice. A brace of duckling will provide servings for eight. To cook the duckling outside, a rotisserie spit can be used, a covered unit or an ordinary grill. Some male chefs prefer to quarter the duckling and let the pieces roast on the grill. Other men prefer the bird twirling on a spit.

Barbecued duckling with rice stuffing is cooked in a covered unit. The duck cooks nicely and browns beautifully. This method of outdoor cooking is one of the few which allows for stuffing, often a favorite with the bird. Almost any accompaniments blend well with the magnificent main course. Tomatoes (home grown are delicious when heated on the grill) take to a topping of shredded cheese. Green beans, too, can be heated on the grill. If there's corn on the cob to be had, the outdoor diners will enjoy it served aside the duck.

A fresh spinach salad with a special oil and vinegar dressing and topped with crumbled bacon is a treat to everyone, though some folks still opt for a frosty fruit salad, featuring the best fruits and berries of the season. A tall cool pitcher of lemonade is thirst-quenching for some.

Barbecued Duckling with Rice Stuffing

1 frozen duckling 4 to 5 pounds, defrosted; 1½ teaspoons salt, water, ¼ cup uncooked rice, ¼ cup chopped celery, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, ¼ cup orange marmalade.

Wash, drain and pat duckling dry with paper toweling. Sprinkle neck and body cavities with ½ teaspoon salt. Prepare stuffing. Add water as needed to cook rice as directed on package label, using 1 teaspoon salt. Sauté celery in butter until tender and mix with cooked rice. Fill neck and body cavities loosely with stuffing mixture. Use a sharp knife to make a cut between the thigh joint and breast to permit a draining of excess fat during cooking.

Truck Driver "Fair" After Runaway Mishap at Kitzmiller

Camile Bernardo, 63, route 2, Force Road, Connecticut, was taken first to Garrett County Memorial Hospital about 2:20 p. m. by a vehicle from the David A. Burdock Funeral Home, Kitzmiller. He was transferred to the Medical Center about 6 p.m., accompanied by a nurse from the Oakland hospital.

Maryland State Police report Bernardo was traveling south on Route 38, and that when he applied the brakes they failed to function, apparently due to the speed at which he was traveling and the heavy load he was hauling. According to Tpr. C. H. Hinnant, who investigated, the rig was in fourth gear after it came to a stop. Mr. Bernardo was pinned inside the vehicle for a time.

Damage to the rig and bulldozer was estimated at $5,000. Charges are pending, according to Tpr. Hinnant.

Free, Reduced Price Meal, Milk Policies Listed For Schools

The Garrett County Board of Education today announced its policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for school children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served in schools under the National School Lunch and Special Milk programs.

Eligibility is determined by a family size-wage scale which local school officials have adopted. Families with unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child and disaster or casualty losses are also eligible to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional forms are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits.

Under the provision of the policy, the principal of the school or his designee will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to William Watson, Jr., Supervisor of Cafeterias, Garrett County Board of Education, Oakland, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

A complete copy is on file in each school and in the office of the Supervisor of Cafeterias.

Schedule For Proposed Bus System Reviewed

At a regular meeting of the county commissioners this week members reviewed the schedule for the proposed county bus system. The state of Maryland has prepared the specifications on the buses with awarding of the bids expected in mid-September and delivery of buses anticipated the first of October.

Three buses will be used, to be made available through the Maryland Department of Transportation. At Monday's meeting the commissioners agreed to lease buses at a cost of five percent of the total purchase price.

One is to be used in the Grantsville, Friendsville and Accident areas, another in the southern portion of the county at Red House, Bloomington and Kitzmiller. The third bus will function as a "swing bus," used for special trips or in event of breakdowns.

Chairman Wayne B. Hamilton, revealed he had written letters to Congressman Goodloe Byron and Senator J. Glenn Beall regarding the economic situation confronting local dairy farmers. Mr. Hamilton pointed out that the price for milk had dropped 40 cents at the farm level while the price of feed rose by $10 per ton. It was further pointed out that these farm prices, unless stabilized, could cause an economic pinch for local farmers which would affect the county's economy.

Commissioners also announced that the cost to the owner for picking up a lost or stray dog would be $2, and cost for keeping the dogs would be a dollar a day until the owner claims his dog. The dog law states that any dog kept for ten days must be killed. Rising costs for dog food and maintenance of the county pound were cited as the main reasons for the price increase. Commissioners urged residents to comply with the dog law to help keep costs down.

As a Roads board, chairman Opel inspected several county roads near the construction site for the National Freeway. He said, "If we don't keep a check on conditions of county roads after the Freeway is open we may have many unexpected bills to pay at the county taxpayer's expense."

He added that all problems caused by this construction are directed to the State Highway Administration, which is responsible for seeing that county roads are returned to the condition they were before construction began.

Commissioners met with residents of the Chestnut Grove road regarding the condition of their road, anticipating it being fixed before winter. Mr. Opel said that all county roads are on a schedule and that the Chestnut Grove repair work has been delayed because of the unexpected washout last spring of the Spring Lick road.

SENSING THE NEWS

ANTHONY HARRIGAN
Southern States Industrial Council

The Super-Planning Bill

The mania for government planning continues to spread despite clear evidence that the American people prefer to make their own decisions about the character of their communities and the quality of their lives. The office-holding industry is determined that decision-making be made by professional planners.

Evidence of this is presented with extraordinary clarity in legislation introduced by Sen. Hubert Humphrey. I refer to Senate Bill 3050, a bill to establish a federal office of Balanced National Growth and Development. Sen. Humphrey sees the nation continuing "along the path of haphazard growth and frequent environmental, economic and social crises."

The Senator reveals his outlook most clearly in his assertion that "continued unplanned growth — without goals and guiding policies — will stimulate thousands, even millions, of uncoordinated individual personal and community responses to the aggravated problems of everyday living."

From this statement, one can conclude that Sen. Humphrey does not believe in the full exercise of individual judgment in everyday living. Indeed great numbers of Americans strongly believe that the secret of this country's wealth and success as a society lies in the system that allows for millions of uncoordinated personal and community responses to the problems of everyday living. Indeed this is the essence of a free society and a free economy. The opposite to this is a socialist society in which all planning is centralized. In other words, Sen. Humphrey would establish what a majority of Americans most want to avoid.

Sen. Humphrey wants national policies "incorporating population distribution goals, land use objectives, economic growth targets, and the like." But most Americans don't want those things. Certainly, there is no evidence whatsoever that Americans want federal agencies to be able to decree how many people will live in a given area. That is the concept of influx control, a concept alien to our constitutional system. That Sen. Humphrey would suggest "population distribution goals" indicates how far he is prepared to go in imposing a socialist blueprint on a free society.

Indeed Sen. Humphrey's bill is full of disturbing, questionable suggestions. For example, he recommends as a national goal "the development of a comprehensive and integrated national communications system to facilitate the dissemination of information conducive to an informed public . . ." That sounds like a proposal for a national ministry of information, a propaganda ministry. We already have too much of that sort of thing with government agencies pumping out propaganda and even suggesting to newspapers how they should run their business. The Office of Consumer Affairs, headed by Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, was a recent offender in this regard.

What the country needs is not a super planning agency but less governmental interference with the decisions made by individuals. The ordinary citizen already finds himself mired in bureaucratic regulations. Administrative law-making often denies a citizen's rights to which he is entitled. A property-owner finds he has not one but several public agencies with which he must deal in trying to get approval for a new use for his property. Sen. Humphrey would add a heavy new layer consisting of "multi-state regional planning and development commissions."

Sen. Humphrey's perception of the role of government planning is mistaken, in the view of many citizens. He views government as the logical controller of human activities, whereas many, many Americans know that government retards growth and development. Indeed excessive government is the problem in our country. America's productivity is greatest when government interference is minimized.

Hopefully, Senate Bill 3050 will die in the committee. It is an expression of those who believe in the maximum regulation society, those who would subject every individual decision to a bureaucratic veto.

How can we improve the County Roads Department?

1. We need a master plan extending 3 to 5 years into the future. This will answer the people's question "When are you going to fix my road?"
2. The law limiting expenditures, $125,000 per year, for new equipment is unrealistic today and needs changed. Under this limit the Roads Department is stuck with old, high-maintenance cost equipment.
3. We have many instances where an additional mile or two extension, to the existing paved road, would reach many homes now along dirt roads.

GIVEN COPY OF RESOLUTION — The Garrett County Commissioners adopted a resolution honoring John Yommer, Jennings resident, for his long standing service to the Jennings community. Byron Cites DST Repeal Legislation

Rep. Goodloe Byron yesterday supported the decision of the House Commerce Committee to repeal year-round daylight savings time (DST) in favor of observing standard time from November through February.

He said the new plan would eliminate the most objectionable features of winter DST and specifically solve the problem of late darkness in the mornings which affected school scheduling.

"A national public preference survey was conducted by the Department of Transportation indicating that a majority of the public would prefer daylight savings time from March through October and standard time from November through February," Byron said.

Byron also noted that energy savings under winter DST last year were "inconclusive" with the largest savings of approximately one percent occurring during March and April.

Earns Membership In Century Club

Mr. Adams joined the Bauer company in 1972 and was appointed to the position of Assistant Manager of the Oakland Home Center in January of 1974.

In becoming a member of the Century Club, he joins Charles Hesse and Robert Frantz, who qualified for membership earlier this year.

Century Club members must meet certain requirements, display outstanding courtesy to Bauer customers and be able to share technical knowledge that allows customers to enjoy home improvement projects around their homes.

The award for becoming a member of the Century Club was presented to Mr. Adams by Dick Harris, Manager of the Bauer Home center in Oakland.

Man Killed In Luke Woodyard

The victim was Holmes B. Haywood, 56, Piedmont. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser.

According to a Westvaco spokesman, Mr. Haywood was struck by a truck that was backing into the chip dumping area of the woodyard where he was working.

Rules Clarified On Voting For County Commissioners

The Board of Supervisors of Elections has been asked to clarify the rules concerning voting for county commissioners as many people mistakenly believe that they may vote for only one candidate.

Each voter may vote for one candidate in each of the three county districts, rather than just the candidate in his own resident district.

The Board notes that the voting machines are clearly marked, instructing voters to choose one candidate from each Commissioner district. In each polling place, there are two machine judges for each machine used. The judges instruct the voter regarding the operation of the machine, and give him or her an opportunity to operate the model before entering the voting machine. These judges are also qualified to answer any questions the voters may have concerning the ballot labels, number to vote for, etc.

If voters have any questions concerning an election, the Board of Supervisors of Elections encourages them to contact the office at 12 South Third Street, Oakland, prior to voting.

How embarrassing to recognize a person's face but be unable to recall his name! It happens to most of us occasionally.

God always knows us. His eye is always open to see us. His ear is always open to hear us. We can enjoy His acquaintance daily.

We can enjoy the Presence of God in a special way when we attend church. When we turn our attention fully upon Him, when we elevate our thinking to those matters which hold eternal value, God speaks in the warmest of tones.

Yes, God knows us. He calls us by name. He never forgets.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHATEVER YOU DO

Lesson for August 25, 1974

Background Scripture: Colossians 3:1 through 4:6
Devotional Reading: Colossians 3:1-11.

What are Christian relationships?

Sometimes we idealize what it means to be a Christian to the point that the gospel seems to become irrelevant to us. We think of a Christian person as one who is nearly perfect in terms of righteousness, of a Christian home as one in which there are no problems, of a Christian church as an ideal fellowship free of imperfections, and of a Christian community as one which is quite untainted by evil of any kind.

Rev. Althouse

Forgiving each other

If our experience is something less than these idealized images—as it almost always is—we are likely to be disillusioned and may even lose hope in the gospel because its aims seem so unattainable. Almost no one can ever match our expectations of what a Christian is supposed to be, including and especially ourselves. Our homes will always seem to have been judged and found greatly lacking. Our communities will seem hopeless and quite beyond redemption.

The Bible, however, is a good antidote to our overidealized images of Christian relationships.

The Book of Acts and the epistles of Paul give us many views of both individual Christians and congregations that are anything but perfect or even near perfection. For example, Paul counsels the Colossians: "forgiving each other" (3:12). What need would there be for Paul to give them that advice if the congregation at Colossae were relatively free from conflict? In fact, if the people there were ideal, there would be no reason for Paul to advise "compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience" (3:12). Nor would he have to speak of "forbearing one another" and what to do "if one has a complaint against another" (3:13).

In other words, the gospel, although it challenges us to the highest possible type of living, anticipates human failure and provides for it through the forgiveness of Jesus Christ.

Admonish one another

A second indication that things at Colossae were less than ideal is to be found in Paul's admonition for the Colossians to continue to grow in spirit. If the church at Colossae were even near perfect, there would be little need or room for growth. Actually, Paul is indicating that the church is not so much a place for those who have "arrived," as for those who are still making the journey.

Paul's counsel is still relevant for the churches and congregations of today, for many Christians obviously believe they have "arrived" and that growth is for others. "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly as you teach and admonish one another . . ." (3:16). No one, Paul is saying, ever is that near perfect that he has outgrown his need for the word of Christ and the admonishment of his brothers.

No, the goal is ever before us: "And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus . . ."

IT'S NOT JUST A SLIP OF PAPER

Every prescription is different. Ingredients, dose directions for use, storage are just a few of the things that may vary. However, one fact will be the same about every prescription that comes into this pharmacy. That is, it will be handled by the pharmacist as a vitally important document.

We realize that on that slip of paper a doctor is giving instructions that will hopefully help his patient to overcome an illness. Since we have been entrusted with it we feel it should get very special handling. After the medicine has been dispensed the written prescription is carefully recorded and filed away for safe-keeping and future reference.
